Summary

The total expenditure for the United Nations Mission in South Sudan (UNMISS) for the period from 1 July 2018 to 30 June 2019 has been linked to the Mission's objective through a number of results-based budgeting frameworks, grouped by component: protection of civilians; monitoring, reporting and investigating human rights; creating conditions conducive to the delivery of humanitarian assistance; supporting the implementation of the Peace Agreement; and support.

UNMISS incurred $1,150,107,100 in expenditure for the reporting period, representing a resource utilization rate of 99.9 per cent, compared with $1,110,321,700 in expenditure and a resource utilization rate of 97.7 per cent in the 2017/18 period.

The unencumbered balance of $0.8 million was attributable mainly to reduced requirements in the amount of $7.8 million for operational costs, owing primarily to lower-than-budgeted requirements for air operations as a result of fewer-than-anticipated flight hours for fixed-wing and rotary-wing aircraft. The overall reduced requirements were offset in part by higher-than-planned expenditure for civilian personnel of $7.1 million, owing mainly to higher costs for international staff, national staff and United Nations Volunteers.

I. Introduction

1. The proposed budget for the maintenance of the United Nations Mission in South Sudan (UNMISS) for the period from 1 July 2018 to 30 June 2019 was set out in the report of the Secretary-General of 22 March 2018 (A/72/802) and amounted to $1,154,657,700 gross ($1,132,069,000 net). It provided for an average deployment of 242 military observers, 16,758 military contingent personnel, 703 United Nations police officers, 1,320 formed police personnel, 951 international staff (inclusive of 32 temporary positions), 1,438 national staff (inclusive of 10 temporary positions), 442 United Nations Volunteers and 78 government-provided personnel.

2. In its report of 4 May 2018, the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions recommended that the General Assembly appropriate the amount of $1,148,460,400 gross for the period from 1 July 2018 to 30 June 2019 (A/72/789/Add.15, para. 42).

3. The General Assembly, by its resolution 72/300, appropriated the amount of $1,124,960,400 gross ($1,102,381,100 net) for the maintenance of the Mission for the period from 1 July 2018 to 30 June 2019. The total amount has been assessed on Member States.

4. Subsequently, the Secretary-General sought the concurrence of the Advisory Committee to enter into commitments up to an amount of $25,933,600 to meet the additional requirements associated with the increased pace of deployment of the Mission's authorized strength of uniformed personnel. The additional resources were required to cover projected expenditure for an average increase of 809 uniformed personnel from the deployment level provided for in the approved resources for the 2018/19 period.

5. In a letter dated 30 April 2019, the Advisory Committee authorized the Secretary-General to enter into commitments up to an amount of $25,933,600 gross for the period from 1 July 2018 to 30 June 2019, in addition to the $1,124,960,400 gross for the same period previously approved by the General Assembly in its resolution 72/300. The amount of $25,933,600 has not been assessed on Member States for the 2018/19 period.

II. Mandate performance

A. Overall

6. The mandate of UNMISS was established by the Security Council in its resolution 1996 \(2011\) and extended in subsequent resolutions of the Council. The mandate for the performance period was provided by the Council in its resolutions 2406 \(2018\) and 2459 \(2019\).

7. The Mission is mandated to help the Security Council to achieve an overall objective, namely, the protection of civilians and the provision of support, including for the implementation of the Agreement on the Resolution of the Conflict in the Republic of South Sudan (the Peace Agreement), in order to respond to the ongoing conflict in South Sudan.

8. Within that overall objective, the Mission has, during the performance period, contributed to a number of accomplishments by delivering related key outputs, shown in the frameworks below, which are grouped by component as follows: protection of civilians; monitoring, reporting and investigating human rights; creating conditions conducive to the delivery of humanitarian assistance; supporting the implementation of the Peace Agreement; and support.

9. The present report assesses actual performance against the planned results-based budgeting frameworks set out in the budget for the 2018/19 period. In particular, the performance report compares the actual indicators of achievement, that is, the extent to which actual progress has been made during the period against the expected accomplishments, with the planned indicators of achievement, and the actual completed outputs with the planned outputs.

B. Budget implementation

10. During the reporting period, efforts to revitalize the Peace Agreement gained momentum. On 12 September 2018, South Sudanese parties and stakeholders signed the Revitalized Agreement on the Resolution of the Conflict in the Republic of South Sudan following extensive engagement by the Intergovernmental Authority on Development (IGAD) and regional leaders and with support from the African Union, the United Nations and other international partners. The Revitalized Agreement provides for a pre-transition period of eight months from its signing, leading to the formation of a revitalized transitional government of national unity which will govern during a three-year transitional period that will culminate in elections. In a symbolic gesture, the President of South Sudan, Salva Kiir, hosted a national peace celebration ceremony in Juba on 31 October 2018, which was attended by the former First Vice-President, Riek Machar, and other opposition leaders, as well as regional Heads of State. The implementation of the Revitalized Agreement showed modest progress in the subsequent months, with the permanent ceasefire being adhered to in most parts of the country, a number of the opposition leaders returning to Juba to work in the implementation organs of the Revitalized Agreement and various pre-transitional institutions and mechanisms being established or restructured. Those institutions and mechanisms included the National Pre-Transitional Committee, which was mandated to oversee and coordinate the implementation of pre-transitional activities, the National Constitutional Amendment Committee, the Joint Defence Board, the Joint Military Ceasefire Commission, the Joint Transitional Security Committee and the Strategic Defence and Security Review Board, among others. Similarly, the Joint Monitoring and Evaluation Commission and the Ceasefire and Transitional Security Arrangements Monitoring and Verification Mechanism were also reconstituted.

11. The signing of the Revitalized Agreement created positive momentum towards peace and stability in South Sudan and resulted in an improved operating environment for UNMISS. The overall political and security situation, however, remained fragile during the reporting period. Subsequent to the signing of the Revitalized Agreement, armed clashes between parties to the conflict were notably reduced. The Government and opposition forces engaged in direct talks and rapprochement and confidence- and trust-building activities at the grass-roots level, resulting in a number of joint statements and agreements, the opening of roads and riverine routes, the increased movement of civilians, enhanced commercial activities, the removal of checkpoints and enhanced coordination on security issues, which in turn resulted in improved access for UNMISS and humanitarian partners to deliver mandated activities across the country. However, sporadic fighting between Government forces and non-signatory groups continued, in particular with the National Salvation Front in the greater Equatoria region. Compounded by the weak State and rule of law institutions, the easing of armed conflict between the organized forces had a downside, as local armed groups seized the space to attempt to regain capital and social influence and avenge unresolved communal grievances. In this regard, between July 2018 and June 2019, a notable upsurge in cattle raiding and communal violence was observed, with a 58 per cent increase in casualties compared with the previous reporting period, particularly in the greater Lakes, greater Jonglei and Warrap regions.

