The Council, during its substantive session of 2001, decided that the high-level segment of its substantive session of 2002 would be devoted to the consideration of the following theme: "The contribution of human resources development, including in the areas of health and education, to the process of development" (Council decision 2001/299).

B. Operational activities of the United Nations for international development cooperation segment

3. Operational activities of the United Nations for international development cooperation

(a) Progress report on the implementation of the triennial comprehensive policy review

In accordance with General Assembly resolution 56/201, paragraph 95, the Council will examine the operational activities for development of the United Nations system in order to evaluate the implementation of the triennial comprehensive policy review of those activities with a view to ensuring its full implementation.

In paragraph 28 of the same resolution, the General Assembly stressed that capacity-building and its sustainability should be explicitly articulated as a goal of technical assistance provided by operational activities of the United Nations system and that the technical skills profiles of country offices should be regularly assessed to ensure effective capacity-building of the recipient countries, and requested United Nations organizations to review their efforts in the field of capacity-building and to report, through the Secretary-General, to the Council, at its substantive session of 2002, on the results achieved in that area.

In paragraph 53 of resolution 56/201, the General Assembly requested the Secretary-General to submit to the Council, at its substantive session of 2002, in consultation with Member States and on the basis of the experience acquired with the impact evaluation studies, suggestions on how to strengthen the modalities and enhance the approach for an overall assessment of the effectiveness of the operational activities for development of the United Nations system, particularly in the areas identified in resolution 56/201.

In paragraphs 60 through 65 of resolution 56/201, the General Assembly also requested the United Nations system organizations to take concrete steps to simplify their rules and procedures for operational activities in a number of specific areas (decentralization and delegation of authority, financial regulations, procedures for implementing programmes and projects, monitoring and reporting requirements, common shared services at country offices, and recruitment, training and remuneration of national project personnel (para. 60)). In particular, in paragraph 61 of the resolution, the Assembly requested the funds and programmes of the United Nations system to submit to the Council at its substantive session of 2002 a programme of work for the full simplification and harmonization in the above-mentioned areas to be completed before the end of 2004, including provisions to phase out redundant rules and procedures, benchmarks, responsibilities and a timetable to monitor progress towards reaching that target. The report of the Secretary-General will summarize the initiatives currently under way in this domain, whereas the programmes of work of the funds and programmes, which will be finalized by June 2002, will be submitted in the form of a conference room paper, together with the consolidated list of issues as indicated.

In paragraph 94 of resolution 56/201, the General Assembly also requested the Secretary-General, after consultation with the funds, programmes and specialized agencies of the United Nations system, to submit a progress report to the Council, at its substantive session of 2002, on an appropriate management process, containing clear guidelines, targets, benchmarks and time frames for the full implementation of the resolution.

In its resolution 1998/27, paragraph 4, the Council invited the Secretary-General to arrange for the submission by the executive heads of the United Nations funds and programmes, in consultation with the United Nations Development Group, to the Council at its annual substantive session, of a concise consolidated list of issues that were central to the improved coordination of operational activities and on which the funds and programmes sought consideration by and guidance from the Council, particularly in regard to the triennial comprehensive policy review, and to include in the list recommendations whenever possible.

(b) Reports of the Executive Boards of the United Nations Development Programme/ United Nations Population Fund, the United Nations Children's Fund and the World Food Programme

The Council will also have before it the reports of the Executive Boards of the United Nations Development Programme/United Nations Population Fund, the United Nations Children's Fund and the World Food Programme, and the report of the Secretary-General on issues arising from the Executive Boards of United Nations funds and programmes, including their overall financial picture, as well as the annual reports of the four funds and programmes.

At its forty-eighth session, the General Assembly decided, in order to ensure an effective and efficient interaction between the Assembly, the Council and the individual Executive Boards, that each Board would submit an annual report on its programmes and activities to the Council at its substantive session (Assembly resolution 48/162, annex I, para. 29). At its substantive session of 1994, the Council requested the United Nations development funds and programmes, through their Executive Boards, to include in their annual reports to the Council, which should have a common structure: (a) a section outlining measures taken in the implementation of the provisions of the triennial comprehensive policy review of operational activities; and (b) a section on the activities and measures undertaken within the designated theme for the high-level meeting of the operational activities segment (Council resolution 1994/33).

At its fifty-third session, the General Assembly invited the Executive Boards of the United Nations funds and programmes to ensure that the heads of those funds and programmes included in their annual reports to the Council, prepared in accordance with Council resolution 1994/33, a thorough analysis of problems encountered and lessons learned, with emphasis on issues arising from the implementation of the Secretary-General's reform programme, the triennial comprehensive policy review and the follow-up to international conferences, so as to allow the Council to fulfil its coordinating role (Assembly resolution 53/192, para. 59).

