(a) Background information

6. At its forty-second session, in 2009, the Commission requested the Secretariat to prepare a study on electronic transferable records in the light of proposals received at that session (A/CN.9/681 and Add.1, and A/CN.9/682).²

7. At its forty-third session, in 2010, the Commission had before it additional information on the use of electronic communications for the transfer of rights in goods, with particular regard to the use of registries for the creation and transfer of rights (A/CN.9/692, paras. 12-47). At that session, the Commission requested the Secretariat to convene a colloquium on relevant topics, namely, electronic transferable records, identity management, electronic commerce conducted with mobile devices and electronic single window facilities, and to report on the discussions held at that colloquium.³

8. At its forty-fourth session, in 2011, the Commission had before it a note by the Secretariat (A/CN.9/728 and Add.1) summarizing the discussions at the colloquium on electronic commerce (New York, 14-16 February 2011).⁴ After discussion, the Commission mandated the Working Group to undertake work in the field of electronic transferable records.⁵ It was recalled that such work would be beneficial not only for the generic promotion of electronic communications in international trade, but also to address some specific issues such as assisting in the implementation of the Rotterdam Rules.⁶

9. In addition, the Commission agreed that work regarding electronic transferable records might include certain aspects of other topics such as identity management, use of mobile devices in electronic commerce and electronic single window facilities.⁷ However, as to the extension of the mandate of the Working Group to such topics as discrete subjects (and not incidental to electronic transferable records), the Commission agreed to discuss it at a future session.⁸

10. At its forty-fifth session (Vienna, 10-14 October 2011), the Working Group began its work on various legal issues relating to the use of electronic transferable records, including possible methodology for future work by the Working Group (A/CN.9/737, paras. 14-88). It also considered the work of other international organizations on this subject (A/CN.9/737, paras. 89-91).

11. At the forty-fifth session of the Commission, in 2012, there was general support for the Working Group to continue its work on electronic transferable records and the need for an international regime to facilitate the cross-border use of electronic transferable records was emphasized.⁹ In that context, the desirability of identifying and focusing on specific types of or specific issues related to electronic transferable records was mentioned.¹⁰ After discussion, the Commission reaffirmed the mandate of the Working Group relating to electronic transferable records.¹¹

12. At its forty-sixth session (Vienna, 29 October-2 November 2012), the Working Group continued its examination of the legal issues relating to the use of electronic transferable records. At the outset, the Working Group confirmed the desirability of continuing work on electronic transferable records and the potential usefulness of guidance in that field and it was widely felt that generic rules based on a functional approach should be developed encompassing various types of electronic transferable records (A/CN.9/761, paras. 17-18). Thereafter, the Working Group considered various legal issues that arise during the life cycle of electronic transferable records

(A/CN.9/761, paras. 24-89). As to future work, broad support was expressed for the preparation of draft provisions on electronic transferable records to be presented in the form of a model law, without prejudice to the decision on the form of its work to be made by the Working Group (A/CN.9/761, paras. 90-93).

13. At its forty-seventh session (New York, 13-17 May 2013), the Working Group began its consideration of the draft provisions as presented in document A/CN.9/WG.IV/WP.122. It was expressed that the rules enabling the use of electronic transferable records would interact with general provisions on the use of electronic transactions, and that further harmonization of those general provisions would be highly desirable (A/CN.9/768, para. 15). As to future work, it was noted that although it was premature to discuss the final form of work, the draft provisions were largely compatible with different outcomes that could be achieved (A/CN.9/768, para. 112).

14. At its forty-sixth session, in 2013, the Commission took note of the progress being made by the Working Group with respect to electronic transferable records.¹² Recognizing that the current work of the Working Group would greatly assist in facilitating electronic commerce in international trade, the Commission reaffirmed the mandate of the Working Group relating to electronic transferable records.¹³

15. At its forty-eighth session (Vienna, 9-13 November 2013), the Working Group continued its work on the preparation of draft provisions as presented in document A/CN.9/WG.IV/WP.124 and its addendum. The Working Group also took into consideration the legal issues related to the use of electronic transferable records as presented in document A/CN.9/WG.IV/WP.125.

16. At its forty-ninth session (New York, 28 April-2 May 2014), the Working Group continued its work on the preparation of draft provisions as presented in document A/CN.9/WG.IV/WP.128 and its addendum. The Working Group focused on the discussion on the concepts of original, uniqueness, and integrity of an electronic transferable record based on principles of functional equivalence and technological neutrality.

17. At its forty-seventh session, in 2014, the Commission took note of the Working Group's key discussions at its forty-eighth and forty-ninth sessions.¹⁴ Noting that the current work of the Working Group would greatly assist in facilitating electronic commerce in international trade, the Commission reaffirmed the mandate of the Working Group to develop a legislative text on electronic transferable records.¹⁵
