I. Introduction

1. The budget for the maintenance of the African Union-United Nations Hybrid Operation in Darfur (UNAMID) for the period from 1 July 2010 to 30 June 2011, set out in the report of the Secretary-General of 26 February 2010 (A/64/685), amounted to $1,899,367,200 gross ($1,867,410,300 net). It provided for 240 military observers, 19,315 military contingents, 6,432 police personnel including 2,660 in formed units, 1,579 international staff, 3,379 national staff inclusive of 188 national Officers, 620 United Nations Volunteers and 6 Government-provided personnel.

2. In its related report of 30 April 2010 (A/64/660/Add.13), the Advisory Committee on Administrative and Budgetary Questions recommended that the General Assembly appropriate $1,839,146,300 gross for the period from 1 July 2010 to 30 June 2011 (see A/64/660/Add.13, para. 77).

3. The General Assembly, by its resolution 64/285, appropriated an amount of $1,808,127,500 gross ($1,776,495,100 net) for the maintenance of the Operation for the period from 1 July 2010 to 30 June 2011. The total amount has been assessed on Member States.

II. Mandate performance

A. Overall

4. The mandate of the Operation was established by the Security Council in its resolution 1769 (2007) and extended in subsequent resolutions of the Council. The mandate for the performance period was provided by the Council in its resolutions 1881 (2009) and 1935 (2010).

5. The Operation is mandated to help the Security Council achieve an overall objective, namely, to achieve a lasting political solution and sustained security in Darfur.

6. Within this overall objective, the Operation, during the performance report period, contributed to a number of accomplishments by delivering related key outputs, shown in the frameworks below, which are grouped by component as follows: peace process; security; rule of law, governance and human rights; humanitarian, recovery and development liaison; and support.

7. The present report assesses actual performance against the planned results-based-budgeting frameworks set out in the 2010/11 budget. In particular, the performance report compared the actual indicators of achievement; that is, the extent to which actual progress was made during the period against the expected accomplishments, with the planned indicators of achievement, and the actual completed outputs with the planned outputs.

B. Budget implementation

8. The main priorities of the Operation during the reporting period related to: (1) the protection of civilians; (2) the provision of support to the peace process; (3) civil society engagement in peace process activities; (4) the promotion of the rule of law and human rights; and (5) support for humanitarian and early recovery activities.

9. The Operation's mandate of protection of civilians included ensuring physical protection for civilians under imminent threat and establishing a secure and stable environment, including for safe humanitarian access. With a view to improving humanitarian access, UNAMID, in partnership with the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs, launched Operation Spring Basket on 1 May 2011. The initiative, following intensive negotiations with the Government of the Sudan and the Sudan Liberation Army (SLA)-Abdul Wahid, is designed to reach over 400,000 civilians and to increase accessibility to hitherto inaccessible areas in the Jebel Marra region and other parts of Northern and Western Darfur.

10. In addition, to promote a stable environment across Darfur, UNAMID maintained a more robust posture and increased the number of long- and medium-range patrols to new locations; engaged in advocacy with the Government of the Sudan and leaders of armed movements; and provided escorts to humanitarian convoys and humanitarian personnel.

11. Certain areas of Darfur remained in security phases III and IV owing to the sporadic, low-level conflict between the Sudanese Armed Forces and armed movements, particularly in the Shangil Tobaya, Dar al Salam and Thabit areas of Northern Darfur, and in and around Khor Abéché in Southern Darfur. The security situation was also negatively impacted by the deterioration of relations between the Government of the Sudan and SLA-Minni Minawi and the change in trend from fractionalization to unification of efforts by rebel groups and, more recently, agreements between Darfur- and South Kordofan-based rebel groups.

12. During the reporting period, significant progress was made in the negotiation efforts towards the achievement of a comprehensive political solution to the conflict. Following a sustained period of mediation and extensive consultations by the Joint Mediation Support Team and the Government of the State of Qatar with the parties to the conflict and civil society, the Agreement on the Adoption of the Doha Document for Peace in Darfur was signed by the Government of the Sudan and the Liberation and Justice Movement (LJM) on 14 July 2011. The agreement provides for a ceasefire between the signatory parties, contains provisions that address the root causes of the conflict, and offers a basis for a comprehensive and inclusive peace in Darfur.

13. During the reporting period, UNAMID continued to support the Joint Mediation Support Team, in particular in its efforts to facilitate negotiations between the parties to the conflict, and to ensure that the interests and concerns of civil society were taken into account in the peace process.

14. With a view to enhancing the participation of civil society in the peace process, UNAMID and the Government of the State of Qatar jointly organized a second conference of representatives of Darfur's civil society in Doha from 12 to 15 July 2010, attended by a total of 315 participants. The conference was a follow-up to the first civil society conference held in Doha from 18 to 20 November 2009. To increase the awareness of the general population, UNAMID, based on a strategy using sensitization teams and radio programmes, disseminated the conference outcomes and, in conjunction with the Joint Mediation Support Team, organized workshops for over 4,000 members of civil society, including youth, women, civil society groups, native administration and internally displaced persons. In addition, UNAMID facilitated the participation of representatives of civil society to the All Darfur Stakeholders Conference, held in Doha from 27 to 31 May 2011, which brought together approximately 500 participants from the parties to the conflict, civil society groups, political parties, elected officials, refugees and the Darfuri diaspora. The conference endorsed the draft Doha Document for Peace in Darfur as the basis for reaching a comprehensive and inclusive ceasefire and settlement to the conflict.

15. In addition to support for civil society, internally displaced persons and refugees, UNAMID contributed to facilitate coordinated international support for the political processes in Darfur. As a follow-up to earlier retreats held in Kigali, in February 2010, and El Fasher, in July 2010, the Joint Special Representative convened a retreat of special envoys for the Sudan, representatives of Member States and United Nations partners in Nyala, Southern Darfur, on 18 February 2011. The retreat took stock of recent developments in Darfur, assessed the implications of the referendum on the status of South Sudan for the Darfur peace process and promoted the sustained engagement of the international community towards achieving resolution of the Darfur conflict.

16. Progress was modest towards enhancing the rule of law, governance and protection of human rights, and providing assistance to effective and efficient State institutions. Human rights violations remained relatively high as parties to the conflict continued to violate their obligations under international human rights law to protect civilians. Lack of access to remote areas affected by conflict, such as Jebel Moon and Jebel Marra, and restrictions of road movement owing to security concerns continued to limit UNAMID's ability to promptly investigate and document cases. However, the Operation continued to raise human rights concerns with Government authorities and to build the capacity of security institutions, through training on basic human rights concepts, prevention of and response to sexual and gender-based violence, and arrest and detention procedures. In addition, UNAMID continued to monitor trials for their conformity to international human rights principles, and continued to work with Government authorities to build the capacity of corrections officers and improve conditions for prisoners. Furthermore, UNAMID continued to work with armed opposition movements and the Government of the Sudan to stop the recruitment of child soldiers. Progress was also made towards the implementation of Security Council resolutions pertaining to the protection of children in armed conflict, through monitoring, reporting and advocacy at the community level.