12. Implementation of the Revitalized Agreement slowed in the second half of the reporting period, putting at risk the momentum gained following the signing of the Agreement and the subsequent establishment of some pre-transitional institutions. While the pre-transitional mechanisms met regularly, their activities continued to focus on procedural issues, and the parties were not able to resolve contentious issues, such as the number of states and their boundaries, or make substantial progress on the transitional security arrangements. As the timelines to meet the political and security benchmarks slipped, efforts to avert a setback to the peace process were intensified, including a meeting of key South Sudanese leaders at the Vatican in April 2019 as part of a spiritual retreat hosted by Pope Francis. In addition, the IGAD Special Envoy for South Sudan, supported by the Mission's good offices, actively engaged with the signatory parties to the Revitalized Agreement. Those efforts resulted in the unanimous agreement by the parties at a meeting convened in Addis Ababa on 3 May 2019 to extend the pre-transitional period by six months.

13. Since the signing of the Revitalized Agreement, the number of human rights violations and abuses committed by Government forces and opposition armed groups has largely decreased throughout South Sudan, with the exception of parts of Central Equatoria and Unity. However, incidents of intercommunal violence and civilian casualties resulting therefrom remained relatively high. Similarly, the number of people in need of humanitarian assistance remained relatively constant, at approximately 7 million. Although improvement was observed in 2019, the challenges experienced by humanitarian actors in this complex and dangerous operating environment persisted, including repeated attacks against humanitarian workers and the looting and seizure of assets. During the reporting period, five humanitarian workers were killed while carrying out their duties. No fatalities were reported, however, during the second half of the reporting period, which was a sign of improvement. As of the end of June 2019, a total of 4.2 million people had been displaced (1.9 million internally displaced persons and 2.3 million refugees in neighbouring countries). UNMISS continued to host 182,000 people in its protection of civilians sites and areas within and around its premises.

14. During the reporting period, restrictions imposed on UNMISS by the Government and other parties to the conflict eased but remained challenging, particularly with regard to issues relating to freedom of movement and access, flight safety assurances and basic security. The number of violations of the Status of Forces Agreement and security incidents involving United Nations personnel, compounds and contractors significantly decreased compared with the previous period, with 171 violations of the Status of Forces Agreement and 295 security incidents recorded during the reporting period compared with 229 violations and 546 incidents in the previous reporting period. The most prevalent type of Status of Forces Agreement violations remained the imposition of restrictions on movement affecting UNMISS personnel and the Mission's operations, while unauthorized fees and taxes also continued to be imposed on UNMISS contractors. In December 2018, a presidential decree on tax exemptions for commercial imports affected the Mission's fuel supply and resulted in the utilization of its strategic reserves. The Mission engaged with the Government to address the issue, including through sensitization workshops on the Status of Forces Agreement held across the country in coordination with the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation. Violations of the Status of Forces Agreement were reported to the Security Council on a monthly basis and were also regularly communicated to the Government through notes verbales and follow-up meetings with representatives of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation.

15. UNMISS continued to fulfil its mandate in an impartial and proactive manner throughout the reporting period. The effect of the Mission's extensive good offices to support the peace process was notable. The Mission facilitated engagement among the parties and stakeholders and assisted the lead role of IGAD and the reconstituted Joint Monitoring and Evaluation Commission by ensuring consistent international support. The Mission's engagement with stakeholders at the subnational level created positive momentum following the signing of the Revitalized Agreement in the effort to build durable peace and protect civilians by providing extensive support in local conflict resolution, rapprochement, reconciliation and peacebuilding. With the improved operating environment, concrete results were achieved during the period in all four mandated areas as detailed below, namely, protection of civilians, monitoring, reporting and investigating human rights, creating conditions conducive to the delivery of humanitarian assistance and supporting the implementation of the Revitalized Agreement and the peace process. Those achievements were made possible by the Mission's continuous efforts to build on the initiatives that it had undertaken in previous years despite the stalemate in the peace process at that time.

16. In this context, the Security Council adopted resolution 2459 \(2019\) on 15 March 2019, in which it extended the mandate of the Mission until 15 March 2020 and maintained the four core pillars of the Mission's mandate and the overall level of uniformed personnel, including a regional protection force at levels to be set by the Secretary-General but not to exceed 4,000. During the reporting period, the military component deployed an average of 14,775 personnel, consisting of 217 military observers, 413 staff officers and 14,145 military contingent personnel; the police component deployed an average of 1,763 personnel, consisting of 638 individual United Nations police officers and 1,125 personnel in formed police units, and deployed an average of 66 corrections officers.

17. In accordance with the provisions of Security Council resolution 2459 \(2019\), and Council resolution 2436 \(2018\) on peacekeeping operations, UNMISS intensified its efforts to enhance the effectiveness and impact of its operations through the implementation of the strategic approach and operational priorities set by the Mission leadership. It also continued to implement the recommendations emanating from various reviews that had been carried out since 2016 and incorporated the lessons learned in the context of the report of Lieutenant General (Retired) Carlos Alberto dos Santos Cruz entitled "Improving security of United Nations peacekeepers: we need to change the way we are doing business" and the Action for Peacekeeping initiative to address various operational issues in order to strengthen the overall performance of the uniformed, security and support components of the Mission. The recommendations include those presented most recently by the Office for the Peacekeeping Strategic Partnership in February 2019.

Substantive and other programmatic activities

18. The Mission's substantive and other programmatic activities reflect a full range of substantive activities implemented by the Mission. Only two of the projects undertaken during the reporting period were carried out by local implementing partners. While detailed information is provided under the relevant outputs in the results-based budgeting frameworks, the following activities were implemented by the Mission during the reporting period:

(a) Confidence-building. Activities included those related to the provision of good offices at the state and local levels aimed at the reduction of intercommunal conflicts and the promotion of dialogue; better regulation of cross-border cattle migration; support for local rapprochement and trust-building between the Government and opposition communities; enhancement of civil-military relations; and the development of local peace structures. A total of 200 activities were implemented across the country. Support for pre- and post-migration conferences contributed to a notable reduction in cattle-raiding incidents in some locations and enhanced compliance with the resolutions reached at the conferences. In addition, support for the local rapprochement-related activities and civil-military dialogue resulted in enhanced freedom of movement, trade and humanitarian access, as referred to in paragraph 36 below;

(b) Human rights. Activities included the monitoring, investigation and reporting of human rights violations and abuses; the provision of support to national justice mechanisms, including transitional justice; the organization of workshops and sensitization sessions; and continued engagement with relevant stakeholders to advocate for the prevention of, and protection from, conflict-related sexual violence and violence against children. A total of 293 capacity-building activities and awareness-raising sessions were held on various human rights issues, including engagement with partners through the national human rights forum. In addition, 205 training and awareness-raising sessions were conducted on child protection issues and 37 workshops and awareness-raising events were conducted on protection from conflict-related sexual violence. The continued advocacy supported by those sessions resulted in the progress referenced in paragraphs 26–30 below, including the ratification by the Government of two core human rights treaties, the launch of the action plan for the South Sudan People's Defence Forces, specific commitments made by the Sudan People's Liberation Movement-Army in Opposition (SPLM/A-IO) to prevent and respond to conflict-related sexual violence and the release of 376 children from various armed groups;

