LETTER DATED 18 DECEMBER 1997 FROM THE SECRETARY-GENERAL
ADDRESSED TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE SECURITY COUNCIL

On 31 October 1997, the Permanent Representative of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland to the United Nations addressed a letter to the President of the Security Council (S/1997/845) enclosing the text of a message delivered to me on 28 October 1997 in which the Government of the United Kingdom invited representatives of the United Nations to visit Scotland and to study the Scottish judicial system.

After consulting with the Security Council, I decided to accept the United Kingdom's invitation. I requested Dr. Enoch Dumbutshena, former Chief Justice of Zimbabwe, and Professor Henry G. Schermers of Leiden University, the Netherlands, to undertake the visit as my representatives.

I am transmitting to you, and through you to the members of the Security Council for information, a copy of the report submitted by Dr. Dumbutshena and Professor Schermers on the Scottish judicial system (see annex).

(Signed) Kofi A. ANNAN