17. The Operation, in collaboration with international and national non-governmental organizations, community-based organizations and the United Nations country team, continued to undertake confidence-building activities with stakeholders at the community level by implementing quick-impact projects that contribute to peacebuilding and benefit vulnerable communities. During the reporting period, a total of 149 quick-impact projects (including the 44 projects originally planned for the reporting period) were approved by UNAMID against the budgeted resource requirements of $4 million for implementation in the three Darfur States. The total number of quick-impact projects for implementation since inception stood at 525. These projects were aimed at addressing the needs of the population in the areas of education, health, water, sanitation, environmental protection, agriculture, community development, income generation, women's empowerment, shelter, rule of law and conflict resolution. Of these, a total of 260 had been completed by the end of the period, while 191 were at various stages of implementation, and 74 were scheduled to begin during the 2011/12 period. While UNAMID has taken various steps to address some constraints hampering implementation, such as the inadequate capacity of local implementing partners through training, other logistical constraints such as inaccessibility of some project sites owing to poor infrastructure network and the volatile security environment continued to limit progress in several projects.

18. The total expenditure for the maintenance of the Operation for the period from 1 July 2010 to 30 June 2011 amounted to $1,583,449,800 gross ($1,553,041,900 net), compared with the resources approved for the maintenance of the Operation for the period in the total amount of $1,808,127,500 gross ($1,776,495,100 net) under General Assembly resolution 64/285.

19. The resource utilization of the Operation for the reporting period resulted in significantly reduced requirements for military and police personnel costs owing to the marked decrease in the ceiling man rate for fresh rations from the budgeted cost of $13.36 per person-day to the actual cost of $9.74 per person-day; and the unserviceability and non-deployment of contingent-owned major equipment, resulting in lower actual requirements with respect to the reimbursement of troop- and police-contributing Governments. The unspent balance was also attributable to a lower-than-planned level of expenditures regarding net salaries and common staff costs for international staff and to a lower-than-planned level of aviation activities.

20. The recruitment and retention of highly qualified staff for service in Darfur remains challenging. As at 30 June 2011, 58 candidates had declined offers of appointment and 204 were recruited, while 172 separated, representing a net positive recruitment rate of 32 staff members for the period. The average monthly staff turnover rate for the year under review was 14 staff members, which necessitated the need for continuous recruitment activities to identify replacements.

21. During the reporting period, the Operation conducted outreach activities to improve national recruitment, which resulted in approximately 22,000 applications from across Darfur, including those from candidates from a diverse range of ethnic and social groups in addition to women and underrepresented communities. Following a review, nearly 700 candidates from underrepresented communities were placed on a roster of candidates.

C. Mission support initiatives

22. Despite logistical challenges related to the large area of operations with long and difficult supply routes and poor infrastructure, long procurement processes, and the volatile situation, the multi-year construction projects are progressing. During the reporting period, all camps constructed during previous financial years were upgraded to meet United Nations standards in terms of safety and security through the hardening and fortification of defence perimeters and related structures. The long-term plan, originally envisaged as being completed in 2009/10 but carried over into the 2010/11 and 2011/12 periods, called for the construction of 37 military camps and 19 formed police unit camps. At all four major supercamps, the Operation completed the construction of a total of 21 military camps and 18 formed police unit camps. In addition, nine military camps were in advanced stages of construction, the construction processes for two military camps were at the mobilization stage, and the construction processes for the remaining five military camps could not be started, owing to security and land-related issues. The formed police unit camp, initially planned for Nertiti in Western Darfur, was deferred as there is no deployment plan yet for that location.

23. In addition, the construction of community policing centres continued to provide security and protection to vulnerable internally displaced persons. Out of the planned 70 centres, a total of 18 were fully completed as at 30 June 2011, while the remaining 52 were prioritized for construction to be completed by 30 June 2012, using in-house engineering capacities and military engineering companies. Nevertheless, a total of 50 out of the planned 70 centres were made operational by co-locating them with existing team sites.

24. During the period under review, the construction of mission subsistence allowance standard accommodation for 1,500 international staff was completed, improving significantly the living conditions, security and morale of staff in Darfur, while the construction in all sectors of office accommodation was commenced, with furnishing and completion scheduled for the 2011/12 financial year. The roads in the four supercamps were successfully completed, whereas work on gravel roads, linking 15 team sites to major roads, was commenced and will continue during the 2011/12 financial year to ensure that a majority of the camps are connected to major cities or townships.

25. The engineering plan of the Operation also included the construction of airport terminals, aprons and taxiways at El Fasher, Nyala and El Geneina airports, as well as the construction of 34 helipads. During the reporting period, the construction of airport terminals at Nyala and a temporary terminal at El Fasher were completed, but the construction of an airport terminal at El Geneina airport was rescheduled for the 2011/12 period, owing to the inability of the contractor to mobilize the required resources. At the end of the period, the Operation was awaiting provision of suitable land for the construction of the main terminal, taxiway and aprons at El-Fasher airport. The construction of aprons and taxiways at Nyala airport commenced and is expected to be completed during the 2011/12 period. In addition, out of the 34 planned helipads, the Operation has completed the construction of 11 helipads, while the construction of the remaining 23 helipads for the safe landing of UNAMID aircraft in remote camps is currently under way and will continue during the 2011/12 period. These multi-year airfield construction projects were delayed owing to difficulties encountered in identifying lands, obtaining governmental permits and delays in the tender processes.

26. Improving upon previous contracts, under which food rations were delivered by air, the contract for rations in place during the period focused on carrying out deliveries primarily through the use of ground transportation, resulting in reduced rations delivery costs.

27. The scarcity of water in Darfur remains a particular concern for UNAMID. Of the 96 sites identified by UNAMID for drilling to improve the accessibility to water resources and meet daily needs, 42 sites were in use during the reporting period and the water was being shared with local communities, while six sites were awaiting commissioning. The drilling capacity of the Operation was negatively impacted by the cancellation of a contract to drill 25 boreholes awarded to an international company owing to difficulties acquiring visas and mobilizing drilling equipment, long procurement lead time, and the delayed deployment of United Nations- and contingent-owned equipment. The Operation also conducted 9 hydro-geological surveys, procured 50 data loggers and 6 water quality dippers, monitored the quality of underground water sources at key aquifer locations in the Operation area and carried out training on ground water monitoring, pollution control and database management.

28. To improve its wastewater management programme, the Operation established rainwater collection projects at its headquarters and at the Nyala, El Geneina, and Zalingei supercamps. A total of 172 water treatment plants were procured, out of which 64 were installed and in operation during the reporting period. With respect to solid waste disposal, the Operation acquired three landfill sites in El Fasher, Nyala and Zalingei, and five controlled tipping sites for the team sites in Shangil Tobay, Um Kadada, Mukjar, Nertiti and Shaeria, which will be developed during the 2011/12 period. In addition, waste composting was initiated within the military camps in El Fasher. As part of the Operation's environmental initiatives, 12,000 tree seedlings were planted across Darfur, limited solar-operated heaters were installed for a pilot project and solar-operated borehole pumps were ordered.