(c) Peace consolidation. Activities included the convening of monthly forums with the diplomatic community to ensure coordinated support for the implementation of the Revitalized Agreement; the organization of dialogue forums on inclusive political space, as referenced in paragraph 39 below, and workshops on women's participation in the peace process in line with Security Council resolution 1325 \(2000\); the provision of technical assistance and support to the National Constitutional Amendment Committee; and continued collaboration with the United Nations country team to support and identify opportunities for the voluntary reintegration of displaced persons. As part of the activities to support returns, two projects were implemented by local non-governmental organizations to provide vocational training to returnees and to clear vegetation along a road critical for securing the confidence of the returnees. In addition, Radio Miraya disseminated messages of peace in collaboration with partners, while UNMISS distributed several thousands of copies of the Peace Agreement;

(d) Rule of law/security institutions/security sector reform/community violence reduction. Activities included the provision of support to the confidence- and trust-building project of the South Sudan National Police Service and the sensitization of over 3,000 police officers on international humanitarian law and the investigation and prosecution of sexual and gender-based violence and conflict-related sexual violence, as referenced in paragraph 25 below; the organization of training sessions for community watch group members to support crime prevention and community safety initiatives; the provision of assistance to national investigators to investigate crimes committed in protection of civilians sites, including support for mobile courts, as detailed in paragraph 24 below; and the provision of technical advice to national justice institutions to strengthen their capacities with regard to responding to sexual and gender-based violence.

Protection of civilians

19. During the reporting period, UNMISS continued to engage proactively in dialogue and political advocacy through the good offices of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for South Sudan, heads of field offices and other staff in the senior mission leadership to impress upon stakeholders the need to cease hostilities and respect the ceasefire. Particular emphasis was placed on the primary responsibility of the Government to protect civilians and the need for inclusive participation in initiatives directed at restoring peace and stability and protecting all civilians. During the reporting period, the Special Representative made 10 field visits to various locations across the country and engaged with local stakeholders to address protection concerns, including the presence of armed forces near civilian centres and human rights violations. In addition, UNMISS engaged in peace initiatives and dialogue at the subnational level through the organization of 200 workshops, rapprochement meetings, peace conferences and dialogue forums where possible, including in opposition-held areas, utilizing the resources provided for substantive programmatic activities. Those activities were aimed at supporting the promotion of peaceful pastoral migration, social cohesion and reconciliation, and building the capacity of local stakeholders to manage local-level conflicts. For instance, UNMISS assisted the community-led joint border peace committee/court in managing pastoral migration in Western Lakes, Eastern Lakes, Gok, Terekeka and Amadi, resulting in a notable reduction in cattle-raiding violence in some locations. The support activities undertaken also included increased outreach to cattle camp youth, which enhanced compliance with the resolutions adopted at pre- and post-migration conferences. The Mission also held civil-military forums, which improved relations between Government forces and civilians in the greater Equatoria and Upper Nile regions and resulted in improved freedom of movement. In addition, the Mission provided programmatic support to promote dialogue between internally displaced persons in the Mission's protection of civilians sites and host communities in Bentiu, Bor and Malakal, which significantly increased freedom of movement and improved confidence and trust among the groups.

20. The Mission continued its efforts to rebalance its uniformed capacity to focus on the protection of civilians beyond the UNMISS protection of civilians sites. In this context, it continued to enhance its operating bases in Kodok in Upper Nile, and Akobo town, both in opposition-held areas, while the company operating bases in Melut and Nasir were officially closed in December 2018 and April 2019, respectively. The Mission's force patrols and integrated field missions were intensified, where required, including in Leer in Unity, Lobonok in Central Equatoria, Tambura and Maridi in Western Equatoria, Kuajena and Rocrocdong in Western Bahr el-Ghazal (Jur River area) and opposition areas such as Akobo in Jonglei. Confidence-building patrols by UNMISS police were also intensified outside of the UNMISS protection of civilians sites in Juba, Bentiu, Bor, Malakal and Wau towns to deter and pre-empt violence against civilians and enhance the protection of civilians through community engagement and early warning. The patrols helped to improve the population's perception of prevailing security conditions, thus facilitating the voluntary and safe return of internally displaced persons to their places of origin.

21. Although no reliable data exist to capture the overall picture of the movement of the displaced population, in the period since the signing of the Revitalized Agreement over 500,000 people reportedly returned to their habitual residences, 39 per cent of whom had been abroad, according to the Displacement Tracking Matrix programme of the International Organization for Migration (IOM). Overall, a downward trend was observed in the number of individuals displaced owing to armed conflict, while there was an increase in the number of individuals displaced owing to communal conflict. UNMISS supported the return of 4,163 internally displaced persons in Jonglei, Upper Nile and Western Bahr el-Ghazal and monitored the return and reintegration of 40,000 individuals affected by intercommunal conflicts in Aluakluak, Cueibet, Malek and Rumbek North in the greater Lakes region, in coordination with partners and stakeholders at the national and local levels. The Mission also employed its quick-impact projects to rehabilitate basic service infrastructure in key locations, which resulted in an increased school enrolment rate and improved community livelihood and rule of law infrastructure in major displacement areas. The Mission implemented 26 quick-impact projects during the reporting period, 24 of which were initiated during the reporting period and two of which had been initiated during the prior period. The Mission prioritized projects focused on health, education and rule of law facilities that contributed to the promotion of peaceful coexistence between internally displaced persons and host communities, strengthening national security institutions and creating favourable conditions for the return and reintegration of displaced populations in potential return areas. For instance, the renovation of Bentiu Central Prison contributed to strengthening the rule of law and peaceful coexistence between communities in and around UNMISS protection of civilians sites, while the construction of a police post in Hai Kosti in Wau improved security and facilitated returns from the UNMISS protection of civilians area. In addition, mine action activities made 1,502 villages and towns, 806 agricultural areas, 31 markets and 201 water points a safe and secure environment for civilians through the clearance of explosive hazards, including landmines and explosive remnants of war.

22. As of June 2019, 182,000 people remained at the protection of civilians sites within or adjacent to UNMISS bases in six locations, namely, Juba, Bentiu, Bor, Leer, Malakal and Wau. The number of internally displaced persons seeking protection in those locations decreased compared with the prior period, owing primarily to the departure of internally displaced persons from the protection of civilians site in Bor and the protection of civilians area adjacent to the UNMISS base in Wau following the Mission's active engagement with internally displaced persons and communities in potential return areas. The decrease was also due to the closure of the protection of civilians sites inside the UNMISS base in Wau. In Bor, as a result of an action plan developed during a two-day workshop with state authorities and key stakeholders, 423 internally displaced persons decided to return to Akobo, New Fangak and Urur. In Wau, under the leadership of UNMISS and with the endorsement of the United Nations country team and state authorities, an action plan to promote a protective environment at return locations facilitated the departure of 10,671 internally displaced persons from the protection of civilians area adjacent to the UNMISS base. In addition, intensive focus group discussions and consultations with internally displaced persons in protection of civilians sites in Wau informed the decisions of 132 internally displaced persons to return to their places of origin or other locations, resulting in the closure of the site in March 2019. In Bentiu, eight "go and see" visits and four town hall meetings were organized to inform internally displaced persons about the security and protection situation in potential return areas on the basis of the information collected through UNMISS patrols and field missions.

