Recommendation 1

Acknowledging that firearms trafficking is a transnational threat oftentimes linked to organized crime, including drug trafficking, and terrorism, and that the availability and accessibility of firearms, their parts and components and ammunition to these groups increases their destructive power and provides them with the material and financial means to pursue their goals and to perpetuate their existence, Member States should take all necessary actions to prevent these groups from acquiring these items.

Recommendation 2

Further acknowledging that illicit firearms facilitate organized crime and the commission of terrorist acts and undermines attainment of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development (China), Member States should consider develop integrated and holistic approaches, national strategies or action plans to prevent and counter the illicit trafficking in firearms, their parts and components and ammunition, in particular in the context of transnational organized crime and terrorism.

Recommendation 3

Recognizing that the full and effective implementation of the United Nations Convention Against Transnational Organized Crime and its supplementary Firearms Protocol provides a meaningful basis to prevent and combat the illicit manufacturing of and trafficking in firearms, and its links to organized crime and terrorism, the Conference may wish to call upon all Member States that have not yet done so to adhere to and fully implement the above instruments.

B. Recommendations on specific topics

1. Recommendations on legislative measures

Recommendation 4

Member States should enhance, where necessary, their national legal and institutional frameworks to address the interconnected threats posed by the illicit firearms trafficking, and other crimes such as organized crime and terrorism, and to request UNODC to provide assistance in this regard.

Recommendation 5

Member States should in particular revise and strengthen their national firearms legislation in order to identify legislative gaps and potential loopholes that can facilitate the access of firearms to criminal or terrorist groups and their diversion into the illegal market, taking into account emerging threats and technological developments, by reinforcing inter alia their provisions on manufacturing, deactivation and conversion, strengthening national transfer and licensing controls, as well as by considering introducing specific criminal offences related to the illicit manufacturing of and trafficking in firearms when linked to serious crimes, such as terrorism or organized crime.

2. Recommendations on preventive, security and regulatory measures

Recommendation 6

Member States are recommended to consider practical measures aimed at enhancing the control and traceability of firearms and to continue seeking innovative technological solutions in order to overcome the challenges posed by the frequent obliteration and erasing of markings on firearms used by criminal and terrorist groups, such as introducing microchips into weapons during their assembly process, inter alia.

Recommendation 7

Taking into account that comprehensive records and adequate marking are pre-requisites for effective tracing, Member States should consider the importance of maintaining records on firearms for as long as may be possible, and strengthening the capacity of law enforcement officers to efficiently search and use national databases with a view to investigating concrete criminal cases involving firearms trafficking and illicit firearms.

Recommendation 12

With a view to ensure that criminal organizations responsible for firearm trafficking are identified and their leaders brought to justice, Member States should consider sharing information on seized firearms that were illegally trafficked into their territory, and ensure that further investigations are initiated, in follow up to the tracing requests, in the country where the last legal record of the firearms was identified.

Recommendation 19

Member States are encouraged to periodically exchange information at regional and sub-regional levels on emerging threats related to the illicit trafficking in firearms with a view to detecting and identifying those threats early on and raising the awareness of other countries which might, due to the geographic proximity, face similar issues.
