Buenos Aires from 14 to 16 November 2017, and the outcome documents of previous Global Conferences,

Underscoring the importance of the implementation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development<sup>24</sup> in ensuring the enjoyment of the rights of the child,

Taking note of all relevant international instruments on the rights of migrants and refugees, and recalling the importance of protecting the human rights and fundamental freedoms of all refugee and migrant children, including those who are unaccompanied or separated from their caregivers, with the best interest of the child as a primary consideration,

Taking note also of the reports of the Secretary-General on progress made towards achieving the commitments set out in the outcome document of the twenty-seventh special session of the General Assembly<sup>25</sup> and on the status of the Convention on the Rights of the Child and the issues addressed in resolution 73/155,<sup>26</sup> as well as the report of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General on Violence against Children,<sup>27</sup> the report of the Special Representative of the Secretary-General for Children and Armed Conflict,<sup>28</sup> the report of the Special Rapporteur of the Human Rights Council on the sale and sexual exploitation of children, including child prostitution, child pornography and other child sexual abuse material,<sup>29</sup> and the report of the Special Rapporteur of the Council on trafficking in persons, especially women and children,<sup>30</sup> whose recommendations should be carefully studied, taking fully into account the views of Member States,

Acknowledging the submission of the report of the Independent Expert leading the United Nations global study on children deprived of liberty,<sup>31</sup>

Welcoming the adoption of its resolution 73/327 of 25 July 2019, by which it declared 2021 the International Year for the Elimination of Child Labour,

Reaffirming that States have the primary responsibility to respect, promote and protect all human rights and fundamental freedoms, including the rights of the child, and acknowledging the important role played by national governmental and local structures for children, including, where they exist, ministries and institutions in charge of child, family and youth issues and independent national human rights institutions, ombudspersons for children or other national institutions for the promotion and protection of the rights of the child,

Recognizing that the family has the primary responsibility for the nurturing and protection of children, in the best interests of the child, and that children, for the full and harmonious development of their personality, should grow up in a family environment and in an atmosphere of happiness, love and understanding,

Noting with appreciation the work to promote and protect the rights of the child carried out by all relevant organs, bodies, entities and organizations of the United Nations system, within their respective mandates, by relevant mandate holders and special procedures of the United Nations and by relevant regional organizations, where appropriate, and intergovernmental organizations, and recognizing the valuable role of national human rights institutions and civil society, including non-governmental organizations,

Recognizing the importance of international, regional and bilateral multi-stakeholder partnerships and initiatives to advance the effective protection and promotion of the rights of the child and the elimination of all forms of violence against children, including all violent punishment of children,

Noting the Safe Schools Declaration and other efforts aimed at promoting and protecting the right to accessible, inclusive, quality and non-discriminatory education and at facilitating the continuation of education in situations of armed conflict and protracted crises, and noting also the Principles and Guidelines on Children Associated with Armed Forces or Armed Groups, also called the Paris Principles, and other efforts to protect children affected by armed conflict,

Urging all States to respect, protect and promote the right of girls and boys to express themselves freely and their right to be heard, to ensure that their views are given due weight, in accordance with their age and maturity, in all matters affecting them and to involve children, including children with disabilities, in decision-making processes, taking into account the evolving capacities of children and the importance of involving children's organizations and child-led initiatives,

Deeply concerned that children disproportionately suffer the consequences of discrimination, exclusion and inequality and that the situation of children in many parts of the world remains negatively affected by the prolonged effects of poverty and inequality, reaffirming that eradicating poverty is the greatest global challenge and an indispensable requirement for sustainable development, and in this regard underlining the importance of the implementation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, and recognizing that a strong focus is needed on poverty, deprivation and inequality to prevent and protect children from all forms of violence and to promote the resilience of children, their families and their communities,

Profoundly concerned that children in many parts of the world remain negatively affected by the adverse impacts of climate change, including persistent drought and extreme weather events, land degradation, sea level rise, coastal erosion and ocean acidification, which further threaten health, food security and efforts to eradicate poverty and achieve sustainable development, and in this regard calling for the implementation of the Paris Agreement adopted under the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change,<sup>32</sup>

Recognizing that the risk of maternal mortality is highest for girls under 15 years of age and that complications in pregnancy and childbirth are a leading cause of death among girls under 15 years of age in many countries,

Recalling the importance of promoting and protecting the human rights and fundamental freedoms of all migrant children, regardless of their migration status, with the best interests of the child as a primary consideration; reaffirming all the latest international policy developments and relevant United Nations agreements in this regard; strengthening international and regional cooperation within the framework of the United Nations and relevant regional forums,

Expressing serious concern that children with disabilities, particularly girls, face stigmatization, discrimination or exclusion and are disproportionately subjected to mental and physical violence and sexual abuse in all settings,

Expressing concern that millions of children worldwide continue to grow up deprived of parental care, separated from their families for many reasons,

Recalling the importance of its resolution 64/142 of 18 December 2009 and the Guidelines for the Alternative Care of Children, contained in the annex to that resolution, which serve as a tool to inform policy and practice for the protection and well-being of children deprived of parental care or who are at risk of being so, and welcoming the progress that has been achieved since the adoption of the Guidelines,