29. With regard to air operations, the difficult terrain in Darfur and limited road and rail infrastructure caused heavy reliance on aviation support to meet operational and logistical requirements. The Operation contracted a total of nine fixed-wing and 34 rotary-wing aircraft, including five tactical helicopters. However, the Operation faced a number of challenges related to delays in the deployment of three fixed-wing and four rotary-wing aircraft, as well as limited parking space at various airports in Darfur. In addition, UNAMID operations were significantly hindered by restrictions on freedom of movement, including a ban on United Nations helicopter flights (military and civilian) in and out of Nyala, Southern Darfur, on grounds of security; denials of security clearance; and flight restrictions on tactical Mi-35 helicopters. These issues adversely affected the Operation's ability to provide support to team sites.

30. The movement of cargo of contingents or of the United Nations to and from Darfur was generally conducted by road, using Port Sudan as the seaport of entry, while the centres at El Obeid and Entebbe, Uganda were utilized as logistics bases and transit points for some cargo transported to Darfur. To clear the backlog of shipments of United Nations-owned equipment at Port Sudan, the Operation continued to use a third-party logistics provider, which resulted in the clearance of 1,370 20-foot containers and 130 vehicles during the reporting period. The third-party logistics contract, which stemmed from the limited in-house capacity, included customs clearance at Port Sudan and at all major airports in the Sudan, inland freight forwarding using road and rail network (where possible) for transportation of goods, the airlifting of cargo (in case of emergencies), the provision of warehousing facilities for cargo storage, and clearance and in-land transportation of heavy equipment.

31. During the reporting period, the Operation successfully maintained and operated a satellite network with one Earth station that linked all regional offices — Khartoum, Entebbe and Addis Ababa — with the Operation headquarters for voice, fax, video and data communications, in addition to supporting and maintaining very small aperture terminal systems. With regard to information technology, the Operation established and improved Internet connectivity and provided support and maintenance to 120 local area networks (LAN) and wide area networks (WAN) for 5,000 users in camps and central locations throughout the Operation area. Entebbe continued to be the disaster recovery and business continuity site for UNAMID. Several solar power back-up installation kits for communications and microwave equipment were installed and work was undertaken on server virtualization to reduce carbon emissions by consuming less and reducing the use of information and communications technology equipment powered by diesel generators.

32. The Operation continued to provide mission-wide medical services and medical evacuation services. UNAMID operated and maintained six United Nations-owned level-I clinics and one United Nations level-II hospital in El Fasher, and military level-II and level-III hospitals in El Geneina and Nyala, respectively. Furthermore, mission-wide land and air evacuation arrangements for all locations, including to six level-IV hospitals (two in Nairobi, three in Egypt and one in Dubai) were in place.

D. Regional mission cooperation

33. The regional mission coordination activities of UNAMID were characterized by inter-mission coordination with the United Nations Mission in the Sudan (UNMIS), the United Nations Mission in the Central African Republic and Chad (MINURCAT), until the liquidation of the Mission, and the United Nations Organization Stabilization Mission in the Democratic Republic of the Congo (MONUSCO). The activities included cooperation in the areas of security, evacuation and logistics plans, as well as in matters of joint mediation and humanitarian and recovery operations with UNMIS.

34. In particular, a number of UNAMID activities were closely coordinated with UNMIS. These included joint situational analysis and brainstorming meetings on the referendum on the status of South Sudan. The Operation participated in bimonthly joint UNAMID/UNMIS video-telephone conferencing with the headquarters Integrated Mission Task Force on the protection of civilians and the development of the UNMIS/United Nations country team Sudan integrated plan for the final stages of the implementation of the Comprehensive Peace Agreement. The liaison and coordination mechanisms in respect of military and police activities was maintained with the deployment of military and police liaison officers in UNMIS. In addition, UNAMID collaborated with UNMIS in the areas of security management, assessment of public information activities on subjects of mutual interest or endeavour, support to the national disarmament, demobilization and reintegration programme, capacity-building and other activities involving the police, judiciary corrections institutions, human rights, child protection and gender activities. Common services, including space/office utilization, security management, air and ground transport services and fleet management, joint movement control operations, property management and medical services continued to be shared with UNMIS. Particularly on air transportation, while no aircraft were shared with UNMIS, air asset support to UNMIS was provided when requested and when UNAMID commitments allowed for such support.

35. Furthermore, UNAMID continued to use the common services and facilities provided by the Regional Service Centre (Entebbe) shared with MONUSCO, the United Nations Integrated Office in Burundi (BINUB)/United Nations Office in Burundi (BNUB) and UNMIS as to enhance efficiency and responsiveness of logistics support services.

E. Partnerships and country team coordination

36. UNAMID continued to foster cooperation with the African Union on substantive political, recovery and development issues. During the reporting period, the Joint Support and Cooperation Mechanism in Addis Ababa held weekly briefing sessions with the African Union Sudan desk, regular meetings with representatives of troops and police-contributing countries to address UNAMID deployment and operational issues, and ad hoc meetings with “friends of UNAMID”, the diplomatic community and the Panel of Experts on the Sudan; and continued to participate in monthly meetings of the Association of Defence Attachés.

37. In order to continue enhancing collaboration between the United Nations and the African Union on UNAMID, the Secretary-General and Under-Secretary Generals for the Department of Peacekeeping Operations, the Department of Political Affairs and the Department of Field Support, as well as the Joint Special Representative, participated in the African Union summit held in Addis Ababa from 30 to 31 January 2011.

38. Through the three meetings of the technical and strategic tripartite coordination mechanism held during the period, UNAMID continued to engage with the Government of the Sudan to resolve operational and technical issues, including flights and equipment clearance, use of UNAMID aerial assets, the provision of visas and the authorization of a radio broadcasting licence.

39. The Sudan Consultative Forum, which is composed of the African Union, United Nations Headquarters, UNAMID, UNMIS and regional and international stakeholders (including neighbouring countries and special envoys for the Sudan), was established in May 2010 to follow up on the decisions of the African Union Peace and Security Council, in particular the implementation of the recommendations made by the African Union High-level Implementation Panel on Darfur, and to facilitate coordinated international support for political processes in Darfur and the Sudan. During the reporting period, the Sudan Consultative Forum convened on 6 November 2010 to discuss the need for a Darfur-based political process. The Operation accordingly commenced planning and, in coordination with the African Union High-level Implementation Panel on Darfur and the Joint Mediation Support Team, established a dedicated integrated Darfur Political Process Unit at UNAMID headquarters in January 2011 to plan and manage the internal political process in Darfur to support and complement the Doha peace process and its outcome.

40. During the reporting period, UNAMID maintained liaison and coordinated with the United Nations country team and humanitarian partners to ensure the provision of humanitarian assistance and access to the conflict-affected and displaced populations of Darfur.

41. To further the policy of the Secretary-General on integration, in September 2010, the United Nations/African Union Joint Special Representative and the Resident and Humanitarian Coordinator for the Sudan co-chaired a senior management retreat to provide strategic guidance for the finalization and the implementation of the Darfur Integrated Strategic Framework; ensure shared understanding of the Framework and affirm collective accountability for its implementation; brainstorm on key goals for stabilization and recovery in Darfur; endorse the draft strategic priorities within each component of the Framework; and establish the Darfur Senior Policy Group.