23. A total of 1,057 security incidents (362 in Bentiu, 29 in Bor, 159 in Juba, 198 in Malakal and 309 in Wau) were reported in and around protection of civilians sites during the reporting period. This represents a decrease of 46 per cent compared with the 1,942 cases reported in the previous reporting period. While the number of incidents was significantly lower than that of the previous reporting period, security incidents and criminal activities in the protection of civilians sites remained a challenge. In August 2018, tensions between youth from the Rubkona and Mayom communities in the protection of civilians site in Juba escalated to fighting that led to the injury of over 100 people, the destruction of shelters and displacement from the protection site. UNMISS actively engaged in easing tensions and protecting civilians affected by the fighting and facilitated the relocation of 3,700 internally displaced persons from the protection of civilians site to another neighbourhood of Juba, called Mangateen, in collaboration with the Government authorities and humanitarian partners. UNMISS regularly conducted search operations and patrols within protection of civilians sites and involved community watch groups and protection partners to ensure security and the civilian nature of the sites.

24. In Bentiu, Juba and Malakal, UNMISS continued to manage three holding facilities for the detention and separation of internally displaced persons who were allegedly responsible for serious breaches of security or posed security threats within the sites. While 589 persons were admitted to the holding facilities during the reporting period, the number of detainees in the holding facilities fluctuated depending on prevailing security conditions within the sites. The referral mechanism between the Government and UNMISS for serious crimes committed inside UNMISS protection of civilians sites created a measure of accountability, with UNMISS referring 75 cases to the national authorities for investigation and possible prosecution. In Bentiu and Malakal, UNMISS facilitated the operationalization of mobile courts to fill the gap created by the departure of many justice sector actors following the political crises in 2013 and 2016, resulting in the prosecution and conviction of 32 individuals during the reporting period.

25. UNMISS provided technical assistance and advice to the South Sudan National Police Service, in line with the provisions of Security Council resolutions 2406 \(2018\) and 2459 \(2019\), utilizing the resources provided for substantive programmatic activities. As a result, a total of 3,137 law enforcement personnel (2,232 men and 905 women), including those from the South Sudan National Police Service, were sensitized on international humanitarian law and the investigation and prosecution of sexual and gender-based violence and conflict-related sexual violence, as well as other serious human rights violations, in strict compliance with the United Nations human rights due diligence policy. In addition, the Mission provided support to the South Sudan National Police Service in the drafting of its strategic plan for the period 2019–2024. Furthermore, the Mission provided technical advice to the Parliamentary Land Committee, in coordination with the United Nations country team and other humanitarian actors, to review the land policy of South Sudan, which is a critical issue for returns given potential disputes over housing, land and property rights.

Monitoring, reporting and investigating human rights

26. During the reporting period, UNMISS continued to implement its human rights mandate with emphasis on violations and abuses committed against women and children, including all forms of conflict-related sexual violence. Despite encountering restricted access to areas and institutions where allegations of human rights violations were reported, the Mission conducted an average of five field visits a month to hotspots from 10 field offices. The findings from those field visits effectively informed the Mission's early warning mechanism. The field visits, as well as the proactive deployment of specialized investigators to hotspot areas, enabled the Mission to issue three public reports on human rights violations and abuses committed in southern Unity, Western Equatoria and northern Unity, in partnership with the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights (OHCHR). Regular visits to prisons and places of detention were conducted, and advocacy with local authorities contributed to the release of more than 173 civilians across the country.

27. UNMISS documented and verified 254 incidents of conflict-related sexual violence involving 1,054 victims, compared with the documentation and verification of 160 incidents involving 423 victims in the previous reporting period. The Mission's three public reports on human rights violations and abuses, which largely focused on conflict-related sexual violence, presented targeted recommendations and served as a platform for dialogue and engagement with all parties to the conflict, and prompted the development of action plans for the implementation of the joint communiqué on addressing conflict-related sexual violence signed by the President of South Sudan and the United Nations in 2014. To that end, the Mission's support to the Government resulted in the launch of the action plan for the South Sudan People's Defence Forces in March 2019. Similarly, the Mission's sustained advocacy with the senior leadership of SPLM/A-IO resulted in reinvigorated commitments, including a command order issued by Riek Machar in February 2019 prohibiting conflict-related sexual violence and committing to hold perpetrators accountable, as well as the development of an action plan in June 2019 to address the issue. In addition, SPLA-IO commanders formally granted the Mission access to their bases in Western Equatoria, paving the way for the possible release of women and girls held against their will. Furthermore, following engagement by the Mission, the South Sudan Council of Churches issued a public statement in June 2019 denouncing conflict-related sexual violence and the stigmatization of survivors and promoting the social reintegration of survivors. Considering the influence of leaders of the Christian church in South Sudan, the statement will likely have a significant influence on the perceptions of local communities with regard to survivors of conflict-related sexual violence.

28. UNMISS continued to advocate strongly for appropriate measures to ensure accountability for human rights violations and abuses by all parties to the conflict in South Sudan, and conducted targeted and practice-based programmes for civilian and military justice officials to enhance their skills in investigating and prosecuting such violations. The Mission also facilitated 293 workshops and training and sensitization sessions on a range of human rights issues for 13,982 national stakeholders, including 4,416 women and girls. UNMISS intensified advocacy for an expansion of the civic space and delivered training to local civil society organizations and journalists to counter and denounce the use of hate speech and to address challenges to free speech, arbitrary arrests, censorship and intimidation against members of civil society, journalists and media houses.

29. The Mission's sustained advocacy on human rights issues also contributed to the passage of national ratification bills for accession to two core human rights treaties in June 2019, namely, the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, as well as the first Optional Protocols to both treaties. UNMISS also supported the Government in drafting a midterm report on the implementation of recommendations made during the country's 2016 universal periodic review by the Human Rights Council and supported the South Sudan Human Rights Commission and civil society organizations in drafting a "shadow report" to accompany the Government's report.

30. During the reporting period, further progress was made regarding the release of children associated with armed groups. The Joint Verification Committee, consisting of representatives from the South Sudan People's Defence Forces, the pro-Taban Deng Gai SPLM/A-IO, the pro-Machar SPLM/A-IO, the South Sudan Opposition Alliance, the National Disarmament, Demobilization and Reintegration Commission, UNMISS and the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), conducted age-verification exercises and negotiated and facilitated the release of a total of 376 children (249 boys and 127 girls) between August 2018 and February 2019. The sustained advocacy by the United Nations country task force on monitoring and reporting, including a three-day consultative workshop to draft a comprehensive action plan to end and prevent the six grave violations against children, also contributed to the reduction in the number of incidents of grave violations against children in South Sudan. In this regard, the Mission remained actively engaged in all aspects relating to the prevention of grave child rights violations and conducted 205 child protection training and awareness-raising sessions during the reporting period.

