139. Financing and liquidation of the United Nations Transitional Authority in Cambodia

By its resolution 745 (1992) of 28 February 1992, the Security Council decided to establish the United Nations Transitional Authority in Cambodia (UNTAC) under its authority for a period not to exceed 18 months. By its resolution 840 (1993) of 15 June 1993, the Council endorsed the results of the election in Cambodia, which had been certified free and fair by the United Nations.

The United Nations Protection Force (UNPROFOR) was established by the Security Council on 21 February 1992 for an initial period of 12 months (resolution 743 (1992)). The mandate and strength of the Force were increased by the Council in subsequent resolutions. In response to the wishes of the host Governments of Croatia, Bosnia and Herzegovina and the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia, the Council decided on 31 March 1995 to establish three separate but interlinked peacekeeping operations as follows: by resolution 981 (1995), it established the United Nations Confidence Restoration Operation in Croatia (UNCRO); by resolution 982 (1995), it extended the mandate of UNPROFOR in the Republic of Bosnia and Herzegovina; and by resolution 983 (1995), it decided that UNPROFOR within the former Yugoslav Republic of Macedonia should be known as the United Nations Preventive Deployment Force (UNPREDEP).

By its resolution 1031 (1995) of 15 December 1995, it decided to terminate the mandate of UNPROFOR on the date on which the Secretary-General reported that the transfer of authority from UNPROFOR to the international Implementation Force established under the Peace Agreement, had taken place. That occurred on 20 December 1995. In a letter dated 1 February 1996 (S/1996/76), the President of the Security Council informed the Secretary-General of the Council's concurrence in principle with his recommendation the UNPREDEP become an independent mission.

At its resumed fifty-fourth session,¹² the General Assembly authorized the Secretary-General to retain an amount of $1,193,000 gross ($963,300 net) from the amount of $1,199,200 gross ($1,070,300 net) concurred in by the Advisory Committee from the unencumbered balance of $3,467,200 gross ($4,094,200 net) for the period from 1 July 1996 to 30 June 1997 to meet the cost of completing the liquidation of the mission; also authorized the Secretary-General to retain an amount of $179,899,700 gross and net from the balance of appropriations of $304,179,027 gross ($304,955,370 net) to meet the cost of outstanding government claims; requested the Secretary-General to present a more detailed explanation of the amounts required for reimbursement of contingent-owned equipment, including the impact of the retroactive application of the new procedures for contingent-owned equipment in the context of the final report on the combined Forces, and to reconsider the question at its fifty-fifth session; decided to keep under review the amounts budgeted for provision for reimbursement of contingent-owned equipment; and decided also to suspend for the immediate future the provisions of United Nations financial regulations 4.3, 4.4 and 5.2 (d) in respect of the remaining surplus of $124,279,327 gross ($125,055,670 net) in order to allow for reimbursements to troop contributors and in the

143. Financing of the United Nations Peacekeeping Force in Cyprus

By its resolution 186 (1964) of 4 March 1964, the Security Council recommended that a United Nations Peacekeeping Force in Cyprus (UNFICYP) be established and that it be stationed for three months with a mandate to use its best efforts to prevent a recurrence of fighting and, as necessary, to contribute to the maintenance and restoration of law and order and a return to normal conditions. Since then, the Council has periodically extended the mandate of UNFICYP, usually for periods of six months at a time. The latest extension was by resolution 1283 (1999), for a further period ending on 15 June 2000.

Until recently, UNFICYP was the only United Nations peacekeeping operation that was not financed from assessed contributions by States Members of the Organization. In its resolution 831 (1993), the Security Council decided that those costs of the Force which were not covered by voluntary contributions should be treated as expenses of the Organization with effect from the next extension of the Force's mandate on or before 15 June 1993.

At its resumed fifty-fourth session,¹³ the General Assembly decided to appropriate to the Special Account for UNFICYP the amount of $43,422,065 gross ($41,404,128 net) for

166. Election of judges of the International Tribunal for the Prosecution of Persons Responsible for Serious Violations of International Humanitarian Law Committed in the Territory of the Former Yugoslavia since 1991

The International Tribunal for the Prosecution of Persons Responsible for Serious Violations of International Humanitarian Law Committed in the Territory of the Former Yugoslavia since 1991 was established on 25 May 1993 by the Security Council in resolution 827 (1993).

In accordance with article 11 of its statute as originally adopted, the International Tribunal consisted, inter alia, of two Trial Chambers and an Appeals Chamber. At its resumed forty-seventh session, in September 1993, the General Assembly elected eleven judges, composing those Chambers (decision 47/328). In accordance with article 12 of the statute of the International Tribunal, the term of office of the judges so elected expired on 16 November 1997. Prior to that date, the Assembly, at its resumed fifty-first session, in May 1997, elected eleven judges for a new term of office (decision 51/319 A). The term of office of the judges so elected is due to expire on 16 November 2001.

On 13 May 1998, the Security Council, by its resolution 1166 (1998), decided to establish a third Trial Chamber of the International Tribunal. The Council also decided that three additional judges would be elected as soon as possible to serve in the additional Trial Chamber.

At its fifty-third session in October 1998, the General Assembly elected the three judges of the third Trial Chamber (decision 53/307). In accordance with Security Council resolution 1166 (1998), the judges so elected will serve until the date of the expiry of the terms of office of the eleven judges who were elected by the Assembly in 1997.

2000. Subsequently, by its resolution 1291 (2000) of 24 February 2000, the Security Council authorized the expansion of MONUC and decided that MONUC should have the following mandate: to monitor the implementation of the Ceasefire Agreement and investigate violations of the ceasefire; to establish and maintain continuous liaison with the field headquarters of all the parties' military forces; to develop an action plan for the overall implementation of the Ceasefire Agreement by all concerned; to work with the parties to obtain the release of all prisoners of war, military captives and remains; to supervise and verify the disengagement and redeployment of the parties' forces; within its capabilities and areas of deployment, to monitor compliance with the provisions of the Ceasefire Agreement on the supply of ammunition, weaponry and other war-related material to the field; to facilitate humanitarian assistance and human rights monitoring; to cooperate closely with the Facilitator of the National Dialogue; and to deploy mine action experts to assess the scope of the mine and unexploded ordnance problem.
