Annex I

Explanatory memorandum

Historical background

1. The ASEAN+3 Macroeconomic Research Office is an intergovernmental organization that functions as the regional macroeconomic surveillance unit for the members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (Brunei, Cambodia, Indonesia, Lao PDR, Malaysia, Myanmar, Philippines, Singapore, Thailand and Vietnam) plus China, Hong Kong, China, Japan and the Republic of Korea (ASEAN+3). The ASEAN+3 Macroeconomic Research Office is headquartered in Singapore.

2. The ASEAN+3 Macroeconomic Research Office was initially established in Singapore in 2011 as a company limited by guarantee. At that time, the members agreed to subsequently constitute the surveillance unit as an international organization with international legal personality to take over the role of the company, so that it could function effectively as an independent surveillance unit in the region.

Instrument establishing the ASEAN+3 Macroeconomic Research Office

3. The Agreement Establishing ASEAN+3 Macroeconomic Research Office was signed by the members of ASEAN+3 in Washington, D.C., on 10 October 2014. The treaty took effect on 9 February 2016, upon its ratification by at least eight signatories.

Purpose and function

4. Pursuant to article 2 of the Agreement, the purpose of the ASEAN+3 Macroeconomic Research Office is to contribute to securing the economic and financial stability of the region by conducting regional economic surveillance and supporting the implementation of the Chiang Mai Initiative Multilateralization, a multilateral liquidity support arrangement under the ASEAN+3 framework to address potential and actual balance-of-payment and short-term liquidity difficulties in the region.

5. To fulfil its purpose, under article 3 of the Agreement, the organization shall have the following functions:

(a) To monitor, assess and report to members on their macroeconomic status and financial soundness;

(b) To identify for members any macroeconomic and financial risks and vulnerabilities in the region and assist them, if requested, in the timely formulation of policy recommendations to mitigate such risks;

(c) To support members in the implementation of the Chiang Mai Initiative Multilateralization;

(d) To conduct such other activities necessary for achieving the purpose of the organization, as may be determined by its Executive Committee.

6. In order to fulfil its purpose and functions, the organization conducts consultations with each member on an annual basis. It independently, and without undue influence of any member, prepares such reports as it deems desirable in carrying out its purpose and functions and communicates its views informally and confidentially to any member on any matters arising under the Agreement that may affect such member. The organization shall publish such reports as it deems desirable for carrying out its purpose and functions, in accordance with the publication policy set by the Executive Committee (art. 5, paras. (b) to (d)).

7. The ASEAN+3 Macroeconomic Research Office is committed to contributing to the macroeconomic and financial stability of the region by conducting macroeconomic surveillance and supporting the implementation of the Chiang Mai Initiative Multilateralization. The organization sets its vision to be an independent, credible and professional regional organization acting as a trusted policy adviser to members in the ASEAN+3 region. In order to fulfil its mission and vision, the organization focuses on three core functions, namely, conducting macroeconomic surveillance, supporting the implementation of the Initiative and providing technical assistance to members.

8. With respect to its surveillance work, the organization's operational priorities are to further strengthen its country surveillance; to enhance its regional surveillance; to develop a comprehensive surveillance framework and analytical toolkits; and to enhance work on functional and/or sectoral surveillance and on thematic studies and research.

9. In order to support its members in the implementation of the Chiang Mai Initiative Multilateralization, the organization's efforts have centred on providing support to members to ensure that the Initiative is operationally ready, including through the drafting and revision of its operational guidelines, which specify relevant activation procedures, and the conduct of regular test runs under various scenarios. In addition, the organization has supported its members' authorities in laying the groundwork for the ongoing development of arrangements for the Initiative, providing advice and recommendations to members, for their review, on the International Monetary Fund (IMF) delinked portion and drawing up a plan for the periodic review of key terms and conditions of the Initiative.

10. The technical assistance offered by the ASEAN+3 Macroeconomic Research Office is designed with consideration for the development stage, country-specific environment and policy priorities of ASEAN+3 member economies in order to better meet their needs under a technical assistance framework. This work aims to create a platform to strengthen members' macroeconomic surveillance capacities and to facilitate knowledge-sharing among members and other international organizations through its programmes, namely, secondment, consultancy, and research and training.

11. The organization has also strengthened its partnerships with peer international organizations, such as IMF, the Asian Development Bank, the European Stability Mechanism and the Latin American Reserve Fund, as well as academic institutions and private financial institutions, by hosting, co-organizing and attending regional and global events on macroeconomic and financial issues.

Governance bodies

12. The governance structure of the ASEAN+3 Macroeconomic Research Office consists of the Executive Committee, the Advisory Panel, the Director and the staff, whose functions are as follows:

(a) Each member is represented on the Executive Committee, and, for this purpose, two deputies may be appointed, one from the member's Government, with responsibility for finance, and one from its central bank or its equivalent. The exception is Hong Kong, China, for which only one deputy may be appointed. The Executive Committee maintains strategic oversight of the organization and sets its policy directions;

(b) The Advisory Panel consists of not more than six members who are distinguished and respected economists and who are appointed by the Executive Committee. The Advisory Panel is independent from the Director and staff of the organization, and its members are accountable to the Executive Committee. The Advisory Panel is tasked with providing timely strategic, technical and professional input to the organization's macroeconomic assessments and recommendations to the Director;

(c) The Director is appointed by the Executive Committee and holds office on the terms determined by the Executive Committee. The Director represents the organization and conducts its current business, including the appointment of staff.

Observer status in the United Nations General Assembly

13. The ASEAN+3 Macroeconomic Research Office is an intergovernmental organization whose activities cover matters of interest to the General Assembly. Its purpose, to contribute to securing the economic and financial stability of the ASEAN+3 region and to supporting the implementation of the Chiang Mai Initiative Multilateralization, is consonant with the purposes and principles of the United Nations in promoting international cooperation in solving international economic problems.

14. In the Addis Ababa Action Agenda of the Third International Conference on Financing for Development, United Nations Member States recognized that a stable global macroeconomic environment would facilitate the implementation of policies that contribute to sustainable development. Member States also called for strengthened cooperation between IMF and regional financial arrangements, while safeguarding the independence of the respective institutions.

15. Granting the ASEAN+3 Macroeconomic Research Office observer status in the General Assembly would help to establish a firm basis for regular and well-organized cooperation between the organization and the United Nations in the implementation of policies that would contribute to a stable global macroeconomic environment. It would also broaden and deepen the organization's interactions with other countries and with regional and international organizations.

16. Given the interconnectedness of the global economy with regional economies, increased exchanges with the General Assembly would enhance the organization's capacity to carry out its functions, primarily macroeconomic surveillance and the timely formulation of policy recommendations in order to mitigate identified risks in the region.

17. Granting the ASEAN+3 Macroeconomic Research Office observer status in the General Assembly would be mutually beneficial, as it would enable the organization, given its expertise in the ASEAN+3 region, to provide input for discussions on the importance of macroeconomic surveillance, financial issues and the role of regional financial arrangements in the global financial safety nets.

18. In view of the above, the ASEAN+3 Macroeconomic Research Office meets the criteria set out in General Assembly decision 49/426 of 9 December 1994 regarding the granting of observer status, as it is an intergovernmental organization whose activities cover matters of interest to the Assembly.