Creating conditions conducive to the delivery of humanitarian assistance

31. During the reporting period, a large percentage of the population in South Sudan continued to rely on assistance provided by humanitarian partners. The Mission's support remained focused on supporting conditions in which humanitarian partners could operate impartially and independently, wherever possible, and on providing force protection and other logistical support upon request and within its resources.

32. UNMISS continued to participate in various protection cluster meetings and humanitarian coordination forums to promote information-sharing, situational awareness, early warning and coordination among various actors in the field. Briefings to and information-sharing with national and international humanitarian partners were undertaken both in Juba and in field locations, with those engagements often resulting in coordinated responses to emerging humanitarian situations. For instance, UNMISS patrols to hotspots, such as Aloor in Rumbek North and Wundhilot, provided a secure environment for humanitarian actors to deliver services to approximately 30,000 displaced and returning populations in Western Lakes. In Unity, integrated patrol planning resulted in the inclusion of humanitarian actors in short- and long-duration patrols at various locations in Koch and Leer to assess and plan the delivery of humanitarian services to internally displaced persons, returnees and host communities.

33. UNMISS provided force protection through the military and civil defence assets modality of the Guidelines on the Use of Foreign Military and Civil Defence Assets in Disaster Relief, responding to 59 separate humanitarian requests for an 81 per cent response rate. Of those requests, 93 per cent were for the provision of military escorts for humanitarian convoys or road movements of varying duration, mostly in the Equatoria region. Within the protection of civilians sites, UNMISS police continued to provide security to non-governmental organizations during the delivery and distribution of assistance. UNMISS also ensured protection at airfields utilized by humanitarian air services, including at the Malakal, Rubkona, Maban, Pibor, Yida, Leer and Yei airstrips. In addition, UNMISS maintained agreements with multiple humanitarian organizations to accommodate and provide protection and space to humanitarian assets and staff within UNMISS bases. Without that physical support, some of the humanitarian operations could have been cancelled and the impact on humanitarian access in those areas would have been less significant.

34. The Mission also worked in collaboration with the World Food Programme (WFP), the United Nations Office for Project Services and Government authorities to undertake substantial repairs and rehabilitation of major supply roads throughout the country, enabling continuous delivery to key humanitarian hubs, extending pre-positioning capacity in more remote areas and reducing reliance on the use of air assets. In addition, UNMISS provided mine action activities to enable the delivery of humanitarian assistance throughout the country through the survey and clearance of landmines and unexploded ordnance from roads, airstrips, food drops and distribution sites, as well as other locations prioritized by humanitarian actors. For instance, the survey and clearance of the feeder roads in northern Jonglei enabled WFP to pre-position over 19,500 metric tons of food in this critical area.

Supporting the implementation of the Peace Agreement and the peace process

35. During the reporting period, UNMISS made important contributions to the processes leading up to the signing of the Revitalized Agreement and the subsequent agreement by the South Sudanese parties in May 2019 to extend the pre-transition period. While the overall process was championed by IGAD and regional Heads of State, the Mission exercised its good offices, engaging all parties and stakeholders as an impartial player, facilitating information-sharing, encouraging confidence-building and providing technical expertise to some of the implementation organs, including the National Constitutional Amendment Committee, the Technical Boundary Committee and the Independent Boundaries Commission. In discharging this role, the Mission also coordinated extensively with the IGAD Special Envoy for South Sudan and other international and regional partners, including the African Union, to ensure uniform messages calling on the parties to remain committed to the peace process and to accelerate the implementation of critical pre-transition tasks, including through weekly engagements between the Special Representative of the Secretary-General and the heads of diplomatic missions in Juba. UNMISS also continued to support the work of the reconstituted Joint Monitoring and Evaluation Commission through active participation in its meetings and by aligning the positions of the international community in support of the work of the Commission's interim Chair by hosting regular forums for international partners.

36. UNMISS continued to have regular engagement with the President, through which the Special Representative of the Secretary-General urged the continued and constructive participation of the Government in ongoing peace efforts and the implementation of the agreement on the cessation of hostilities. The Mission held meetings at various levels with all other stakeholders, including leaders of the opposition, political parties, Members of Parliament, civil society organizations, including faith-based, women's and youth groups, and representatives of the diplomatic community residing in Juba. This proactive engagement by UNMISS was well received and welcomed by all stakeholders. In addition, the Mission's contribution in the area of local rapprochement and trust-building activities was notable. Of the 96 activities that had taken place by the end of June 2019, 35 were supported by the Mission through its good offices and through the provision of logistical support. Those initiatives resulted in a marked decrease in hostilities between Government and opposition forces. The Mission also utilized its comparative advantage of being impartial and having a presence across the country to contribute to the dissemination of information on the Revitalized Agreement, which was welcomed by the local authorities, commanders and communities.

37. The Mission also continued to provide administrative, logistical, operational and communications support to the Ceasefire and Transitional Security Arrangements Monitoring and Verification Mechanism, which was reconstituted on 27 September 2018, and actively participated in all seven meetings of its board. The Mechanism's technical committee convened 11 times during the reporting period to review the progress of the implementation of the permanent ceasefire and transitional security arrangements. UNMISS monitored and observed those meetings at the technical level, given its anticipated role in supporting the agreed security arrangements. The 12 monitoring and verification teams were operational and responded to a number of complaints of ceasefire violations.

38. While the pace of the implementation of the Revitalized Agreement depended heavily on the political will, the Mission continued to provide technical advice and assistance to the implementation of various provisions of the Agreement, including support to the Transitional National Legislative Assembly and oversight bodies identified in the Agreement.

39. The national dialogue process moved to the second stage of holding regional dialogue forums and saw some progress towards inclusivity and compromise during the latter half of the reporting period. UNMISS remained engaged with the national dialogue secretariat and provided technical advice on best practices and lessons learned. In that context, through its good offices and confidence-building mandate, UNMISS initiated a series of dialogue forums to assist national stakeholders through the sharing of comparative experiences in a neutral and impartial space. Three different forums on political leadership; national dialogue and political parties; and political parties resulted in positive outcomes, including the first joint statement by all the political parties expressing a unified commitment to the full implementation of the Revitalized Agreement and the establishment of an ad hoc committee, comprising the national dialogue leadership and political party representatives to further advance inclusivity, which culminated in nominations from the majority of opposition members to the national dialogue.

C. Mission support initiatives

40. During the 2018/19 period, UNMISS improved resource effectiveness and achieved improvements in efficiency through further standardization of service delivery and the refinement of supply chain management to better support its priorities. The Mission also provided essential support related to the deployment of military and police personnel.