At its fifty-sixth session, the General Assembly requested the funds, programmes and specialized agencies of the United Nations system to examine ways to further simplify their rules and procedures and, in this context, to accord the issue of simplification and harmonization high priority and to take concrete steps in the following areas: the decentralization and delegation of authority; the financial regulations; the procedures for implementing programmes and projects and, in particular, the requirements in terms of monitoring and reporting; the common shared services, at country offices; and the recruitment, training and remuneration of national project personnel (Assembly resolution 56/201, para. 60), and also requested the funds and programmes of the United Nations system to submit to the Council at its substantive session of 2002 a programme of work for the full simplification and harmonization in the above-mentioned areas, to be completed before the end of 2004, including provisions to phase out redundant rules and procedures, benchmarks, responsibilities and a timetable to monitor the progress made towards reaching that target.

C. Coordination segment4. Strengthening further the Economic and Social Council, building on its recent achievements, to help it fulfil the role ascribed to it in the Charter of the United Nations as contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration

During its substantive session of 2001, the Council decided on the following theme for the coordination segment of its substantive session of 2002: "Strengthening further the Economic and Social Council, building on its recent achievements, to help it fulfil the role ascribed to it in the Charter of the United Nations as contained in the United Nations Millennium Declaration" (Council decision 2001/299).

The Council will have before it the report of the Secretary-General on the above theme. This report aims to assist the Council in its deliberations on that theme by reviewing the efforts made in the recent years to revitalize the Council and by outlining how the Council can be further strengthened, given the changes in the nature of and approaches to global economic and social issues.

In its resolution 2001/27, the Council invited the functional commissions to provide concise, action-oriented input to its annual coordination segments. In this regard, the Council will have before it a consolidated report on the work of the functional commissions.

The coordination segment provides an occasion for the Council to reflect on its role in support of the General Assembly in helping to achieve the millennium development goals. Furthermore, it could consider how to best discharge the Council's central role in the follow-up to the Monterrey International Conference on Financing for Development, at which the United Nations, the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund with the World Trade Organization were encouraged "to address issues of coherence, coordination, and cooperation, as a follow-up to the Conference, at the spring meeting between the Economic and Social Council and the Bretton Woods institutions" (Monterrey Consensus (A/CONF.198/3), para. 69 (b)). This meeting was also requested "to include an intergovernmental segment to address an agenda agreed by the participating organizations, as well as a dialogue with civil society and the private sector" (ibid.).

D. Humanitarian affairs segment

5. Special economic, humanitarian and disaster relief assistance

At its resumed organizational session for 2002, the Council decided that the theme of the humanitarian affairs segment of the substantive session of 2002 of the Council would be: "_____". (Council decision 2002/___).

At its forty-sixth session, the General Assembly requested the Emergency Relief Coordinator to prepare an annual report for the Secretary-General on the coordination of humanitarian emergency assistance of the United Nations, including information on the central emergency revolving fund, to be submitted to the Assembly through the Council (Assembly resolution 46/182, annex, para. 35 (i)).

At its fifty-sixth session, the General Assembly, in its resolution 56/107, welcomed the holding of the fourth humanitarian affairs segment of the Council during its substantive session of 2001 and requested the Secretary-General to report to it at its fifty-seventh session, through the 2002 substantive session of the Council, on progress made in strengthening the coordination of emergency humanitarian assistance of the United Nations, including the implementation of and follow-up to relevant agreed conclusions of the Council and progress made in the implementation of that resolution. In the same resolution, the Assembly invited the Council to continue to consider ways to enhance further the humanitarian affairs segment of future sessions of the Council and emphasized the importance of discussion of humanitarian policies and activities in the Assembly and the Council.

At its fifty-fifth session, the General Assembly requested the Secretary-General to make all necessary arrangements to continue to mobilize and coordinate, with a view to supporting the efforts of the Government of Mozambique: (a) humanitarian assistance from the specialized agencies, organizations and bodies of the United Nations system; and (b) international assistance for the national reconstruction and development of Mozambique, and to report to it, for consideration at its fifty-seventh session, under the item on the strengthening of the coordination of humanitarian and disaster relief assistance of the United Nations, including special economic assistance, through the Council at the humanitarian affairs segment of its substantive session of 2002, on the implementation of assistance to Mozambique (Assembly resolution 55/167).

In accordance with Council resolution 1983/46, the Secretary-General orally appraises the Council annually on the status of the assistance to the drought-stricken areas of Djibouti, Ethiopia, Kenya, Somalia, the Sudan and Uganda.

