1. Al-Haq

(Special; 2000)

Part I. Introduction

i. Al-Haq is a Palestinian human rights organization located in Ramallah, West Bank. The organization was established in 1979 to protect and promote human rights and the rule of law in the Occupied Palestinian Territory. Al-Haq is committed to the uniform application of the universal principles of human rights regardless of the identity of the perpetrator or victim of abuse. In order to meet these goals, the organization:

- Conducts and disseminates legal and field research based on international human rights and humanitarian law;
- Monitors and documents human rights violations through an extensive database;
- Houses the only public library specialized in human rights in the West Bank; and
- Provides training on international humanitarian law.

Through these activities, Al-Haq strives to bring to an end abuses committed by Israeli and Palestinian authorities. In addition, through the reinforcement of the rule of law and the promotion of international legal standards, the organization contributes to the development of a transparent and democratic civil society in Palestine.

ii. There have been no changes within the organization since the last report.

Part II – Contribution of the organization to the work of the United Nations

i. Participation in the work of Economic and Social Council and its subsidiary bodies, major conferences and other United Nations meetings

Al-Haq has participated in a range of meetings before various United Nations fora, including regular meetings such as those of the former Commission on Human Rights and the newly created Human Rights Council. A few examples of Al-Haq's participation and what was achieved through this participation are below:

1) Fourth Regular Session of the Human Rights Council, 12-30 March 2007, Geneva Switzerland.

During the Fourth Regular Session of the Human Rights Council, Al-Haq prepared the following joint written interventions with nine other Palestinian NGOs: 1) "Above the law: Israel's impunity for violations of international law in the Occupied Palestinian Territory" and 2) "Forty years of increasing facts on the ground: New actions urgently required by the Human Rights Council to prevent the preclusion of the Palestinian right to self-determination.” Additionally, Al-Haq delivered a joint oral intervention (with the International Federation for Human Rights and the Palestinian Centre for Human Rights – both in Special Consultative Status) on 23 March in relation to the report delivered on 22 March by the Special Rapporteur on the situation of human rights in the Palestinian territories occupied since 1967 (Mr. John Dugard).

The written and oral interventions delivered by Al-Haq during the Fourth Regular Session of the Human Rights Council are an example of the primary means through which Al-Haq participates in the work of the United Nations. Other activities that Al-Haq carried out while attending the Fourth Regular Session of the Human Rights Council which are representative of the kind of work Al-Haq usually carries out while attending sessions of the Human Rights Council included: a meeting with the Special Rapporteur on the Promotion and Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms while Countering Terrorism in anticipation of the Special Rapporteur’s forthcoming visit to Israel and the Occupied Palestinian Territory; and meetings with Geneva-based NGOs which are regularly present at the Human Rights Council in order to learn about the latest developments in relation to the refinement of the Human Rights Council’s working methods, possibilities for NGO participation and the review and rationalization of Special Procedures mandates. The latter meetings and the information provided therein assisted Al-Haq to be able to engage in relation to these developments at a later stage.

2) Fifth Regular Session of the Human Rights Council, 11-18 June 2007, Geneva, Switzerland.

Al-Haq hosted a parallel event (13 June 2007) at the Human Rights Council titled: “Forty Years of Israeli Occupation of the Palestinian Territory: An Assessment of the Facts on the Ground.” This event gave Al-Haq the opportunity to highlight one of its key advocacy priorities during 2007 – raising awareness about the human rights violations that have emanated from 40 years of the Israeli occupation of the Palestinian Territory. Al-Haq hopes to hold more such parallel events in the future as it is a good opportunity to reach constituencies to whom we do not normally have access.

These examples are indicative of the work Al-Haq endeavoured to do when it had the opportunity to attend Human Rights Council/Human Rights Commission sessions from 2004 to 2007.

ii. Cooperation with United Nations bodies and/or specialized agencies in the field and/or at Headquarters

Al-Haq also cooperated with United Nations committees and other bodies, in particular, the United Nations Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Palestinian People and the Committee on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination. Specific cooperation included:

1) The Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Palestinian People, 25 May – 8 June 2004, Cairo, Egypt. Al-Haq sent one of its field workers to provide oral testimony concerning human rights violations committed by Israel in the Occupied Palestinian Territory.

2) The Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Palestinian People, 25 June – 9 July 2005, Amman, Jordan. Al-Haq sent one of its field workers to provide oral testimony concerning human rights violations committed by Israel in the Occupied Palestinian Territory.

3) Committee on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination, 69th Session, 31 July-18 August 2006, Geneva, Switzerland. Al-Haq participated in the submission of a joint parallel report to Israel's 13th periodic report to the Committee on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination entitled "Israel's Implementation of the Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination: Institutional Discrimination affecting persons without "Jewish Nationality".

