Overall orientation

15.1 The mandate of the Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (ESCAP), which is derived from Economic and Social Council resolutions 37 (IV) and 414 (XIII) by which the Commission was established, is to promote regional cooperation for inclusive and sustainable economic and social development in Asia and the Pacific, a dynamic region characterized by growing wealth, diversity and change, but also challenged with persistent poverty, environmental degradation, inequality and insecurity. The role of the Commission was subsequently elaborated upon in various resolutions adopted by the General Assembly, the Economic and Social Council and the Commission itself. The most recent, Commission resolution 64/1 on restructuring of the conference structure of the Commission, further sharpened the focus of ESCAP's intergovernmental machinery in order to more effectively address key issues pertaining to inclusive and sustainable economic and social development in the Asian and Pacific region.

15.2 Home to 4.1 billion people, more than 60 per cent of the world's population, Asia and the Pacific has distinguished itself as the fastest growing region in the world. Over the decades, it has made remarkable progress on a number of fronts such as dynamic trade and investment-led economic growth, sustained inroads into poverty reduction and technological advances. However, the fallout from the financial crisis, coming soon after the food and fuel crises, has left many countries exposed to economic insecurity that threatens development and progress towards the Millennium Development Goals. Further, social vulnerabilities and inequities both within countries and among countries are on the rise, exacerbated by rapid changes in family support structures, ageing populations, urbanization and migration. While the region is on the path of economic recovery, experiences from previous crises suggest that social recovery takes longer to achieve.

15.3 Economic, social and environmental insecurities are occurring simultaneously with a mutually reinforcing convergence. How the region addresses these challenges will determine the nature, speed and sustainability of its future development for decades to come.

15.4 In the context of this evolving Asia-Pacific landscape, ESCAP will support member States with sound strategic analysis, policy options and technical cooperation to address key development challenges and to implement innovative solutions for region-wide economic prosperity, social progress and environmental sustainability. At the same time, ESCAP will assist member States through its conference structure to forge a stronger coordinated regional voice on global issues by building capacities to dialogue, negotiate and shape development agendas in an age of globalization, decentralization and problems that transcend borders.

15.5 A key modality for this strategy will be to promote intraregional connectivity and regional integration through a five-pronged approach: (a) developing regional production and transportation networks and improving trade and transport facilitation; (b) increasing trade through improvements in information and communications technology infrastructure and applications; (c) developing a regional financial architecture; (d) promoting a regional energy security framework; and (e) strengthening the social foundations for inclusive and resilient societies.

15.6 ESCAP will continue to pursue the key objectives shared by all the regional commissions, namely, to (a) foster economic integration at the subregional and regional levels; (b) promote the regional implementation of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals; and (c) support regional sustainable development by helping to bridge economic, social and environmental gaps among member States and subregions, including through trade and transport. In order to achieve those objectives, all the regional commissions will continue to generate multilateral dialogue, knowledge sharing and networking and to work together to promote intraregional and interregional cooperation, both among themselves and through collaboration with other relevant organizations.

15.7 Taking into account the above considerations, ESCAP will adopt a more balanced multisectoral and multidisciplinary approach to development decision-making and agenda-setting. ESCAP will advocate and assist member States to develop a common set of standards, norms, conventions and development approaches. Advocacy work of ESCAP will be underpinned by evidence-based analysis that captures differences and disparities among and within countries, including between men and women, according priority to ensuring that the concerns of countries with special needs are addressed, particularly those of the least developed, landlocked developing and small island developing States.

15.8 The proposed strategic framework comprises an integrated set of eight mutually supportive and interconnected subprogrammes, which are linked to the priorities of member States. The subprogrammes of the strategic framework for the period 2012-2013 reflect continuity in the direction of work already undertaken by ESCAP during the period 2010-2011, reflecting the mandate contained in Commission resolution 64/1, the commitment of ESCAP to the development pillar of the United Nations, and the secretariat's continuing efforts to enhance organizational and development effectiveness.

15.9 Collectively, the subprogrammes will aim to achieve the following development results: (a) Governments of member States have more effective, inclusive and sustainable development policies for addressing development from a multidisciplinary perspective, to narrow development gaps and build resiliency; (b) global processes are shaped by a stronger coordinated regional voice and countries are supported in implementing international commitments; and (c) regional cooperation mechanisms and institutional frameworks are in place to promote regional integration and inclusive development.

15.10 Central to the strategy of the ESCAP programme of work is to foster regional and subregional cooperation, including South-South cooperation. Subregional offices, which have been established for East and North-East Asia, North and Central Asia, South and South-West Asia, together with a strengthened office for the Pacific subregion, will enable ESCAP to provide better targeted and in-depth technical assistance to address priorities of member States in the respective subregions.