E. General segment

6. Integrated and coordinated implementation of and follow-up to major United Nations conferences and summits

At its substantive session of 2001, the Council, in paragraph 10 of the ministerial declaration of its high-level segment (see A/56/3, chap. III, para. 29), recalled General Assembly resolution 55/217 in which the Assembly had requested the Council to consider the creation of an ad hoc advisory group on African countries emerging from conflict with a view to assessing their humanitarian and economic needs and elaborating a long-term programme of support for implementation that began with the integration of relief into development. The Council requested the Secretary-General to seek the views of Member States and to present a report with proposals on the mandate, composition and modalities of work of such an advisory group, taking into account those views, for the Council's consideration.

This also would offer an opportunity for the Council to reflect on its role in an integrated approach to peace and development and the recommendation addressed to it in a report of the Secretary-General¹ and in General Assembly resolution 55/281 of 1 August 2001 which called upon all relevant organs, organizations, and bodies of the United Nations system to consider the recommendations addressed to them in that report and to inform the Assembly of their views. The Security Council, likewise, in its resolution 1366 (2001) looked forward to further consideration of the report by the Economic and Social Council.

At its substantive session of 2000, the Council, recalling its decision 1998/290 of 31 July 1998 on basic indicators for the integrated and coordinated implementation of and follow-up to the major United Nations conferences and summits in the economic, social and related fields, and section II of its resolution 1999/55 of 30 July 1999 on integrated and coordinated implementation of and follow-up to major United Nations conferences and summits, called upon the United Nations funds and programmes, functional and regional commissions and specialized agencies to keep under review the full range of indicators used in their reports and information networks with full participation and ownership of Member States, with a view to avoiding duplication, as well as ensuring the transparency, consistency and reliability of those indicators. In the same resolution, the Council urged the Secretariat, in particular the United Nations Statistics Division, to accelerate, with the support of the Subcommittee on Statistical Activities of the Administrative Committee on Coordination (renamed the United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination), the promotion of networking among national and international institutions in the area of statistics and in the development and application of indicators agreed to in the relevant intergovernmental bodies relating to the follow-up to the United Nations conferences and summits, in the context of its role as the focal point in the United Nations system in that regard, as well as to facilitate the exchange of relevant information and metadata between the United Nations system and Member States, and requested the Secretary-General to prepare a progress report on that issue for consideration by the Council at its substantive session of 2002 (Council resolution 2000/27).

In that resolution, the Council welcomed the progress made in implementing the provisions of Assembly resolutions 50/227 and 52/12 B and requested the Secretary-General to include, in the next consolidated report on the outcomes of the functional commissions, an analysis of the practice of its functional commissions in the preparation of draft resolutions for action by the Council or the Assembly with a view to elaborating guidelines addressed to the functional commissions on the submission of draft proposals to the Council. The Council also encouraged its functional commissions to consider how best to ensure continuity in the work of

In its decision 2001/304, the Council took note of the deep concerns of some member States on the practice of forwarding confidential monthly lists from the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights to the Division for the Advancement of Women of the United Nations Secretariat and requested the Commission on Human Rights to consider that issue at its fifty-eighth session in the light of the Council's 1503 (confidential communications) procedure and other information pertaining to the 1503 procedure, and to provide concrete recommendations to the Council. The Council will have before it the relevant part of the report of the Commission on its fifty-eighth session.

In resolution 1999/51 on the restructuring and revitalization of the United Nations in the economic, social and related fields and cooperation between the United Nations and the Bretton Woods institutions, the Council welcomed the special high-level meeting of the Council with the Bretton Woods institutions and decided to maintain such meetings (para. 14). In resolution 55/185, the General Assembly requested the Commission on Science and Technology for Development to report, through the Council, to its fifty-sixth session, in particular regarding proposals aimed at promoting complementarity of activities in the area of new and innovative technologies within the United Nations system; and requested the Secretary-General to submit to the Assembly at its fifty-sixth session, through the Council, an analytical report on the progress made in the implementation of resolution 55/185, containing, in particular, concrete proposals for strengthening the critical role of the Commission in coordinating the activities of the United Nations system in support of the efforts of developing countries to obtain, effectively utilize and benefit from science and technology for their development.

In resolution 56/182, the General Assembly, having taken note of the report of the Secretary-General on strengthening the coordinating role of the Commission on Science and Technology for Development in support of efforts by developing countries to benefit from science and technology (A/56/96-E/2001/87), invited the Council to consider, no later than at its substantive session of 2002, ways and means to strengthen the Commission, inter alia, through increasing the frequency of its meetings, including their annualization, and through the implementation of the recommendations set out in the report of the Secretary-General, while taking its mandate and budgetary constraints into consideration, and in that regard took note of the recommendation of the Commission to the Council that the Commission should meet annually. In the same resolution, the Assembly invited the Council to consider favourably the request of the Commission to establish a working group, to meet during the regular sessions of the Commission, for the purpose of evaluating the work of the Commission, with a view to strengthening the role of the Commission in the United Nations system in the area of science and technology for development and increasing its effectiveness, and called upon the Secretary-General to continue to ensure that the Commission and its secretariat within the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development were provided with the necessary resources to enable it to better carry out its mandate.