4) On 2-3 August 2006 (same session as above), Al-Haq participated in joint Israeli/Palestinian NGO presentation before the Committee in relation to Israel's 13th periodic report to the 69th Session of the Committee on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination which was postponed to the Committee's 70th Session 19 February-9 March 2007. There was no overall title to the presentation before the Committee on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination, but Al-Haq's contribution focused on the following issues: discrimination in relation to freedom of movement (including the permit system, the Wall and the separate road system) in the West Bank; the discriminatory Israeli policy on family unification; discriminatory physical and administrative measures in East Jerusalem; and discriminatory measures in the West Bank city of Hebron, including in relation to the seam zone and the separation barrier. Al-Haq would like to use this as an example of the type of expected achievement that is the result of its cooperation with United Nations bodies. The process of preparing for the review of Israel under the Convention on the Elimination of Racial Discrimination was very beneficial from the point of view of presenting an opportunity for Israeli, Palestinian and international human rights organizations to work together on common advocacy. This was viewed as a highly successful collaborative process by all that should be modelled for the review of Israel under successive human rights treaty bodies.

5) Human Rights Committee, 89th Session, 12-30 March 2007, United Nations Headquarters, New York, Al-Haq prepared written comments on the Human Rights Committee's draft General Comment No. 14 concerning "equality before courts and tribunals and to a fair trial".

6) The Special Committee to Investigate Israeli Practices Affecting the Human Rights of the Palestinian People, 21 July – 4 August 2007, Amman, Jordan. Al-Haq sent one of its field workers to provide oral testimony concerning human rights violations committed by Israel in the Occupied Palestinian Territory.

In addition, Al-Haq regularly submits letters and provides information to various United Nations officials such as the Secretary-General, High Commissioner for Human Rights, Special Representative to the Secretary-General on Children and Armed Conflict, Human Rights Council President, United Nations Coordinator of the Middle East Peace Process and bodies, such as Security Council, the General Assembly, and the Special Procedures of the Commission on Human Rights/Human Rights Council. Such interventions are frequently in response to changing events on the ground.

iii. Initiatives undertaken by the organization in support of the internationally agreed development goals, in particular, the Millennium Development Goals, which now form the basis of the global agenda for the 21st century

(a) and (b) Activities in line with the Millennium Development Goals and Activities in Support of Global Principles

As an organization seeking to promote and protect human rights and rule of law in the Occupied Palestinian Territory, much of Al-Haq's work serves to support the Millennium Development Goals and Global Principles. United Nations human rights treaties and the principles enshrined in them are the primary foundations of Al-Haq's work, as are key General Assembly and Security Council resolutions. While it is difficult to isolate particular activities Al-Haq undertakes in support of the United Nations Millennium Development Goals, our documentation and advocacy work encompasses the implementation of certain of the Millennium Development Goals in relation to the Occupied Palestinian Territory (i.e., the eradication of poverty and hunger, achievement of universal primary education, reduction of child mortality, improvement of maternal health, and ensuring environmental sustainability).

2. American Civil Liberties Union

(Special; 1996)

Part I – Introduction

i. Aims and purpose of the ACLU: The mission of the ACLU is to maintain and advance civil liberties as embodied in the Bill of Rights of the Constitution of United States of America and ratified treaties, including freedom of speech, association, press, religion, speech, and the rights to the franchise, to due process of law, and the equal protection of the law for all people throughout the United States of America and its possessions, or subject to its jurisdiction, wholly without partisanship. To achieve these aims the ACLU engages in litigation, public education, documentation, and lobbying.

ii. Changes that have had a significant impact: ACLU Structure – In 2004 the ACLU created a permanent Human Rights Program with a mission to ensure that the government of United States of America complies with universal human rights principles, in addition to the Constitution of United States of America. The Program uses human rights strategies and the human rights framework to complement existing ACLU advocacy on national security, immigrants' rights, women's rights and racial justice issues. In addition to the creation of the Human Rights Program, the ACLU has also created a Racial Justice Project, a Program on the Freedom of Religion and Belief, and a National Security Project. The addition of these projects has allowed the ACLU to become more deeply involved in the substantive work in these areas. Finally, the human rights program engages in international advocacy through the publication of shadow reports, side events, and advocacy before various United Nations treaty bodies and at the Human Rights Council.

ACLU Membership – There has been an increase in the membership of the ACLU since the submission of our last figures. Current ACLU individual membership is 434,242. ACLU membership continues to include persons from all 50 United States as well as Puerto Rico and Guam.

