He reported that the main issues considered by the Committee had been the preparation of draft resolutions and decisions, as well as a ministerial declaration, for consideration by the Environment Assembly at its third session; administrative and budgetary matters; an update on the sixth edition of the Global Environment Outlook; and budget and programme performance, including the implementation of previous Environment Assembly resolutions.

With regard to draft resolutions and decisions, Mr. Moreti said that the Committee had succeeded in merging resolutions that dealt with similar issues and, out of the 19 resolutions and 4 draft decisions initially submitted to the Committee, it had agreed to transmit to the Assembly a total of 11 draft resolutions and 3 draft decisions. Out of those 11 draft resolutions and 3 draft decisions, the Committee had agreed to recommend to the Assembly the adoption of 6 draft resolutions and 2 draft decisions.

26. Similarly, the Committee had agreed to transmit to the Assembly, for its consideration and possible adoption, the draft ministerial declaration, on which consultations facilitated by the President of the Environment Assembly had been held during the third meeting of the Open-ended Committee.

Chapter III

Matters requiring the special attention of the General Assembly or the Economic and Social Council

27. With a view to supporting the implementation of the outcomes of the third session of the Environment Assembly in the context of global efforts towards achieving a pollution-free planet, as well as their contribution to the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, Member States may wish to consider actions for the progressive integration of such outcomes into the implementation and review of, and follow-up on, the 2030 Agenda and relevant Sustainable Development Goals under the broader institutional framework of the United Nations system.

28. The preparations for sessions of the high-level political forum on sustainable development offer a unique opportunity and an institutional framework to ensure the integration of the reviews of and follow-up on the environmental dimension of sustainable development undertaken by the world's ministers for the environment at sessions of the Environment Assembly. In its resolution 71/231 of 21 December 2016, the General Assembly addressed aspects of such integration by recognizing the commitment of the Environment Assembly to contributing to the effective implementation of the environmental dimension of the 2030 Agenda, in an integrated manner. The General Assembly also encouraged the President of the Environment Assembly to convey the main messages agreed upon by the Environment Assembly at its sessions during the high-level political forum.

29. Correspondingly, in its resolution 3/3 on contributions of the United Nations Environment Assembly to the high-level political forum on sustainable development, the Environment Assembly outlined the process for the provision of inputs to the forum, including the establishment of a standing agenda item with the aim of considering in its deliberations the Sustainable Development Goals under review at the annual meetings of the forum.

30. To fully utilize existing institutional links between the Environment Assembly and the high level political forum, Member States may wish:

(a) To consider the ministerial declaration of the Environment Assembly at its third session (UNEP/EA.3/HLS.1), entitled "Towards a pollution-free planet", in their deliberations on the ministerial declaration at the 2018 sessions of the high-level political forum and the Economic and Social Council;

(b) To consider aspects of the various resolutions adopted by the Environment Assembly at its third session that are relevant to the regional preparatory processes for the provision of inputs in the submissions and policy recommendations to the high-level political forum, as well as for the preparation of the presentation of voluntary national reviews.

31. In addition, the existing reporting line to the General Assembly, through the Economic and Social Council, presents opportunities to further integrate the outcomes of the Environment Assembly into the work and deliberations of the two bodies. The General Assembly at its seventy-third session is expected to consider the report of the third session of the Environment Assembly. In that context, Member States may wish:

(a) To take note of the report on and resolutions of the third session of the Environment Assembly, including its ministerial declaration;

(b) To recognize that addressing pollution is a crucial element for achieving the Sustainable Development Goals, as indicated in the ministerial declaration of the Environment Assembly at its third session; and to encourage further efforts towards achieving a pollution-free planet in support of the implementation of the 2030 Agenda;

(c) To welcome United Nations system-wide representation at sessions of the Environment Assembly, and encourage United Nations system-wide action to address pollution in the context of support to the implementation of the Sustainable Development Goals, in an integrated manner, and taking into consideration the resolutions and the ministerial declaration of the Environment Assembly at its third session;

(d) To consider measures to encourage pollution-free practices at United Nations premises, conferences and meetings, and in United Nations operations, including the reduction of the use of single-use plastics;

(e) To commend the participation of the presidents of the General Assembly and the Economic and Social Council in the third session of the Environment Assembly, in the light of the spirit of integration and universality of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.