41. While the authorized strength of the military and police components remained unchanged, the Mission critically reviewed its civilian staffing component with a view to achieving desired outputs and providing effective services. The Mission realigned some mission support functions, necessitated by the outsourcing of functions related to facilities maintenance. Consequently, the General Services Section, which grouped less technically specialized support entities that did not individually contain enough critical mass to form separate sections of their own, was dissolved. This provided the Mission with more effective and efficient operations and an improved service delivery mandate in the areas of accommodation and facilities management.

42. The Mission expanded its information and communications technology services, including through the deployment of microwave links and additional network equipment to upgrade mission network infrastructure to support various field offices. The Mission continued to improve its supply chain management processes in a number of areas while refining the new demand acquisition planning procedures to better identify its needs for assets and improved planning.

43. During the reporting period, the Mission commenced the construction of solar farms in Wau and Juba, at an estimated cost of $2.1 million. The project is expected to be completed during the 2019/20 period. Considering the procurement timelines required to initiate solicitation and establish a contract for an outsourced service, and prevailing mission exigencies, the Mission deferred the planned construction of hard-walled ablution units until the 2019/20 period and procured 172 prefabricated ablution units instead to support immediate requirements.

44. As part of its environmental strategy, the Mission focused on improving its environmental governance model and its environmental risk management practices. A new Environmental Unit was established to lead the Mission's environmental mainstreaming efforts, with support from the Engineering Section as well as other sections. Furthermore, the Mission undertook numerous measures to mitigate its environmental impact, including: (a) the implementation of a wastewater risk mitigation plan; (b) the procurement and installation of 40 new wastewater treatment plants; (c) the installation of smart water meters to monitor water consumption in the Mission; (d) the implementation of a Mission energy management plan; (e) the procurement and installation of new biomedical waste incinerators; (f) the construction of environmentally friendly concrete platforms, equipped with dwarf walls, oil separators and spill kits, for generator and fuel storage sites to prevent oil leakages and spills; and (g) the planting of 2,000 indigenous trees. Initiatives were also taken to improve environmental awareness and environmental mainstreaming in Mission activities, including the conduct of awareness-raising and formal training activities, the launch of the Umuganda camp cleanliness campaign and the implementation of a new Mission environmental sustainability policy statement, which sets out the Mission's environmental vision and key commitments.

D. Regional mission cooperation

45. During the 2018/19 period, UNMISS continued working closely with IGAD and the African Union to advance the peace process and the implementation of the Revitalized Agreement in particular. The Special Representative of the Secretary-General continuously engaged with and coordinated United Nations support and good offices efforts on the peace process in South Sudan with the Special Envoy of the Secretary-General for the Horn of Africa, the Special Representative of the Secretary-General to the African Union and the IGAD Special Envoy for South Sudan.

46. UNMISS also continued to undertake coordination arrangements with other regional mission partners, such as the provision of support to the United Nations Interim Security Force for Abyei (UNISFA), mandated to support the Joint Border Verification and Monitoring Mechanism, including through working group arrangements on logistics, security, operations and communications issues and dedicated passenger flights from Entebbe, Uganda, to Wau, by way of Juba. UNMISS continued to support the UNISFA liaison office in Juba as needed.

47. The Regional Service Centre in Entebbe, Uganda, continued to provide regional support, including support to the Mission, in the areas of onboarding and separation, benefits and payroll, vendor payments, entitlements and official travel, claims processing (such as education grants and reimbursement for mission-related travel), cashier services, training and conference services, transport and movement control and information technology services.

48. The Mission continued to use the Global Procurement Support Section in Entebbe to streamline procurement services in the Central and East Africa regions through joint regional acquisition planning, the development of a regional procurement strategy, regional vendor management and the consolidation of requirements for regional systems contracts.

49. UNMISS continued to collaborate with other United Nations entities in the subregion. Upon request, the Mission continued air delivery of humanitarian cargo in support of operations by UNICEF, WFP, the World Health Organization, the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and IOM.

E. Partnerships, country team coordination and integrated missions

50. In order to further enhance overall system coherence, UNMISS continued to work closely with the United Nations country team in areas of common priority, in line with its mandate and the United Nations Cooperation Framework 2019–2021. During the reporting period, UNMISS, UNDP and other agencies, funds and programmes of the United Nations system continued to work collaboratively in support of the peace process and peacebuilding in South Sudan, including through the joint task forces on support for the implementation of the Revitalized Agreement and the national dialogue. UNMISS also supported the partnership for recovery and resilience programme through coordination functions at the field level in Aweil, Torit and Yambio. The programme, which was launched in March 2018, is aimed at bringing United Nations agencies, donor partners and non-governmental organizations to work together to reduce vulnerability and strengthen the resilience of people, communities and institutions.

51. Throughout the reporting period, UNMISS maintained regular contact and coordination with relevant individual agencies in areas of mutual concern as well as with the Office of the Resident Coordinator, including by participating in the biweekly meetings of the programme management team and the operations management team. Intensive coordination between UNMISS and the humanitarian country team continued under the Deputy Special Representative of the Secretary-General (Resident Coordinator/Humanitarian Coordinator) and through weekly meetings engaging all humanitarian partners, and quarterly meetings of the Humanitarian High-level Oversight Committee, co-chaired with the Minister for Cabinet Affairs. The UNMISS-humanitarian country team task force, co-chaired by UNMISS and the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs of the Secretariat, also met on a biweekly basis to discuss issues of mutual concern. In addition, the Special Representative of the Secretary-General engaged the heads of United Nations agencies, funds and programmes in South Sudan through weekly senior management group meetings.

52. UNMISS continued to implement the United Nations three-pronged strategy against sexual exploitation and abuse, including the roll-out of the sexual exploitation and abuse toolkit. The Mission collaborated with the Protection from Sexual Exploitation and Abuse Task Force to enhance the community-based complaints mechanisms through the provision of training to partners and other stakeholders; the distribution of communication kits; and the implementation of sensitization and awareness initiatives for the local population.