42. In line with the Government's recovery and development strategy for Darfur, in August 2010 the Government of the Sudan announced a comprehensive national strategy for peace and recovery that included a pledge of $1.9 billion over four years for reconstruction and basic service delivery. In collaboration with the United Nations country team and the Government of the Sudan, a Darfur water conference was held on 27 and 28 June 2011 to focus on the issue of water as an instrument to ensure peace and the protection of civilians in the region, and to raise funds for water-related projects in Darfur. The conference brought together thematic experts, government officials, civil society representatives and the international donor community. Over $500 million was pledged to rehabilitate the region's water infrastructure.

F. Results-based-budgeting frameworks

Component 1: peace process

43. The African Union-United Nations Joint Chief Mediator for Darfur held consultations with the parties to the conflict and representatives of civil society, with a view to reaching a comprehensive peace agreement. The consultations and mediation between the Government of the Sudan and LJM resulted in the signing on 14 July 2011 of the Agreement on the Adoption of the Doha Document for Peace in Darfur. During the reporting period, UNAMID focused on supporting the Joint Mediation Support Team and other mediation efforts to achieve a comprehensive and sustainable peace in Darfur, including by continuing to: (a) support the signatory parties to the Darfur Peace Agreement and other political actors and stakeholders in their efforts to reach a political solution to the conflict; (b) maintain high-level contact with the armed movements and encourage them to cease hostilities and join the political process; (c) support the Joint Chief Mediator in his efforts to facilitate negotiations between the parties to the conflict; and (d) support and enhance efforts to ensure that the interests and concerns of civil society were taken into account in the peace process. In that regard, UNAMID assisted and supported the activities of the Darfur-Darfur Dialogue and Consultation, through the provision of advice and logistical support to meetings and workshops, as well as facilitated the participation of tribal leaders, religious leaders, internally displaced persons, women, youth, nomads and other representatives of civil society in the peace process. The Operation also continued to support and build the capacity of the institutions established under the Darfur Peace Agreement. In particular, UNAMID managed to hold meetings with the Transitional Darfur Regional Authority and its Commissions despite financial constraints, delays in staff appointments and changes in leadership following the national elections of April 2010. The Operation continued to provide technical advice, logistical support and capacity-building where appropriate to institutions falling under the Transitional Darfur Regional Authority, including the Compensation Commission, the Darfur Peace and Reconciliation Council and the Darfur Land Commission.

44. On 29 March 2011, the Government of the Sudan issued a presidential decree providing for the conduct of a referendum on the status of Darfur. The National Electoral Commission commenced preparations for the referendum and, on 12 April 2011, formally requested material and technical assistance from UNAMID for the revision of the voter register and the registration of new voters. Following negotiations between the Government and LJM that culminated in the signing on 14 July 2011 of the Agreement on the Adoption of the Doha Document for Peace in Darfur, the parties agreed to delay the holding of the referendum until at least one year after the signing of the Agreement.

45. Public information campaigns and information materials continued to be used to actively support strategic priorities of UNAMID, particularly in relation to the protection of civilians, the voluntary return of internally displaced persons and early recovery and development. Communications and public information activities included: community outreach workshops to raise awareness on the mandate of UNAMID; workshops to build the capacity of civil society in peace negotiations and conflict resolution; and publication information materials, such as the monthly magazine Voices of Darfur and radio broadcasts on local radio stations. During the reporting period, UNAMID radio broadcasting was supplemented by broadcasts between one to five minutes long of news and short feature programmes on Radio Miraya, United Nations Radio and three local State radio stations in Darfur. In addition, on 26 June 2011, UNAMID signed an agreement with the National Public Radio Corporation for the broadcast of UNAMID radio programmes for two hours daily on Al Salaam radio station, with repeat broadcasts at appropriate times on Darfur State radio stations. This interim arrangement will remain in place while the Government of the Sudan reviews the UNAMID application for a radio broadcasting licence.

46. Cordial relations between the Sudan and Chad affected positively the security and stability in the region. During the reporting period, the ruling parties of both countries, the Patriotic Salvation Movement of Chad and the National Congress Party of the Sudan, signed on 3 March 2011 a cooperation agreement calling on their Governments to deepen relations and implement signed agreements on political, economic, social and cultural issues. On 5 May 2011, the headquarters of the Chad Sudan Joint Border Patrol Force was transferred from Abéché, Chad, to El Geneina in Western Darfur, in keeping with the terms of the Dakar Agreement. Moreover, on 8 June 2011, Chad and the Sudan signed a memorandum of understanding to develop and promote “decentralized governance” in the two States. Finally, on 23 May 2011, a tripartite summit involving the Governments of the Sudan, Chad and the Central African Republic was held in Khartoum, the outcome of which was the signing of the Khartoum Declaration, which established, among other things, a triple joint force to monitor their common borders.

Component 2: security

47. The security sector component of the Operation focused on tasks related to re-establishing confidence; deterring violence, including gender-based violence; protecting civilians at risk; providing support for national and local institutions in the implementation of the disarmament, demobilization and reintegration programme; and contributing to the restoration of the security conditions necessary for the safe provision of humanitarian assistance and the facilitation of full humanitarian access throughout Darfur.

48. The area of operations continued to witness sporadic conflict among Government forces and armed movements, with more intensity around the Shangil Tobaya, Dar al Salam and Thabit areas of Northern Darfur, and Khor Abéché in Southern Darfur, while inter-communal conflict incidents and attacks on UNAMID and humanitarian personnel decreased, compared with the previous year.

49. During the period under review, substantial progress was made in the deployment of military and police personnel, with an average strength of 17,359 military contingents, representing 89.9 per cent of the authorized strength of 19,315. Nevertheless, only 16 out of the authorized 19 formed police units were fully operational, while the strength of United Nations police officers stood at an average 2,796 officers, representing 74.1 per cent of its authorized strength. Owing to the desire of the Government of the Sudan for UNAMID to increase the number of Arabic-speaking police, the Operation experienced difficulty in obtaining visas for non-Arabic-speaking police officers. The military operational capability of the Operation continued to be constrained by the lack of critical military-enabling and force multiplier units to be provided by troop-contributing countries under "Letter of Assist" arrangements. As an alternative, the three utility helicopter units and the aerial surveillance unit approved in the force requirement were partially facilitated through commercial air charter agreements. In addition, restrictions continued to be placed on the freedom of movement of UNAMID, hampering the full implementation of its mandate. During the reporting period, a total of 129 instances of restrictions of movement of UNAMID patrols were imposed on patrols attempting to enter areas of ongoing or recently concluded military operations, mostly by the parties to the conflict. In addition, humanitarian access was temporarily limited for safety reasons to 38 helicopter landing sites owing to the kidnapping of Humanitarian Air Service crew members from a landing site on 13 January 2011.

50. Nevertheless, the increased capabilities resulted in further expansion of the area of coverage and robust patrolling. To guarantee a secure and stable environment throughout the areas of operation, the number of long- and medium-range patrols was increased from an average of 90 to 140 patrols per day, covering approximately 80 per cent of the populated areas in Darfur. In addition, as a result of intensive discussions and negotiations with the Government of the Sudan, armed movements and the United Nations country team, Operation Spring Basket was launched on 1 May 2011. The operation was developed in order to expand humanitarian space for the conflict-affected populations in Darfur in areas controlled both by the Government of the Sudan and the armed movements, to increase humanitarian access and to improve the delivery of humanitarian aid. By June 2011, nine missions had been conducted to communities in locations such as Ein Siro, Kutum, Killing, Kuma Garadayat, Golo, Kaguro, Tina and El Hara, as well as Sarong, a town in territory controlled by SLA-Abdul Wahid that had been inaccessible to the humanitarian community since 2009. The missions focused on humanitarian and protection assessments with the distribution of vaccination material to women and children, as well as education and shelter material for schools for girls.

