

Security Council

Fifty-fourth Year

4084th Meeting

Friday, 17 December 1999, 10.45 a.m.

New York

Provisional

Corrigendum

Page 26, first complete paragraph, second sentence

The sentence should be read as two sentences, as follows: But we are not convinced that all delegations were really ready to vote in favour once their concerns had been met. It would seem that some had an interest in not voting for any resolution unwelcome to Baghdad all along.