Changes in ACLU funding – There has been an increase in the funding of the ACLU since the submission of our last figures. The total assets of the American Civil Liberties Union Foundation, Inc., as of 31 March 2007, are $319,193,234. Total liabilities of the American Civil Liberties Union Foundation, Inc., as of 31 March 2007, are $63,420,812. Total support and revenue of the American Civil Liberties Union Foundation, Inc., as of 31 March 2007, is $67,647,755. Total expenses of the American Civil Liberties Union Foundation, Inc., as of 31 March 2007, are $56,121,433. The total assets of the American Civil Liberties Union, Inc., as of 31 March 2007, are $12,934,359. Total liabilities of the American Civil Liberties Union, Inc., as of 31 March 2007, are $12,934,359. Total support and revenue of the American Civil Liberties Union, Inc., as of 31 March 2007, is $30,074,160. Total expenses of the American Civil Liberties Union, Inc., as of 31 March 2007, are $31,179,694.

Part II – Contribution of the organization to the work of the United Nations

i. Participation in the work of the Economic and Social Council and its subsidiary bodies and/or major conferences and other human rights meetings

- 1) “36th Session of the Committee Against Torture (CAT)” 1-19 May 2006, Geneva, Switzerland. The ACLU sent a delegation to Geneva for the United States’ review before the CAT, where the ACLU delegation lobbied members and discussed the finding from the ACLU shadow report, “Enduring Abuse,” on the United States report to the CAT.
- 2) “87th Session of the Human Rights Committee (HRC)” 10 - 28 July 2006, Geneva, Switzerland. The ACLU sent a delegation to Geneva for the United States’ review before the HRC, where the ACLU delegation lobbied members and discussed the finding from the ACLU shadow report, “Dimming the Beacon of Freedom,” on the United States report to the HRC.
- 3) “49th Session of the Commission on the Status of Women” 28 February – 11 March 2005, “Beijing +10 Side Panel Conversation” 8 March 2005, Church Center for the United Nations, New York, United States of America. The ACLU co-sponsored and participated on the panel.
- 4) “51st Session of the Commission on the Status of Women” 26 February – 9 March 2007, Parallel Event: “Improving the Rights of Incarcerated Girls” 6 March 2007, Church Center for the United Nations, New York, United States of America. The ACLU sponsored and participated on the panel.

ii. Cooperation with United Nations Bodies and/or specialized agencies in the field and/or at headquarters

1) Special Rapporteur on the promotion and protection of human rights and fundamental freedoms while countering terrorism – The ACLU assisted with his documentation trip to the United States of America and provided background materials to the Special Rapporteur for his report, dated 25 October 2007, to the Human Rights Council. The ACLU also sponsored a side event with the Special Rapporteur during the Human Rights Council's Resumed 6th Session, 13 December 2007.

iii. Activities in support of global principles

1) Convention on the Elimination of All forms of Discrimination against Women (CEDAW) – The ACLU has been involved in the efforts to see United States ratification of CEDAW. This work has included lobbying of United States Senators and public education campaigns, including a week-long campaign during the week of Mother's Day, May 13-19, 2007, in the United States in 2007 in which we engaged ACLU affiliates and activists through online actions.

2) Human Rights Workshops – Since 2004 the ACLU has organized workshops and trainings focused on educating United States based lawyers and activists on how to implement the international human rights framework into their domestic United States work. The ACLU held 8 workshops and trainings between 2004 - 2007 on issues including, immigration detention, police brutality, immigrant workers rights, juvenile justice, felon disfranchisement, juvenile detention (specifically relating to girls), racial profiling, as well as trainings on shadow report writing and the issue of international law in United States courts. All conferences included United Nations human rights system 101 presentations as well as presentations on the specific United Nations human rights treaties that apply to each issue.

3. Computer Professionals for Social Responsibility

(Special; 2004)

PART I. Introduction

(i) Aims and purposes: Computer Professionals for Social Responsibility (CPSR) is a global organization promoting the responsible use of computer technology. Incorporated in 1983 (following discussions and organizing that began in 1981), CPSR educates policymakers and the public on a wide range of issues. CPSR has incubated numerous projects such as Privatererra, the Public Sphere Project, the Electronic Privacy Information Center, the 21st Century Project, the Civil Society Project, and the Computers, Freedom and Privacy Conference. Originally founded by United States computer scientists, CPSR now has members in 26 countries.

(ii) Changes in bylaws: Changes have been made to CPSR's bylaws to improve governance of the organization. On 2 April 2004, the office of Chairperson of the Board was eliminated. The officers of CPSR are now President, a Vice President a Secretary, and a Treasurer (Section 8.1). On 25 August 2004 the method for setting elections for Directors was changed to ensure that 1/3 of Directors are replaced in any given year (Section 6.3). In the CPSR election on June 2006, members voted to change the size of the board to 8 to 10 at large directors and a maximum board size of 14 total including special directors. Special directors are appointed positions in CPSR (Section 5.1). CPSR bylaws are maintained publicly at our website. Changes to the bylaws of CPSR are maintained also in our website.