15.11 ESCAP will continue to promote system-wide coherence at the regional level, through chairing the United Nations Regional Coordination Mechanism in Asia and the Pacific. The Asia-Pacific Regional Coordination Mechanism has made great strides forward during the past biennium, having developed a plan of action to focus on strengthening coordination, cooperation and synergies among United Nations regional and subregional entities, which will contribute further to a strengthened development pillar at the regional level.

15.12 Partnerships with multilateral entities and subregional organizations will continue to be strengthened in order to ensure an inclusive and coherent approach to addressing the concerns of the region and to avoid duplication of efforts, while building on the strengths and comparative advantages of ESCAP and complementarities with partners.

15.13 Overall, ESCAP will use its multidisciplinary capabilities, its strengthened regional and subregional presence, and its position as the regional arm of the United Nations to provide leadership and solutions to the critical regional and global development challenges of the twenty-first century.

The strategic direction of the subprogramme derives mainly from the United Nations Millennium Declaration adopted by the General Assembly in its resolution 55/2, and the 2005 World Summit Outcome adopted by the Assembly in its resolution 60/1, in particular as they relate to the monitoring of the internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals. Mandates are also provided by Economic and Social Council resolutions 2005/13 on the 2010 World Population and Housing Census Programme, 2005/36 on the statute of the Statistical Institute for Asia and the Pacific and 2006/6 on strengthening statistical capacity, and by Commission resolution 62/10 on strengthening statistical capacity in Asia and the Pacific and resolution 65/2 on regional technical cooperation and capacity-building in statistical development in Asia and the Pacific.

15.32 The objective of the subprogramme will be achieved through a balanced combination of normative, analytical and technical cooperation activities to improve the production and dissemination, by national statistical systems, of key demographic, social, economic and environmental statistics, sex-disaggregated where relevant, including the Millennium Development Goal indicators, and to promote their use by policymakers and the public in the Asian and Pacific region, in accordance with internationally agreed standards and good practices.

15.33 During the biennium 2012-2013, the subprogramme will continue to (a) promote the use of statistics for evidence-based decision-making; (b) support the development of demographic, economic, social and environmental statistics in the Asian and Pacific region; (c) facilitate the implementation of existing and new international standards, including the new economic and social classifications and the revised system of national accounts; and (d) continue supporting the capacity of national statistical offices to produce, disseminate and analyse data in accordance with internationally agreed standards and good practices. In particular, the subprogramme will focus on improving the availability and quality of data for measuring progress, particularly on social inclusion and gender equality. In addition, the subprogramme would further strengthen data dissemination through the issuance of publications and the provision of online databases to countries in the ESCAP region.

15.34 To enhance coherence across the United Nations system and coordination among international agencies, ESCAP will work in close cooperation with the Department of Economic and Social Affairs of the Secretariat and other relevant United Nations entities, development banks and funds, regional and subregional organizations and other statistical partners and networks.

Strategy

15.35 The overall responsibility for coordinating the work of the subprogramme will lie with the Office of the Executive Secretary. Activities will be implemented by the ESCAP subregional offices for the Pacific, East and North-East Asia, North and Central Asia, South and South-West Asia, and, for activities for the South-East Asian subregion, by the concerned substantive divisions at ESCAP headquarters in Bangkok, Thailand. Internationally agreed development goals, including the Millennium Development Goals, the 2005 World Summit Outcome, the World Summit on Sustainable Development, the Almaty Programme of Action and the Mauritius Strategy on the sustainable development of small island developing States provide the mandates and strategic direction for the subprogramme. The subprogramme will also coordinate closely with the United Nations Special Programme for the Economies of Central Asia.

15.36 Given the vast coverage and diversity of the Asian and Pacific region, the subprogramme would strengthen the Commission's presence and strategic position at the subregional level, enabling better targeting and delivery of programmes that address specific key priorities of member States in the five subregions. The subprogramme will provide an important platform to strengthen regional cooperation on key economic and social development issues, ensuring the reflection of subregional needs and perspectives in the promotion of broader regional cooperation in Asia and the Pacific.

15.37 The subprogramme will further operationalize the analytical and normative work of the Commission, supporting capacity development through technical cooperation, including South-South and triangular cooperation, among ESCAP member States, and through the provision, on request, of advisory services. Emphasis will be placed on knowledge sharing and networking, including the dissemination of good practices for adaptation, experience sharing and replication. The subprogramme will collect data and produce subregional analysis on identified priority areas in order to ensure greater depth and coverage of the secretariat's knowledge products.

15.38 Each component of the subprogramme reflects the specific needs of the relevant subregion within the context of existing subregional cooperation frameworks and institutional landscape. In support of subprogramme implementation, ESCAP will build strategic partnerships with other key intergovernmental institutions and development actors in the subregions, and develop and implement programmes in a coherent and coordinated manner in line with United Nations efforts to "deliver as one", utilizing the full assets of the United Nations development system at the subregional and national levels to bridge key development gaps.