1. Welcomes the commemoration of the thirtieth anniversary of the adoption of the Convention on the Rights of the Child,<sup>1</sup> the human rights treaty with the largest number of ratifications, and acknowledges that the Convention and the Optional Protocols thereto<sup>2</sup> contain a comprehensive set of international legal standards for the protection and well-being of children;

2. Recognizes that, while progress has been made, many challenges remain, and that, in this regard, both the high-level commemorative event on 25 September 2019 and the high-level meeting of the General Assembly on 20 November 2019 were occasions for States to reflect on implementation gaps and take additional measures to ensure that the rights of children are fully realized;

3. Reaffirms paragraphs 1 to 5 of its resolution 71/177 of 19 December 2016 and that the general principles of, inter alia, the best interests of the child, non-discrimination, participation and survival and development provide the framework for all actions concerning children;

4. Urges States that have not yet done so to consider becoming parties to the Convention on the Rights of the Child and the Optional Protocols thereto as a matter of priority and to implement them effectively, and encourages further efforts by the Secretary-General in this regard;

5. Urges States parties to withdraw reservations that are incompatible with the object and purpose of the Convention or the Optional Protocols thereto and to consider reviewing regularly other reservations with a view to withdrawing them in accordance with the Vienna Declaration and Programme of Action;<sup>15</sup>

6. Notes the work of the Special Representatives of the Secretary-General on Violence against Children and for Children and Armed Conflict, the Special Rapporteur of the Human Rights Council on the sale and sexual exploitation of children, including child prostitution, child pornography and other sexual abuse material, and the Committee on the Rights of the Child and, in this regard, their contribution to the progress achieved in the promotion and protection of the rights of children;

7. Reaffirms section II of its resolution 73/155, on the promotion and protection of the rights of the child and non-discrimination against children, in which it addressed non-discrimination; registration, family relations, adoption and alternative care; the economic and social well-being of children; the eradication of poverty; the right to education; the right to the enjoyment of the highest attainable standard of health; the right to food; child labour; the prevention and elimination of and response to violence against children; promoting and protecting the rights of children, including children in particularly difficult situations; migrant children; children and the administration of justice; the prevention and eradication of the sale of children, child prostitution and child pornography; and children affected by armed conflict;

8. Notes with concern the large number of children belonging to national, ethnic, religious and linguistic minorities, migrant children, refugee or asylum-seeking children, internally displaced children, children of African descent and children of indigenous origin who are victims of discrimination, including racism, racial discrimination, xenophobia and related intolerance, stresses the need to incorporate special measures, in accordance with the principle of the best interests of the child and respect for his or her views and the child's gender-specific needs, including children with disabilities, in education programmes and programmes to combat these practices, and calls upon States to provide special support and to ensure equal access to services for those children;

9. Recalls every child's right to be registered immediately after birth, to a name, to acquire a nationality and to recognition everywhere as a person before the law, as set out in the Convention on the Rights of the Child and the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights,<sup>4</sup> respectively, reminds States of their obligation to ensure the registration of the birth of all children without discrimination of any kind, including in the case of late birth registration, calls upon States to ensure that birth registration procedures are universal, accessible, simple, expeditious and effective and provided at minimal or no cost, and recognizes the importance of birth registration as a critical means of preventing statelessness;

10. Urges States to improve the situation of children living in poverty, in particular extreme poverty, deprived of adequate food and nutrition, water and sanitation facilities, with limited or no access to basic physical and mental health-care services, shelter, education, participation and protection, taking into account that, while a severe lack of goods and services hurts every human being, it is particularly threatening and harmful to children, leaving them unable to enjoy their rights, to reach their full potential and to participate as full members of society, and exposed to conditions that lead to increased violence;

11. Calls upon States to scale up scientifically accurate and age-appropriate comprehensive education, relevant to cultural contexts, that provides adolescent girls and boys and young women and men, in and out of school, consistent with their evolving capacities, and with the best interests of the child as their basic concern, with information on sexual and reproductive health and HIV prevention, gender equality, girls' and women's empowerment, human rights, physical, psychological and pubertal development and power in their relationships, to enable them to build self-esteem and foster informed decision-making, communication and risk-reduction skills and to develop respectful relationships, in full partnership with all relevant actors, including young people, parents, legal guardians, caregivers, educators and health-care providers, in order to, inter alia, enable them to make safe, conscious and responsible decisions and protect themselves from risks;

12. Reaffirms the right to education on the basis of equal opportunity and non-discrimination, and calls upon States to make primary education compulsory, inclusive and available free to all children, ensuring that all children have equal access to education of good quality, making secondary education generally available and accessible to all, in particular through the progressive introduction of free education, bearing in mind that special measures to ensure equal access, including affirmative action, contribute to achieving equal opportunity and combating exclusion by eliminating social, economic and gender disparities in education and ensuring school attendance, in particular for girls, children with disabilities, pregnant adolescent girls, children living in poverty, indigenous children, children of African descent, persons belonging to ethnic or religious minorities and children in vulnerable or marginalized situations;