51. The UNAMID police concept of operations envisaged the deployment of police advisers to community policing centres to facilitate engagement with communities, provide protection for civilians and facilitate humanitarian access to internally displaced persons camps. The slow pace of construction of community policing centres and team sites, mainly owing to challenges related to acquiring land, has limited the number of camps where UNAMID has established police patrolling 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. So far, 50 of the planned 70 community policing centres have been made operational, with work continuing on the remaining centres and police operating from temporary structures or co-locating with other team sites or centres in the meantime. The Operation also embarked on capacity-building and targeted training for the Government of the Sudan police and movement police, as well as for community police volunteers in the camps.

52. The military and police patrols, as well as the community policing volunteer initiative, contributed to lower the overall crime rate. During the reporting period, the total number of banditry cases (including kidnappings) were reduced from 717 cases (approximately 60 cases per month) in the 2009/10 period to 329 cases (an average of 27 cases per month), while the number of carjacking cases was reduced from 87 in the 2009/10 period to 28.

53. The Operation also continued to maintain close liaison with UNMIS and MINURCAT (until the liquidation of the Mission), especially monitoring and reporting on the security situation along the borders with Chad and the Central African Republic.

54. In the absence of a conducive security environment and pending the approval of the disarmament, demobilization and reintegration plan by designated Sudanese authorities, UNAMID continued to provide technical and limited logistics assistance to the signatories of the Declaration of Commitment to the Darfur Peace Agreement. The Operation, in collaboration with United Nations Headquarters, United Nations agencies and other partners in the process, participated actively in preparations aimed at accelerating efforts to arrive at a standard response to cases of spontaneous disarmament. In addition, UNAMID continued to provide support and policy advice to the North Sudan Disarmament, Demobilization and Reintegration Commission for the drafting of the Darfur disarmament, demobilization and reintegration/community security and small arms control strategic framework and for the drafting of the Darfur-specific disarmament, demobilization and reintegration plan in close coordination with the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP). The Operation also intensified efforts in collecting information and acquiring knowledge about the various armed movements in Darfur in anticipation of any future disarmament, demobilization and reintegration programme.

55. In addition, during the reporting period the Operation continued to focus on the identification of areas contaminated by unexploded ordnance and explosive remnants of war, as well as clearance operations to open up transit routes to facilitate the delivery of humanitarian aid, patrolling by peacekeepers and use by the local population. In collaboration with the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF), the Operation continued to conduct explosive ordnance and explosive remnants of war training, reaching 106,298 civilians, 12,602 internally displaced persons and 417 teachers and community leaders throughout Darfur.

Expected accomplishment 2.1: stable and secure environment in Darfur

Planned indicators of achievement

Actual indicators of achievement

2.1.1 Zero serious violations of the Darfur Peace Agreement and subsequent agreements (2008/09: 0; 2009/10: 0; 2010/11: 0)

The Darfur Peace Agreement was not fully implemented and no subsequent complementary agreements were in place

During the period under review 647 incidents, including killings, abductions, gender-based violence and clashes, which would have been considered violations had the Darfur Peace Agreement been in force, were reported. There was a decrease in the number of tribal and ethnic clashes and in violence and disturbances in internally displaced camps

2.1.2 Higher percentage of refugees and internally displaced persons who return voluntarily and in safety to their places of origin as per agreements with the United Nations system (2009/10: 50 per cent of 1,250,000; 2010/11: 60 per cent of total number of refugees and internally displaced persons)

The United Nations country team indicated that up to 50,000 internally displaced persons returned to their places of origin during the reporting period. According to the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR), the displaced population decided to return owing to the improved security situation in some areas in Darfur and increased livelihood opportunities

2.1.3 Sudan-Chad cross-border tensions reduced

Achieved. No significant cross-border incident was recorded during the reporting period. Enabling measures to ease Sudan-Chad cross-border tensions included joint patrols; the eviction of JEM from its former stronghold of Jebel Moon; and the signing of the Khartoum Declaration by the Government of the Sudan, Chad and the Central African Republic, establishing a triple joint force to monitor the border between the three countries

2.1.4 Reduction in number of civilian casualties resulting from unexploded ordnance accidents (2008/09: 15; 2009/10: 30; 2010/11: 10)

A total of 17 civilian casualties related to unexploded ordnance accidents were reported, representing a 54 per cent decrease in the number of casualties, as compared to the 2009/10 period

2.1.5 All conflict-affected populations in Darfur have full access to humanitarian assistance

Achieved. Owing to Operation Spring Basket, humanitarian access was expanded in areas controlled both by the Government of the Sudan and the armed movements

Component 3: rule of law, governance and human rights

56. During the reporting period, UNAMID focused on the provision of assistance to rule-of-law institutions, in particular the local police and the judicial and prison systems in Darfur, with a view to establishing and consolidating the national legal framework and local systems; as well as on support activities related to the promotion and protection of human rights in Darfur. In such endeavours, the Operation worked closely with national institutions, local prison authorities and police, the Advisory Council on Human Rights, the State Human Rights Commission, the native administration, civil society organizations, political parties, community leaders, the United Nations country team and the Darfur Multi-Donor Trust Fund, as well as national and international non-governmental organizations.

57. The Operation continued to provide support to local authorities in laying the foundations for relevant institutional structures; good governance and the strengthening of State and local institutions; the strengthening of rule-of-law institutions in Darfur, particularly the police and justice systems, to ensure that they function in accordance with international human rights standards; and the effective and sustainable promotion and protection of human rights in Darfur on the part of institutions, civil societies and communities. The Operation also assisted with the development of a transparent, accountable and inclusive local civil service administration, including the provision of assistance for resolution of property and land disputes. UNAMID continued to provide capacity-building and training for the Government of the Sudan and signatories to the Darfur Peace Agreement and subsequent agreements, with a view to strengthening their capacities in accordance with international standards.

58. In particular, on 21 February 2011, UNAMID launched the Darfur Women's Legislative Caucus, to strengthen the role of women in parliament and promote women's and girls' rights. Sixty-four female legislators from the three Darfur States participated in the event in El Fasher. In addition, several advocacy and capacity-building activities were undertaken by the Operation, focusing on increasing women's representation in the political process, including through the formation of a women's secretariat bringing together local women's non-governmental organizations to provide a more coordinated, institutional framework for resolving women's issues.

59. With a view towards improving human rights protection, UNAMID initiated, in October 2010, the development of a comprehensive strategy on sexual and gender-based violence prevention and response. Technical support was provided on gender and sexual-based violence through training courses and workshops organized in the three States of Darfur. Overall, the number of cases of sexual and gender-based violence documented by UNAMID decreased to 78 incidents, down from 123 incidents in the 2009/10 period. In addition, on 2 December 2010 the UNAMID Police Women's Network was established in partnership with the Government of the Sudan Police, UNHCR, the United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA) and UNIFEM to spearhead gender-related issues.