A total of 893 meetings and sessions were organized to engage with national and local stakeholders on protection of civilians issues. The engagements with national and state authorities led to the signing of local peace agreements and a significant reduction in the number of conflicts over grazing land in Terekeka; in the number of cross-border conflicts following the conference on peace, stability and security in the Northern Corridor that brought together authorities and communities from greater Warrap, Unity and Lakes; and in violence between Apuk and Aguok communities in Warrap

Meetings were held with mainstream faith-based leaders, representatives of the South Sudan Council of Churches, the Women's Parliamentary Caucus and representatives of diverse civil society groups to discuss the broadening of space and the need for more inclusive participation in the national dialogue process

Expected accomplishment 1.2: Improved protection for civilians under threat of physical violence, irrespective of the source of violence, with specific protection for women and children

Planned indicators of achievement

Actual indicators of achievement

1.2.1 Reduced number of civilian casualties, incidents and physical threats to civilians in and around UNMISS bases and areas of concentration for internally displaced persons and refugees (2016/17: 2,340; 2017/18: 4,500; 2018/19: 4,000)

The total number of casualties amounted to 4,253 individuals, including 1,943 injured and 2,310 fatalities. The higher number than the previous reporting period (2,915 civilian casualties during the 2017/18 period) was attributable to the increase in intercommunal conflicts and cattle raids during the dry season, despite the signing of the Revitalized Agreement

1.2.2 Increased number of mechanisms to support the protection of women, children and youth from conflict-related and gender-based violence (2016/17: 0; 2017/18:10; 2018/19: 20)	In addition to the existing and functioning Monitoring, Analysis and Reporting Arrangements Technical Working Group on conflict-related sexual violence and the country task force of the monitoring and reporting mechanism on grave violations against children in situations of armed conflict, the Joint Consultation Forum on conflict-related sexual violence in Juba was established with UNMISS support and held its first quarterly meeting on 10 April 2019. The increase was the result of a reduction in conflict across the country, which enabled greater accessibility, particularly in Jonglei region The clearance work has, inter alia, enabled the work of humanitarian partners, including by affording safe access for WFP to pre-position more than 19,500 tons of food in the greater Upper Nile region, and allowing UNMISS to safely open a new temporary operating base in Kodok and to close another in Nasir

Expected accomplishment 1.4: Enhancement of peaceful coexistence, reconciliation and social cohesion at the community level

Planned indicators of achievement

Actual indicators of achievement

1.4.1 Decrease in the number of reported intra- and intercommunal conflicts (2016/17: no data; 2017/18: 530; 2018/19: 450)

421 incidents of intra- and intercommunal conflicts were recorded from July 2018 to June 2019, compared with 258 incidents during the 2017/18 period. Although there has been a significant reduction in armed conflict following the signing of the Revitalized Agreement, there was a sharp upsurge in communal violence at the subnational level. The lull in armed conflict has seemingly created space for local actors, including disenfranchised elites and youth/local militias, to attempt to regain capital and social influence as well as avenge unresolved communal grievances

1.4.2 Increase in the number of reconciliation initiatives taken at the subnational level (2016/17: no data; 2017/18: 10; 2018/19: 15)

48 initiatives on reconciliation were taken at the subnational level by local actors. Significant initiatives included the intra-Nuer peace dialogue and inter-clan dialogue among pastoral communities in Central Equatoria, and peace conferences between conflicting communities in Lakes, Jonglei, Unity, Upper Nile, Warrap and greater Equatoria, resulting in signed resolutions and agreements

1.4.3 Increase in the number of local peace agreements (2016/17: no data; 2017/18: 10; 2018/19: 20)

36 peace agreements were recorded as a result of various peace events, such as peace conferences, dialogues and migration conferences, including migration-related agreements, such as those agreed during the inter-state migration conference among the Tonj, Gogrial and Wau regions and the post-migration conference among the Amadi, Terekeka, Gok, Eastern Lakes and Western Lakes regions, as well as an agreement regulating cross-border nomadic pastoralist migration between Upper Nile in South Sudan and White Nile State in the Sudan. Agreements to cease hostilities arising from the intercommunal conflict were also made in various forums and major peace conferences in Lakes, Warrap, greater Jonglei and greater Upper Nile

An increased number of initiatives by various parties and communities addressing communal conflict, as well as activities following the positive momentum created by the signing of the Revitalized Agreement, resulted in the higher number of local peace agreements, which included memorandums of understanding, communiqués, agreed resolutions, recommendations and action plans

53. During the reporting period, the pace of uniformed personnel deployment in the Mission increased, resulting in additional projected requirements under group I, military and police personnel, and group III, operational costs. In addition, additional requirements were projected under group II, civilian personnel, owing to increased salary scales for national staff, an increased post adjustment multiplier for international staff and lower actual vacancy rates. The Mission re-projected its resource requirements in March 2019, as shown in the table above, to identify resources that could be reallocated to meet the increased requirements. In this regard, the Mission was able to identify approved resources in the amount of $11.4 million under operational costs that could be repurposed to offset the increased requirements under civilian personnel. The net additional requirements of $25.9 million could not be absorbed within existing resources. Accordingly, the present report provides an analysis of the Mission's expenditure for the 2018/19 period against the amount of $1,150,894,000 shown in the last column of the table above.

^a Reflects resources authorized under commitment authority.

54. During the reporting period, funds were redeployed from group III, operational costs, to group II, civilian personnel, to cover increased requirements for: (a) international staff, owing mainly to an increase in the post adjustment multiplier and to higher common staff costs; (b) national staff, owing mainly to the application of the latest salary scales for local staff in South Sudan; and (c) United Nations volunteers, owing mainly to an increase in programme support costs. The redeployment of funds from group III, operational costs, was possible mainly because of lower requirements under the air operations and facilities infrastructure classes.

C. Monthly expenditure pattern

55. The higher expenditure in August 2018 was attributable mainly to the creation of obligations for: (a) standard troop and formed police unit cost reimbursement; (b) fuel for generators and air operations; (c) the rental and operation of aircraft; and (d) mine detection and clearing services. For October 2018, the higher expenditure was attributable mainly to the creation of obligations for contingent-owned equipment: major equipment and self-sustainment.

IV. Analysis of variances¹

	Variance
Military observers	($343.9)	(3.4%)

56. The increased requirements were attributable mainly to the sharing of accommodations, which increased requirements for mission subsistence allowance. The budget estimates had been based on the assumption that each military observer would occupy a unit of accommodation, rather than sharing.

	Variance
Military contingents	$2 131.5	0.4%

57. The reduced requirements were attributable mainly to lower costs for: (a) rations, owing primarily to the lower actual requirements for outbound transportation resulting from the utilization of Mission air assets; (b) travel on emplacement, rotation and repatriation, owing to the non-deployment of three military contingent units and the lower-than-budgeted costs for the rotation travel of military contingent personnel from four troop-contributing countries; and (c) freight and deployment of contingent-owned equipment, owing to the non-deployment of three military contingent units. The reduced requirements were offset in part by increased requirements for contingent-owned equipment self-sustainment, owing primarily to higher-than-expected expenditure for newly deployed military contingent units.

United Nations police	($1 657.3)	(5.8%)

58. The increased requirements were attributable mainly to the sharing of accommodations, which increased requirements for mission subsistence allowance. The budget estimates had been based on the assumption that most United Nations police officers would occupy a unit of accommodation, rather than sharing.

	Variance
International staff	($3 522.4)	(1.8%)

59. The increased requirements were attributable mainly to an increase in the post adjustment multiplier during the performance period, higher-than-anticipated requirements for common staff costs and higher costs for danger pay owing to a higher-than-anticipated number of days spent by staff members in the Mission area.

	Variance
National staff	($1 397.9)	(2.3%)

60. The increased requirements were attributable mainly to the application of the latest salary scales for local staff in South Sudan effective 1 November 2017, which were promulgated on 9 April 2018.

