The Dutch established the first permanent European settlement in 1648. British planters took control of the islands in 1666 and the Territory attained the status of a British colony.

I. Constitutional, political and legal issues

1. In accordance with the Virgin Islands Constitution Order 2007, the British Crown appoints a governor whose responsibilities include defence, internal security, external affairs, the terms and conditions of service for persons in the public service and the administration of the courts. In some areas of external affairs that relate to certain matters falling within ministerial portfolios, the Constitution provides for the territorial Government to have delegated responsibility. The United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland has reserved powers to make laws for the peace, order and good government of the British Virgin Islands. In terms of external relations, the territorial Government is entrusted to negotiate treaties in specific areas, such as matters related to the offshore financial services industry.

2. The 2007 Constitution provided for a more formally structured cabinet-style Government for the executive branch. The Cabinet consists of the Governor; the Premier, appointed by the Governor from among the locally elected members of the House of Assembly; four other Ministers, appointed by the Governor on the advice of the Premier; and one ex officio member, namely, the Attorney General. The Governor presides over the Cabinet but does not have a voting right. The agenda is agreed by the Cabinet Steering Committee, consisting of the Governor, the Premier and the Cabinet Secretary. The House of Assembly consists of a Speaker, the Attorney General (ex officio) and 13 elected members — 9 from one-member electoral districts and 4 representing the Territory at large.

3. General elections are constitutionally mandated to be held at least once every four years. Candidates are elected on the basis of a simple majority. Persons voting must be 18 years of age or over and have “belonger” status. Belonger status includes the right to work without a permit and the right to vote. In practice, a person must reside continuously in the Territory for 20 years before he or she may apply for permanent residence and, subsequently, belonger status. In the general election held on 8 June 2015, the incumbent National Democratic Party led by Premier Daniel Orlando Smith again won a majority, 11 of 13 of seats, whereas the Virgin Islands Party won the remaining seats.

4. The law of the British Virgin Islands comprises the common law of England and legislation that is enacted either by the territorial legislature or by the United Kingdom on behalf of the Territory. The judiciary is administered by the Saint Lucia-based Eastern Caribbean Supreme Court, which consists of the High Court of Justice and the Court of Appeal. There is a magistrates’ court, which hears prescribed civil and criminal cases, a juvenile court and a court of summary jurisdiction. There are three resident High Court judges and a visiting Court of Appeal, which comprises the Chief Justice and two judges of appeal and sits twice a year in the Territory. The Privy Council of the United Kingdom is the final court of appeal. The British Overseas Territories Act 2002 provides for the granting of British citizenship to “British Overseas Territory citizens”.

5. At the Pacific regional seminar held in Quito from 30 May to 1 June 2012, the representative of the British Virgin Islands stated that the Territory’s position was to maintain its current relationship with the administering Power, built on mutual respect and a mature partnership, as the Territory continued to grow. Furthermore, speaking at the Caribbean regional seminar held in Quito from 28 to 30 May 2013, the representative of the British Virgin Islands stated that, in his view, the Special Political and Decolonization Committee (Fourth Committee) should set specific achievable goals, taking into account the particularities of each territory, in order to further advance the decolonization process in all the territories.

II. Budget

6. The fiscal year of the Government of the British Virgin Islands runs from January to December. According to information provided by the administering Power, the estimated expenditure of the Territory for 2015 amounted to approximately $322.16 million, with estimated revenue of about $317.62 million. According to the 2016 budget address delivered on 8 February 2016, the revenue for 2016 is projected to be approximately $331 million, total recurrent expenditure about $287 million and capital expenditure nearly $42 million.

III. Economic conditions

A. General

7. The two main pillars of the economy of the Territory are tourism and offshore financial services. According to the administering Power, gross domestic product (GDP) for 2014 was $933.77 million, indicating growth of 4.1 per cent compared with the 2013 figures of $897.33 million. According to the medium-term fiscal plan of the territorial Government for the years 2016 to 2018, the economy of the Territory returned to positive growth in 2013, driven by growth in the hotel and restaurant, wholesale and retail and real estate, renting and business activity sectors.

B. Financial services

8. In 2015, financial services constituted approximately one third of overall economic activity in the Territory, as has been the case since 2010. In addition, the revenue from financial services remained unchanged in 2014, at $207.9 million, of which $200 million came from company incorporations and re-registrations, although the number of company incorporations in 2014 was down 4.7 per cent in comparison with 2013.