60. UNAMID continued to mainstream child protection concerns, monitor and report violations of children's rights and advocate at the community level for the protection of children. During the reporting period, UNAMID held training and sensitization sessions on child rights and child protection for national actors, including community policing volunteers, sheikhs and umdas, local community members and health and education workers. The Operation also engaged in dialogue with the Sudanese Armed Forces and armed groups to gain commitments to action plans to end the recruitment and the use of child soldiers. As a result of this engagement, action plans prohibiting the recruitment and the use of child soldiers were signed by SLA-Mother Wing (Abu Gasim) (August 2010), and JEM-Peace Wing (December 2010), while SLA-Abdul Wahid commanders pledged their full commitment to continuing dialogue with the United Nations and agreed to consider the establishment of an action plan. On 22 January 2011, SLA-Free Will and SLA-Mother Wing (Abu Gasim) jointly registered 84 children recently released from the movements in cooperation with the Northern Sudan Disarmament, Demobilization and Reintegration Commission, which brought the total number of children released in Darfur since 2009 to 1,041. While the Sudanese Armed Forces does not have a policy to recruit children, there were ongoing discussions between UNAMID, UNMIS, UNICEF and the Sudanese Armed Forces on an action plan to end the association of children with the Sudanese Armed Forces. The Sudanese Armed Forces agreed to work towards an action plan in a meeting held on 21 October 2010, at the Ministry of Defence.

61. The needs assessment of the Justice Sector was under way at the end of the period, and its recommendations will facilitate the adoption of a cross-cutting long-term strategic plan for the judicial and corrections system in Darfur. In line with the memorandum of understanding exchanged between the Government of the Sudan and UNAMID, three prison development committees were inaugurated in El Geneina and Zalingei in April 2011 and in Nyala in May 2011, which will serve as forums for finding solutions to challenges affecting prisons and for facilitating prison reforms. During the reporting period, the Operation enhanced technical and institutional capacity of justice institutions through the provision of training courses for Government of the Sudan prison staff; the organization of workshops in collaboration with the United Nations country team on transitional justice, gender mainstreaming, rule of law and human rights principles for justice sector institutions; the facilitation of the supply of office equipment and furniture by UNDP; and the facilitation of the supply of other basic needs to female prisoners. In addition, the technical and institutional capacity of justice sector institutions, including the judiciary, the Office of the Prosecutor, the Bar Association, the faculties of law and the Darfur Compensation Commission, was enhanced through advice provided during monthly meetings with judges, prosecutors and legal aid organizations and through trial monitoring to ascertain rule-of-law issues.

62. The Operation continued to undertake confidence-building activities with many stakeholders at the community level in targeting quick-impact projects in collaboration with international and national non-governmental organizations, community-based organizations and the United Nations country team. As such, projects were undertaken to enhance the livelihood prospects and conditions of prisoners, which included a water supply and sanitation project, the construction of shelters, cells projects, a training centre and a court, as well as the supply of office equipment and water tanks.

During the reporting period, UNAMID continued to work in partnership with the Government of the Sudan, the United Nations country team, humanitarian, recovery and development organizations, and national and international non-governmental organizations to make progress towards stabilizing the humanitarian situation and facilitating humanitarian access. In addition, UNAMID assisted in ensuring continuous liaison and collaboration with the Government of the Sudan, in accordance with relevant resolutions of the Security Council and maintained dialogue and coordination between the military and police components, ensuring the mutual exchange of information about ongoing humanitarian, military and police deployment and operations.

64. Humanitarian activities were coordinated by the Resident and Humanitarian Coordinator supported by the former Humanitarian Liaison Office (current Protection Strategy and Coordination Division). The Darfur-based Deputy Humanitarian Coordinator was not appointed to office during the reporting period.

65. The coordination mechanism between UNAMID and the United Nations country team included weekly meetings and integrated planning sessions. United Nations-African Union Joint Special Representative was established on 19 January 2011. During the reporting period, the expanded UNAMID/United Nations country team body continued to hold monthly meetings, alternately in Khartoum and El Fasher, to review and address humanitarian, recovery and other relevant policy issues.

66. While some progress was made in terms of protecting civilians, ongoing clashes between the Government of the Sudan and movement forces continued to adversely affect the humanitarian situation. An estimated 70,000 people were displaced by fighting in Shangil Tobaya and East Jebel Marra from the beginning of 2011. Several of these sought and obtained the protection of UNAMID by gathering around team sites in areas affected by fighting.

67. With the view of increasing humanitarian access and improving the delivery of humanitarian aid, Operation Spring Basket was launched on 1 May 2011 to reach approximately 400,000 beneficiaries. Through this operation, UNAMID and humanitarian agencies conducted missions to assess needs and deliver aid to communities in previously inaccessible areas. Due to the increased access to internally displaced person camps, UNAMID was able to start implementation of humanitarian quick-impact projects in the Beida camp in Western Darfur and in the Neem, Johanah and Sakali camps in Southern Darfur, in order to improve the living conditions and increased access to internally displaced persons.

68. In June 2011, a Darfur recovery strategy workshop, jointly organized by UNAMID and UNDP, was held in El Fasher with representatives from State Governments (including the Ministry of Finance, the Planning Unit and the Strategic Council) of Northern, Southern and Western Darfur; the United Nations country team; the Office for the Coordination of Humanitarian Affairs; and international non-governmental organizations. The workshop also reviewed the draft Integrated Strategic Framework recovery results matrix, including the six thematic areas identified as priorities by the Darfur Recovery Working Group, and facilitated enhanced understanding of stakeholders' perspectives on recovery in Darfur, as well as the identification of thematic and geographical areas suitable for the implementation of recovery activities in Darfur.

69. In consultation with Government officials, an assessment of opportunities for socio-economic projects targeting women was completed in the three Darfur States. Based on the assessment, project proposals were developed and submitted to donors.

70. During the reporting period an average of 17,543 military personnel, 4,935 police personnel, 4,353 civilian staff and 4 Corrections Officers were provided with the necessary logistical, administrative and security services in support of the implementation of the mandate of the Operation. UNAMID continued to face difficulties in attaining the planned deployment levels, owing to delays in the issuance of visas, harsh living conditions and the unpredictable security situation in Darfur.

71. As an effective monitoring mechanism for vehicle usage and fuel consumption, a CarLog system was being installed in all vehicles. In addition, to reduce the number of major accidents, a driving test process was streamlined and standardized throughout the Operation area, a biannual road safety campaign was held and an in-house 4x4 all-terrain driver training programme was developed to provide drivers with the skills required to operate safely and effectively in the prevailing road conditions in Darfur.

72. During the reporting period, UNAMID continued its activities to mitigate the stress impact its deployment and operations may place on the fragile environment of Darfur. Forty-two out of 96 potential drilling sites in and around UNAMID team sites have been developed, and the water extracted is being shared with the local communities. To meet daily needs, the Operation undertook water conservation projects, including the design of recycled wastewater and rain water collection and reticulation systems in El Fasher, Nyala, El Geneina and Zalingei, and the modification of 140 ablution units to recycle treated sewage for toilet flushing, floor cleaning and firefighting.