	Variance
United Nations Volunteers	($1 981.5)	(9.0%)

61. The increased requirements were attributable mainly to an increase in programme support costs from 8 to 13 per cent effective 1 January 2019, higher resettlement allowances owing to the repatriation of a higher-than-expected number of United Nations Volunteers and higher-than-anticipated requirements for the well-being supplement.

	Variance
General temporary assistance	($219.6)	(2.9%)

62. The increased requirements were attributable mainly to an increase in the post adjustment multiplier for international staff funded under general temporary assistance during the performance period.

	Variance
Consultants and consulting services	$230.2	56.6%

63. The reduced requirements were attributable mainly to the non-utilization of the budgeted resources for the Rapid Environment and Climate Technical Assistance project.

	Variance
Facilities and infrastructure	$1 557.8	1.7%

64. The reduced requirements were attributable mainly to lower costs related to: (a) construction, alteration, renovation and major maintenance, owing to lower-than-anticipated implementation with regard to the construction of solar farms in Juba and Wau and the replacement of prefabricated facilities and ablutions units with hard-wall accommodation units throughout the Mission; (b) petrol, oil and lubricants, owing primarily to lower operation and maintenance fees in accordance with the newly established contractual arrangements; and (c) lower-than-anticipated requirements for the acquisition of safety and security equipment. The reduced requirements were offset in part by increased requirements for spare parts and supplies and the acquisition of engineering supplies to meet urgent operational requirements.

	Variance
Ground transportation	($1 188.1)	(10.7%)

65. The increased requirements were attributable mainly to the acquisition of seven units of fire/rescue trucks, which were identified by the Fire Safety Unit as being urgent necessities at field office locations, owing to security considerations. The increased requirements were offset in part by lower requirements for repairs and maintenance owing to a delay in the establishment of a local contract for the repair and maintenance of the Mission's heavy-duty vehicle fleet.

	Variance
Air operations	$6 535.2	5.7%

66. The reduced requirements were attributable mainly to fewer-than-anticipated flight hours for fixed- and rotary-wing aircraft, owing mainly to: (a) the non-deployment of one Mi-17 helicopter as a result of operational considerations; (b) the non-availability of three Mi-26 helicopters for approximately six months during a period of vendor review; (c) the non-utilization of a fixed-wing aircraft for a period of three months; and (d) the continuous revision of flight schedules within the Mission area as part of the measures taken to implement the Secretary-General's initiative to maximize the utilization of aviation resources. The lower-than-anticipated flight hours resulted in lower flight hour costs and reduced requirements for petrol, oil and lubricants.

	Variance
Marine operations	($84.3)	(9.2%)

67. The increased requirements were attributable mainly to the acquisition of a higher-than-planned number of sea containers for the shipment of goods and equipment.

	Variance
Communications and information technology	($631.7)	(2.2%)

68. The increased requirements were attributable mainly to the replacement of communications and information technology equipment that were past their useful life expectancies, and to higher-than-anticipated costs for public information and publication services. The increased requirements were offset in part by lower requirements for the maintenance of communications and information technology equipment and support services, owing primarily to lower-than-anticipated costs for satellite imagery and internationally contracted communications and information technology personnel.

	Variance
Medical	$622.2	32.5%

69. The reduced requirements were attributable mainly to the use of United Nations air assets instead of commercial flights for medical evacuations and the introduction of a new drug contract for medical supplies, resulting in lower actual costs.

	Variance
Other supplies, services and equipment	$779.5	1.4%

70. The reduced requirements were attributable mainly to lower requirements for mine detection and mine clearing services, owing primarily to lower-than-anticipated costs for the deployment of explosive detection canine services, and to lower-than-anticipated expenditure for welfare. The reduced requirements were offset in part by increased requirements for other freight and related costs, owing primarily to the higher-than-anticipated acquisition of some items, necessitating higher freight costs.

V. Performance of financial resources approved under the authority to enter into commitments

71. The pace of uniformed personnel deployment in the Mission increased during the reporting period as a result of progress in force generation and renewed support from the host Government, following intensive and continued engagement with the Government by the Mission. The increased deployment led the Mission to implement a number of austerity measures to meet its priority operational requirements within the approved resources for the personnel and operational groups of expenditure, and at the same time to seek additional resources in the total amount of $25,933,600, which could not be accommodated from within existing resources.

72. In a letter dated 30 April 2019, the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions authorized the Secretary-General to enter into commitments of up to an amount of $25,933,600 gross, for the period 1 July 2018 to 30 June 2019, in addition to the amount already appropriated for the same period.

Military and police personnel

73. An average of 16,538 uniformed personnel were deployed during the reporting period, in line with the projected average deployment of 16,546 personnel, which was the basis for the resources approved under the authority to enter into commitments. As a result, there were reduced requirements of only $52,700 for military and police personnel compared with the total additional requirements projected for the military and police personnel category under the authority to enter into commitments.

Civilian personnel

74. The expenditure for civilian personnel was $1.8 million higher than the total additional requirements projected under the authority to enter into commitments, owing to the higher-than-anticipated impact of the increased salary scales for national staff and the increase in the post adjustment multiplier for international staff.

Operational costs

75. The Mission was able to utilize the resources authorized for operational costs under the authority to enter into commitments and undertake the projects required in relation to the increased deployment and repositioning of military and police personnel associated with the increased deployment of uniformed personnel. The resource requirements under operational costs were offset in part by lower requirements under facilities and infrastructure and other supplies, services and equipment, resulting in reduced requirements of $1.7 million.

76. Taking into consideration the overall performance of the financial resources of the Mission, the additional actual commitments of $25,933,600 are reduced by the unencumbered balance of $786,900 for the 2018/19 period. In view of the above, the net amount of $25,146,700 is to be appropriated by Member States.

VI. Actions to be taken by the General Assembly

77. The actions to be taken by the General Assembly in connection with the financing of the United Nations Mission in South Sudan are:

(a) To appropriate an additional amount of $25,146,700 to the Special Account for the United Nations Mission in South Sudan for the period from 1 July 2018 to 30 June 2019, representing additional resources authorized under the commitment authority, which were utilized and not assessed in respect of the financial period ended 30 June 2019;

(b) Taking into account the amount of $1,124,960,400 already assessed on Member States under the terms of its resolution 72/300, to apply other revenue in respect of the financial period ended 30 June 2019 in the total amount of $19,619,400 from investment revenue ($3,913,200), other/miscellaneous revenue ($461,400) and the cancellation of prior-period obligations ($15,244,800) against the shortfall in assessment for the same period;

(c) To assess the additional amount of $5,527,300, representing the difference between the increase in appropriation ($25,146,700) and other revenue ($19,619,400) for the period ended 30 June 2019;

(d) To decide on the treatment of the increase in the staff assessment income in the amount of $8,402,800 for the period from 1 July 2017 to 30 June 2018.

VII. Summary of follow-up action taken to implement the decisions and requests of the General Assembly in its resolution 73/323

(Resolution 73/323)