9. In the first six months of 2016, 16,223 companies were incorporated in the British Virgin Islands, compared with 23,413 companies incorporated during the same period in 2015, a decline of approximately 30 per cent. In 2015, close to 45,000 companies were incorporated in the Territory.

10. In the communiqué adopted at the fifth meeting of the Overseas Territories Joint Ministerial Council, held in London on 1 and 2 November 2016, the overseas territories and the United Kingdom reiterated their mutual determination to continue to tackle corruption, fraud, money-laundering and the financing of terrorism and weapons of mass destruction and to further enhance transparency and law enforcement cooperation in the context of financial services. They also reiterated their shared commitment to providing the leadership necessary to meet the June 2017 deadline for the implementation of new arrangements regarding the exchange of beneficial ownership information on companies incorporated in their jurisdictions and to continuing to provide the highest levels of law enforcement cooperation possible before that date.

11. In April 2016, the British Virgin Islands concluded a bilateral arrangement with the United Kingdom on the reciprocal exchange of beneficial ownership information, which is due to come into effect by June 2017 and will allow law enforcement authorities to have near real-time access to beneficial ownership information on corporate and legal entities incorporated in the respective jurisdictions.

C. Tourism

12. In 2015, more than 922,000 tourists visited the Territory, including some 516,000 cruise ship visitors, 393,000 overnight visitors and nearly 13,000 day trippers. Furthermore, in the first nine months of 2016, a total of 821,099 arrivals was recorded, including more than 315,000 overnight visitors and 491,000 cruise ship visitors.

D. Agriculture and fisheries

13. According to the administering Power, agriculture and fishing accounted for approximately 1.45 per cent of the Territory's GDP in 2014. Most food requirements are met through imports. Approximately 800 ha of land are cultivated and another 4,000 ha are devoted to pasture. The main crops are fruits and vegetables, produced for both local consumption and export. The United States Virgin Islands is the main importer of the agricultural and fishing products of the British Virgin Islands.

The project, undertaken in partnership between the territorial Government and British Virgin Islands Airways, is estimated to cost $7 million over a three-year period. In addition, the territorial Government plans to extend the runway at the Terrance B. Lettsome International Airport to accommodate larger aircraft for direct continental flights. Direct shipping services operate from the Netherlands, the United Kingdom and the United States. A deep-water harbour is located in Road Town. A regular ferry service links Tortola with some of the islands, as well as with the United States Virgin Islands.

17. The extension of the cruise pier in Tortola, along with landside development, which had commenced in 2014, was completed in early 2016 and was commissioned for service in March 2016. The total cost for completion of the project was estimated at approximately $82 million.

18. Physical planning in the British Virgin Islands is governed by the Physical Planning Act of 2004, under which all development in the Territory must be approved by the Physical Planning Authority.

19. Tortola is reportedly the only island in the Territory with a public sewage system, although it does not cover the entire island. According to the administering Power, the introduction of desalination in the 1980s notwithstanding, there is a need for the further development of the potable water system to meet the needs of the islands and, in 2015, the territorial Government continued to improve the Territory's public water and sewage system.

24. In November 2014, the 17-member Minimum Wage Advisory Committee was formed on the basis of its approval by the territorial Government on 19 September 2014 in order to consider the effects of raising the minimum wage, which had remained at $4 per hour since 1999. The Committee recommended an increase in the minimum wage to $6 per hour in its report dated 21 July 2015. The report was presented in the House of Assembly on 2 November 2015. Effective 1 October 2016, the minimum wage is $6 per hour.

26. The education system in the Territory is guided by the Education Act 2004 and its amendments, including the Education (Amendment) Act 2014. The college also collaborates with several universities outside the Virgin Islands that offer programmes at the bachelor's degree level.

29. Students from overseas territories benefit from the home student rate for school fees at British universities, provided that they have lived in a British overseas territory, the European Economic Area or Switzerland for the three years prior to the first academic year of their course of study. In addition, those students have access to funding provided by the European Union for higher or vocational education.