73. The multi-year construction projects were progressing during the reporting period, with the construction of a total of 21 military camps, 18 formed police camps and 18 community policing centres, despite logistical challenges owing to harsh conditions, poor infrastructure in Darfur, long land transport and supply lines from Port Sudan (2,250 km), long customs clearance processes and security constraints that have delayed the mobilization of contractors to the sites, as well as difficulties encountered in identifying lands and obtaining government permits.

74. Restrictions on movement continued to hamper the Operation's activities throughout Darfur. UNAMID also continued to experience the adverse operational effects of shortfalls in aviation capability, in particular with regard to military medium-utility helicopters.

Expected accomplishment 5.1: Increased efficiency and effectiveness of logistical, administrative and security support to the Operation

Planned indicators of achievement

Actual indicators of achievement

5.1.1 85 per cent completion of camp construction for military contingents, formed police units and community policing centres

Overall, 75 per cent of camp construction was completed by the end of June 2011. Out of the 37 planned team sites for military contingents, 21 sites were fully completed, 9 sites were in the final stage of completion, and 2 sites were in the mobilization stage, while the remaining 5 sites could not be started owing to security and land-related issues. In addition, 18 of the 19 planned formed police unit camps were completed, whereas the construction of a camp at Nertiti was deferred as there was no plan yet for deployment. The planned construction of 19 enabling military camps was completed. Finally, the construction of 18 of the planned 70 community policing centres was completed as at 30 June 2011

5.1.2 Reduction in fixed-wing air fleet through reconfiguration from single to multifunctional combi airframes (2008/09: 14; 2009/10: 14; 2010/11:12)

The creation of regional support arrangements resulted in reduction in the UNAMID aviation fleet by two fixed-wing aircraft (1 AN-74 and 1 L-100) to the planned 12 fixed-wing aircraft for the 2010/11 period

The Operation faced difficulty in the deployment of three of its fixed-wing aircraft

5.1.3 Reduction in extraction of groundwater through increased generation of water through wastewater management and rain harvesting (2008/09: 0 per cent reduction in groundwater extraction; 2009/10: 25 per cent; 2010/11: 40 per cent)

24 per cent of required water was recycled through the installation and operation of 64 wastewater treatment plants

The lower-than-planned generation of water through wastewater management was attributable to delays in the installation of wastewater plants owing to the lack of the necessary construction materials for the platform and the volatile security situation which restricted movements to team sites

5.1.4 Reduction in the percentage of major vehicle accidents (2008/09: 8 per cent of total fleet; 2009/10: 3 per cent; 2010/11: 1.5 per cent)

There were 112 major vehicle accidents, a 27 per cent decrease compared with the 2009/10, as a result of more stringent driver testing, the monitoring of vehicle speed by way of CarLog, a very robust road safety campaign and a 4x4 all-terrain vehicle driving training programme

Planned outputs	Completed (number or yes/no)	Remarks

75. The Regional Service Centre at the logistics hub at Entebbe, Uganda, was established by General Assembly resolution 64/269 with effect from 1 July 2010. It was decided that the personnel and financial resources of the Regional Service Centre for 2010/11 would be achieved mainly through redeployment from the missions to be served by the Regional Service Centre (MONUSCO, UNMIS, UNAMID, the United Nations Support Office for the African Union Mission in Somalia (UNSOA), BNUB and BINUCA). The costs for the respective missions were based on the proportion of the approved total mission budget (gross) for 2010/11 against the total budget of these missions.

76. No redeployment across group was recorded for UNAMID at the end of the reporting period.

D. Monthly expenditure pattern

77. Higher expenditures in August 2010 reflect the recording in the Operation's account of obligations for rations and petrol, oil and lubricants. Higher expenditures in the months of September and October 2010, and April and June 2011 are attributable to the recording of obligations and disbursements for the reimbursement to troop- and police-contributing Governments for troop costs, contingent-owned equipment and self-sustainment. Higher expenditures with respect to September and October 2010, and June 2011, are also due to the reflection in the Operation's account of obligations and actual disbursements related to the rental of its aircraft fleet, construction services and acquisition of equipment to carry on the engineering projects throughout Darfur.

IV. Analysis of variances¹

	Variance
Military observers	$565.0	5.0%

78. The unspent balance was attributable primarily to lower actual requirements for mission subsistence allowance and travel costs owing to a slower than anticipated deployment of military observers and a higher number of military observers arriving from neighbouring countries. While the budgetary provision was based on the application of a 12.0 per cent delayed deployment factor, the actual vacancy rate for the period averaged 23.3 per cent.

79. Actual requirements for mission subsistence allowance reflect the payment of the full amount of mission subsistence allowance to all deployed military observers (an average of 184 military observers, compared with the lower number of 85 military observers used in the cost estimates), as no accommodation was provided during the 2010/11 period owing to delays in the construction programme.

Military contingents	$39 736.9	7.6%

80. The unutilized balance resulted primarily from reduced requirements with respect to rations owing to a lower actual ceiling man rate (an average cost of $9.74 per person-day, compared with the budgeted cost of $13.36 per person-day) owing to a reduction in airlifting services to various locations; and to the non-purchase of reserve ration packs owing to the utilization of existing stocks. In addition, the unspent amount was attributable to the unavailability and non-deployment of contingent-owned major equipment, resulting in lower actual requirements with respect to the reimbursement of troop-contributing Governments.

81. The unspent balance was offset in part by additional requirements with respect to: (a) the reimbursement of troop costs to contributing Governments stemming from the faster than projected deployment of military contingent personnel (actual deployment averaged 17,010 personnel (exclusive of staff and liaison officers), compared with the budgeted average strength of 16,636 personnel (exclusive of staff and liaison officers)); and (b) the freight and deployment of contingent-owned equipment, owing to the use of a third-party logistics provider for intra-theatre movement as the Operation lacked a dedicated multirole logistic unit.

United Nations police	$9 356.8	5.6%

82. The unspent balance was attributable primarily to reduced requirements with respect to travel on emplacement, rotation and repatriation owing to a slower than anticipated deployment of United Nations police personnel, and lower-than-planned travel costs, including as a result of a higher proportion of police personnel arriving from neighbouring countries. While the estimated budgetary requirements anticipated the deployment of an average of 3,131 police officers, the actual deployment averaged 2,796 officers, which is reflective of the difficulties faced by the Operation in relation to the issuance of visas.

Formed police units	$19 303.5	26.0%

83. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to lower actual requirements for the reimbursement for contingent-owned equipment owing to higher-than-projected levels of unserviceability and non-deployment of major equipment under the terms of the memoranda of understanding with formed police-contributing countries; and to reduced requirements for rations owing to the lower actual ceiling man rate and the non-purchase of combat rations pack due to the utilization of existing stocks.

International staff	$64 405.0	24.6%

84. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to reduced requirements with respect to net salaries and common staff costs. The Operation experienced an average vacancy rate of 27.8 per cent for the period in comparison with the budgeted rate of 25.0 per cent, owing to a high turnover and the large number of prospective staff who declined offers of appointment owing to the volatile phase IV security environment and living conditions in Darfur. In addition, the level of actual expenditures regarding net salaries and common staff costs was lower than the estimated provisions for salaries, including post adjustment, and common staff costs for international staff pursuant to General Assembly resolution 63/250, on human resources management.