In its resolution 56/183, the General Assembly, having recognized the urgent need to harness the potential of knowledge and technology for promoting the goals of the United Nations Millennium Declaration and to find effective and innovative ways to put that potential at the service of development for all, and having recalled the ministerial declaration concerning information and communication technologies, adopted by the Council at the high-level segment of its substantive session of 2000, and the subsequent work done in that regard, including the creation of the Information and Communication Technologies Task Force, as well as the welcoming of the forthcoming World Summit on the Information Society by the Council in its agreed conclusions 2001/1, invited the Secretary-General of the International Telecommunication Union to submit to the Assembly, at its fifty-seventh and fifty-eighth sessions, through the Council, for information, a report on the preparations for the Summit.

In the same resolution, the Council looked forward to the report of the Secretary-General to the General Assembly at its fifty-sixth session on options for reviewing and strengthening the mandate and status of the Commission on Human Settlements and the status, role and function of the United Nations Centre for Human Settlements, in accordance with the relevant resolutions of the Assembly and the Council and decisions of the United Nations Conference on Human Settlements (Habitat II), and invited the Secretary-General to implement, within the framework of the Administrative Committee on Coordination (renamed the United Nations System Chief Executives Board for Coordination) and in accordance with paragraph 66 of the Declaration on Cities and Other Human Settlements in the New Millennium adopted by the Assembly at its twenty-fifth special session (Assembly resolution S-25/2, annex), the establishment of the Habitat Agenda task manager system in order to allow better monitoring and mutual reinforcement of actions taken by international agencies in support of the implementation of the Habitat Agenda. The Council invited the Secretary-General to submit a report to the Council at its substantive session of 2002 on the coordinated implementation of the Habitat Agenda.

At its fifty-sixth session, the General Assembly, having taken note of the report of the Secretary-General on options for reviewing and strengthening the mandate and status of the Commission on Human Settlements and the status, role and functions of the United Nations Centre for Human Settlements (Habitat) (A/56/618), including their financial implications, decided to transform, with effect from 1 January 2002, the Commission on Human Settlements into the Governing Council of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme, to be known as UN-Habitat, a subsidiary organ of the Assembly. The Assembly also decided that the practices regarding the participation of Habitat Agenda partners should be according to the relevant rules of the Economic and Social Council with regard to participation and accreditation, that the established practices of the Commission on Human Settlements should be utilized and that such practices should in no way create a precedent for other governing bodies of the subsidiary organs of the Assembly. The Assembly further decided that the Governing Council should be composed of 58 members, to be elected by the Economic and Social Council for four-year terms, and should meet biennially and report to the Assembly through the Economic and Social Council; and requested the Secretary-General to report to it at its fifty-seventh session on strengthening the mandate and status of the Governing Council of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme (UN-Habitat) and the status, role and functions of the secretariat of the Programme (formerly the United Nations Centre for Human Settlements (Habitat)) (Assembly resolution 56/206).

The complete report of the Committee is submitted to the Assembly pursuant to Council decision 1985/105.

The Council will also have before it the report of the Committee on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights on its twenty-fifth, twenty-sixth and twenty-seventh sessions (Geneva, 23 April-11 May, 13-31 August and 12-30 November 2001). The Committee on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights was entrusted by the Council, as from 1987, with overseeing the implementation of the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (Council resolution 1985/17). It will be recalled that the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights (General Assembly resolution 2200 A (XXI), annex) entered into force on 3 January 1976. Under article 16 of the Covenant, States parties to the Covenant undertake to submit to the Secretary-General reports on the measures that they have adopted and on the progress made in achieving the observance of the rights recognized in the Covenant. The Secretary-General is required to transmit copies of the reports to the Council for its consideration.

The Council will have before it the report of the Commission on Human Rights on its fifty-eighth session (Geneva, 18 March-26 April 2002). The report of the Commission is expected to include its response to General Assembly resolution 56/176, in which the Assembly decided to keep the situation of human rights in Afghanistan under consideration at its fifty-seventh session, in the light of additional elements provided by the Commission and the Council. The report of the Commission will also include recommendations on the procedure established in accordance with Council resolutions 1503 (XLVIII) and 2000/3, as requested in Council decision 2001/304 entitled "Confidentiality of the 1503 (confidential communications) procedure".

The Council will also have before it the report of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights. At its forty-eighth session, the General Assembly decided to create the post of United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights; it also decided, inter alia, that the High Commissioner would be the United Nations official with principal responsibility for United Nations human rights activities under the direction and authority of the Secretary-General. The Assembly requested the High Commissioner to report annually on his/her activities, in accordance with his/her mandate, to the Commission on Human Rights and, through the Council, to the Assembly (Assembly resolution 48/141).