(iii) Changes in geographic presence: CPSR's geographic presence has changed to improve the efficiency of its operations. In January 2004, CPSR moved its office from Palo Alto to San Francisco, both in California, United States of America. In March 2008, CPSR began operating without a physical office.

PART II. Contribution of the organization to the work of the United Nations

A. Activities in line with the Millennium Development Goals (MDGs) and in Support of Global Principles: CPSR members have participated in activities over the past four years related to the MDGs and Global Principles. CPSR's primary activities in this respect were framed by the United Nations World Summit on the Information Society (WSIS). CPSR members authored and co-authored publications, participated in appointed positions to United Nations bodies, and organized meetings, all having development aspects. Details of publications are given in section II D (1) through (7). Details of meetings organized are given in sections II F. (1) through (7) below. Details of appointed positions are given in sections II E. (1) and (2) below. CPSR members contributed organizational effort, research and writing to the authoring of the Civil Society Declaration for WSIS, which articulated support for MDGs and Global Principles in the context of the development of the information society.

B. Participation in the United Nations World Summit on the Information Society (WSIS):

CPSR delegations participated in the preparatory processes and both summits of WSIS (2002 - 2005). Activities for this reporting period were: PrepCom-1: 24-26 June 2004, Hammamet (Tunisia); PrepCom-2: 17-25 February 2005, Geneva (Switzerland); and PrepCom-3: 19-30 September 2005, Geneva (Switzerland) and 13-15 November 2005, Tunis (Tunisia). Second Phase of WSIS, Tunis, 16-18 November 2005. CPSR members participated as observers in plenary sessions; and as organizers and contributors within the Civil Society working groups on Internet governance, education, human rights, among others. Details of participation as observers and in meetings are given in sections II G. (1) through (15) below.

C. Participation in post-WSIS activities: CPSR members contributed to the establishment of the Internet Governance Forum (IGF) and continued to participate in post-WSIS processes and bodies related to it. Details of IGF and post-WSIS processes are given below in sections II E. (1) and (2) below. Various members continue to participate in bodies and processes within: the International Telecommunication Union (ITU), the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD), and the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO).

D. Contributions to United Nations Publications and other publications prepared for United Nations Events by CPSR members:

4. Minnesota Advocates for Human Rights

(Special; 1996)

PART I. Introduction

Aims and purposes of the organization: The mission of The Advocates for Human Rights (The Advocates) is to implement international human rights standards in order to promote civil society and reinforce the rule of law. By involving volunteers in research, education, and advocacy, we build broad constituencies in the United States of America and select global communities. The Advocates is dedicated to promoting and protecting international human rights, and the success of The Advocates is based upon its ability to cultivate volunteers, build strategic alliances with local and international organizations, and sustain its innovative programs that include investigation, representation, training and education, to offer concrete opportunities to promote international human rights. Since its inception, the organization has successfully diversified its work, built an impressive support and volunteer base and established cooperative relationships with the United Nations, as well as other non-governmental organizations working to protect human rights. Each year, hundreds of volunteers – including teachers, lawyers, artists, students, doctors, marketing and technology experts, translators, and others – generously share their time and energy. With the help of hundreds of volunteers, The Advocates has produced more than 81 reports documenting human rights practices in more than 22 countries.

PART II. Contribution of the organization to the work of the United Nations

5. Peaceways: Young General Assembly

(Special; 2000)

PART I. Introduction

Peaceways-Young General Assembly aims to serve as a voice for people under 18 in international affairs and to promote the goals of the United Nations through Child Participation.

For the years 2004, 2005, 2006, and 2007 the goals and the scope of work of Peaceways-Young General Assembly remained the same as it was in 2000 when it was granted United Nations Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC) Special Consultative Status. The only change during 2004-2007 came 29 December 2007. The Peaceways-Young General Assembly Secretariat was temporarily moved from Wisconsin to California because the Wisconsin Secretariat Coordinator has serious health problems. Headquarters was permanently moved to Australia 13 June 2008.

There has been no change in the mission, structure or Charter of the organization.

PART II. Contribution of the organization to the work of the United Nations

A review was held to examine the progress member states had made towards achieving the 21 A World Fit for Children Targets five years after the document was approved.

iv) Activities in Support of Global Principles

1. In 2007 Peaceways-Young General Assembly contributed to the Committee on the Rights of the Child survey for its writing of the General Comment on Convention on the Rights of the Child Article 12, the Right of the Child to Participate.

2. The YGA believes that Child Participation is needed to fully achieve MDGs, the 21 targets of A World Fit for Children and to fully implement the Convention on the Rights of the Child. Its member organizations are working year around on local projects to achieve these goals. Many projects are initiated on the YGA internationally celebrated Hear the Children Day of Peace on 21 September (International Day of Peace). On this day adults and children come together to form partnerships to begin projects together to build a peaceful and sustainable community as envisioned in the United Nations Charter Preamble.