National staff	($2 575.7)	(3.9%)

85. The additional requirements were attributable to a higher-than-anticipated rate of deployment of national General Service staff (an actual average rate of 16.2 per cent, compared with the budgeted vacancy rate of 20.0 per cent), owing to a strengthened recruitment campaign launched by UNAMID through the public media (broadcast and print) and the Operation website. The variance was also attributable to the implementation of revised salary scales in effect since 1 March 2011, which resulted in salary and allowance increases, the impact of which was more strongly felt in respect of national General Service staff. While the estimated budgetary requirements were based on a monthly average cost of $1,570, the actual monthly average cost for national General Service staff was $1,677.

86. The overall additional requirements were offset in part by reduced actual hazardous duty station payments owing to the designation of Khartoum, Port Sudan and El Obeid as non-hazardous duty station areas.

United Nations Volunteers	$1 805.6	7.3%

87. The unspent balance was attributable to lower-than-budgeted costs for United Nations Volunteers with respect to pre-departure and repatriation expenses, home visits and settling in grants.

	Variance
Government-provided personnel	$17.4	6.2%

88. The unutilized balance was attributable to reduced requirements for travel on assignment or repatriation owing to lower actual cost of air travel.

	Variance
Consultants	($1 003.4)	(492.6%)

89. The additional requirements were attributable to unbudgeted consultancies in specialized and critical areas where the Operation lacked adequate skills. During the reporting period, consultants (non-training) were engaged for the following: political guidance and support to the Doha peace process; implementation of quick-impact projects; water exploration, conservation and management; environmental health; and public information.

	Variance
Official travel	($4 839.0)	(107.9%)

90. The additional requirements were attributable primarily to increased travel undertaken within the mission area related to unplanned trips for hostage-crisis management, humanitarian and recovery issues; to increased activities of uniformed personnel in connection with the convoy of United Nations-owned equipment, the inspection of ammunition and explosives, and support for the disarmament and demobilization of combatants; as well as to increased logistical, administrative and substantive support provided to team sites. A volatile security environment and inaccessibility to remote team sites and community policing centres further compounded the logistical problems related to in-mission travel and contributed to longer-than-expected travel times to reach the duty stations. The overall additional requirements were also attributable to increased official travel undertaken outside the mission area in connection with the mediation and political consultations for the Doha peace process as well as for predeployment visits.

Facilities and infrastructure	$27 575.6	12.4%

91. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to: (a) reduced requirements for construction services and related acquisition of prefabricated facilities, electrical equipment and field defence supplies, owing to challenges related to the acquisition of land and the long procurement process, as well as the volatile security situation and poor infrastructure, which delayed the mobilization of contractors to the sites and the delivery of essential building materials, which resulted in the non-construction of the planned military camps, community policing centres and water and environment projects; (b) lower-than-planned self-sustainment reimbursements to contributing Governments; (c) the lower acquisition of generators owing to the transfer of equipment from another mission; and (d) the lower acquisition of field defence equipment owing to changes in operational requirement.

92. The overall reduced requirements were offset in part by additional requirements for: (a) petrol, oil and lubricants owing to the continued reliance on high-capacity generators for the uninterrupted supply of electricity in the mission area and to the 12.5 per cent increase in the price of diesel fuel (budgeted price of $1.24 per litre compared to the actual average price of $1.395 per litre); (b) the acquisition of accommodation equipment to furnish the United Nations-provided staff residential accommodation mission-wide and guest houses; (c) freight charges for office furniture ordered in the prior financial period which were recorded in the reporting period; and (d) the acquisition of 20 additional water treatment plants to meet water purification requirements.

Ground transportation	$6 231.2	19.3%

93. The unspent balance was attributable primarily to the advance procurement during the prior period of 10 garbage trucks in support of water and environment-related activities; and to reduced requirements for the acquisition of vehicle workshop equipment owing to procurement delays.

	Variance
Air transportation	$40 367.0	15.4%

94. The unspent balance was attributable mainly to reduced expenditures for the rental and operation of aircraft and the related aviation fuel consumption, owing to a lower-than-planned level of aviation activities (actual 27,272 hours flown by rotary and fixed-wing aircraft, compared with the 34,442 hours budgeted) resulting from the delayed deployment of the Operation's aircraft and restrictions on flights. A total of 7 aircraft (3 fixed-wing aircraft and 4 helicopters) out of the planned 50 aircraft (12 fixed-wing aircraft and 38 helicopters) were not deployed owing primarily to the unavailability of tactical helicopters (Mi-35) from contributing countries, for which no commercial alternative could be identified, and restrictions on the deployment of aircraft over 20 years old.

Communications	$13 463.4	25.1%

95. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to the postponement of the planned acquisition of solar power systems owing to procurement delays, the cancellation of the planned acquisition of telephone exchanges owing to an anticipated change in technology (migration of existing MD110 installations to MX-ONE), and reduced actual requirements for the acquisition of mobile radios and base station radios owing to revised operational requirements. In addition, the variance resulted from reduced actual requirements for spare parts owing to delay in the procurement process, and for commercial communication owing to the delayed deployment of Operation personnel.

96. The unspent balance was offset in part by additional requirements for reimbursements to contributing Governments for self-sustainment, owing to higher actual levels of self-sustainment based on signed memorandums of understanding.

Information technology	$2 919.4	12.4%

97. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to the postponement of the planned replacement of 875 desktop computers, 902 laptop computers and 102 digital senders owing to delays in the write-off process; and to the cancellation of the planned acquisition of computer servers and the related procurement of spare parts and supplies due to the virtualization of servers undertaken. The unspent amount was partly offset by higher actual expenditure for licences, fees and rental of software.

	Variance
Medical	$9 163.9	34.0%

98. The unutilized balance was attributable primarily to reduced requirements with respect to: (a) reimbursements to contributing Governments for self-sustainment; (b) the non-purchase of items of medical equipment owing to revised operational requirements; and (c) medical services owing to the increased reliance on the Operation's medical facilities throughout the mission area.

	Variance
Special equipment	($110.2)	(1.4%)

99. The additional requirements were attributable primarily to the unplanned acquisition of binoculars and other specialized equipment to enhance the capacity and operational capability of the close protection team in view of the volatile security situation.

	Variance
Other supplies, services and equipment	($1 743.1)	(4.6%)

100. The additional requirements were attributable primarily to higher actual expenditures for bank charges owing to the increased volume of banking transactions as the Operation continued to expand, with more people being deployed; and to the acquisition of additional various items of warehousing equipment and material handling equipment to enhance the Operation's operational capability.

101. The additional requirements were offset in part by reduced requirements for the disarmament, the demobilization and the reintegration of armed elements owing to the lack of a comprehensive peace agreement and the slow pace of returnees of warring parties to their home.

V. Actions to be taken by the General Assembly

102. The actions to be taken by the General Assembly in connection with the financing of UNAMID are:

(a) To decide on the treatment of the unencumbered balance of $224,677,700, with respect to the period from 1 July 2010 to 30 June 2011;

(b) To decide on the treatment of other income for the period ended 30 June 2011, amounting to $110,835,700 from interest income ($15,599,900), other/miscellaneous income ($5,299,100) and cancellation of prior-period obligations ($89,936,900), offset by prior-period adjustments ($200).