According to the administering Power, a bill entitled "Human Rights Commission Act", which had been originally introduced in the House of Assembly in November 2014, was reintroduced in 2016 for the first reading in the House. Some of the powers and duties of the human rights commission to be established include educating the public on the rights and freedoms in the 2007 Constitution and those relating to other international human rights instruments or activities. The judicial system continues to hear matters brought on the grounds of alleged infringements of human rights.

34. The first national policy for gender equity and equality was developed in 2011 with the objective of educating and changing public attitudes on gender roles and responsibilities and developing new strategies to eliminate domestic and other forms of gender-based violence and discrimination in the Territory.

In addition, according to the administering Power, public consultations have been held since 2014 to dedicate six new protected coastal and marine zones.

38. In the communiqué adopted at the fifth meeting of the Overseas Territories Joint Ministerial Council, in 2016, the Government of the United Kingdom and the overseas territories recognized the impact that climate change had on the economies, infrastructure and ecosystems of the territories and the important interest of the overseas territories in international efforts to combat and mitigate the effects of climate change. The Government of the United Kingdom committed itself to consulting with territorial Governments on the issue of the application of the Paris Agreement to the territories. It reiterated its full commitment to consulting the overseas territories ahead of its participation in international forums on climate change to ensure that their priorities were taken into account and to including them in delegations, where appropriate, while welcoming the territories' links with regional and international organizations.

Topics addressed in the meetings include law enforcement, pleasure boating and sport fishing, other maritime matters, cooperation in tourism, energy and utilities and culture and education.

42. As a Non-Self-Governing Territory of the United Kingdom, the Territory is associated with the European Union but is not a part of it. At the fifth meeting of the Overseas Territories Joint Ministerial Council, in 2016, the United Kingdom committed itself to involving Gibraltar and the overseas territories as it prepared for negotiations to leave the European Union, in accordance with their various constitutional relationships with the United Kingdom, to ensure that their priorities were taken into account.

VII. Future status of the Territory

A. Position of the territorial Government

43. The position of the territorial Government regarding the future status of the British Virgin Islands is reflected under section I, above.

B. Position of the administering Power

44. At the 7th meeting of the Fourth Committee, on 10 October 2016, during the seventy-first session of the General Assembly, the representative of the United Kingdom stated that the relationship of the Government of the United Kingdom with its overseas territories was a modern one based on partnership, shared values and the right of the people of each Territory to choose to remain British.

45. He went on to say that, since the publication in June 2012 by the Government of the United Kingdom of a white paper entitled The Overseas Territories: Security, Success and Sustainability, his Government had worked closely with the overseas territories to further develop those partnerships. At annual meetings of the Overseas Territories Joint Ministerial Council, the United Kingdom and the territories reviewed strategy and commitments and, in 2015, the United Kingdom had affirmed its commitment to the advancement of the peoples of the territories, their just treatment and protecting them from abuses and the importance of promoting their right to self-determination. His Government's fundamental responsibility was to ensure the security and good governance of the territories and their peoples.

46. In the communiqué adopted at the fifth meeting of the Overseas Territories Joint Ministerial Council, the Government of the United Kingdom and the leaders of the overseas territories stated that the principle of equal rights and self-determination of peoples, as enshrined in the Charter of the United Nations, applied to the peoples of the overseas territories. They reaffirmed the importance of promoting the right of the peoples of the territories to self-determination, a collective responsibility of all parts of the Government of the United Kingdom. They committed themselves to exploring ways in which the overseas territories could maintain international support in countering hostile sovereignty claims. It was also stated that, should a Territory with a permanent population wish it, the United Kingdom would continue to support its request to be removed from the list of Non-Self-Governing Territories. They agreed that the fundamental structure of their constitutional relationships was the right one — powers were devolved to the elected Governments of the territories to the maximum extent possible consistent with the United Kingdom's retaining those powers necessary to discharge its sovereign responsibilities. They also agreed upon the need to continue their engagement on those issues to ensure that constitutional arrangements worked effectively to promote the best interests of the territories and of the United Kingdom.

VIII. Action taken by the General Assembly

47. On 6 December 2016, the General Assembly adopted resolution 71/111 without a vote, on the basis of the report of the Special Committee on the Situation with regard to the Implementation of the Declaration on the Granting of Independence to Colonial Countries and Peoples for 2016 (A/71/23) and the subsequent recommendation by the Fourth Committee.