13. Urges States to take immediate and effective measures to secure the prohibition and elimination of the worst forms of child labour and to end child labour in all its forms by 2025 at the latest;

14. Condemns all forms of violence against children in all settings, both online and offline, including physical, psychological and sexual violence, torture and other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment, child abuse and exploitation, hostage-taking, domestic violence, incest, trafficking in or sale of children and their organs, exploitation of children in prostitution, child sexual abuse material, sexual exploitation of children in the context of travel and tourism, gang and armed violence, sexual exploitation of children online, bullying, including cyberbullying, and harmful practices, including female genital mutilation and child, early and forced marriage, and urges States to strengthen efforts to prevent and protect children from all such violence through a comprehensive and gender perspective approach and to develop an inclusive, multifaceted and systematic framework, which is integrated into national planning processes, to respond effectively to violence against children and to provide for safe and child-sensitive counselling, complaint and reporting mechanisms and safeguards for the rights of affected children, while acting in accordance with the provisions of the Convention on the Rights of the Child, the Optional Protocols thereto and other applicable international standards on the rights of the child, as well as the targets of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development<sup>24</sup> related to violence against children;

15. Calls upon all States to protect the human rights of all children and to ensure, for children belonging to minorities in vulnerable situations, including migrant children, indigenous children, children of African descent, internally displaced children and children with disabilities, the enjoyment of all human rights as well as access to health care, social services, social protection and accessible and inclusive education on an equal basis with others, and to ensure that all such children, in particular unaccompanied migrant children, internally displaced children and those who are victims of violence and exploitation, receive special protection and assistance and that the best interests of the child are a primary consideration in their policies of integration, return and family reunification;

16. Condemns in the strongest terms all violations and abuses committed against children in armed conflict, and in this regard urges all States and other parties to armed conflict that are engaged, in contravention of applicable international law, in the recruitment and use of children, in patterns of killing and maiming of children and/or rape and other sexual violence against children, acknowledging that sexual violence in these situations disproportionately affects girls, but that boys are also targets, in recurrent attacks on schools and/or hospitals and related personnel and in patterns of abduction of children, as well as in all other violations and abuses against children, to take time-bound and effective measures to end and prevent them and to encourage age- and gender-specific support services, including psychological, social and sexual and reproductive health-care services, and education, social protection and reintegration programmes;

I

Children without parental care

17. Recalls that, in the Convention on the Rights of the Child, it is recognized that a child, for the full and harmonious development of his or her personality and potential, should grow up in a family environment and that a child temporarily or permanently deprived of his or her family environment, or in whose own best interests cannot be allowed to remain in that environment, shall be entitled to special protection and assistance provided by the State, and that States parties shall, in accordance with their national laws and their obligations under the relevant international instruments in this field, ensure quality alternative care for such a child;

18. Recognizes that in different cultural, political and social systems, various forms of the family exist, and that all families should be supported in undertaking their role in the promotion of the human rights of children within their care;

19. Recalls that the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities<sup>5</sup> requires all States parties to ensure the full enjoyment by children with disabilities of all human rights and fundamental freedoms on an equal basis with other children, including with respect to family life;

20. Reaffirms that children shall not be separated from their parents against their will, except when competent authorities, subject to judicial review, determine in accordance with applicable law and procedures that such separation is necessary for the best interests of the child. Such determination may be necessary in a particular case such as one involving abuse or neglect of the child by the parents or legal guardians, or one where the parents are living separately and a decision must be made as to the child's place of residence;

21. Also reaffirms that children shall not be deprived of their liberty unlawfully or arbitrarily and that the arrest, detention or imprisonment of a child shall be in conformity with the law and shall be used only as a measure of last resort and for the shortest appropriate period of time, and with the best interests of the child as a primary consideration;

22. Takes note of the report of the Secretary-General on the status of the Convention on the Rights of the Child,<sup>26</sup> in which it is recognized that children without parental care are more likely than their peers to experience human rights violations, such as exclusion, violence, abuse, neglect and exploitation, and in this regard expresses deep concern about the potential harm of institutionalization and institutional care to children's growth and development when such placement is not compliant with the Convention on the Rights of the Child;

23. Recognizes that many children living without parental care have families, including at least one parent alive and/or other relatives, and that many countries are working to implement international standards, prevent the unnecessary use of institutionalization of children and reunify children who have been separated from their families;

24. Stresses that, where it is in their best interests, children should not have to give up family connections in order to escape poverty or receive care, supportive services, comprehensive, timely and quality health services, or education, or because they are in contact with the law;

25. Recognizes that violence, including domestic violence, poverty, structural violence and survival activities may lead children into the juvenile justice system, and that detention in the criminal justice system is sometimes used as a substitute for prevention and referral to child protection authorities;

26. Also recognizes that financial and material poverty, or conditions directly and uniquely imputable to such poverty, should never be the only justification for the removal of a child from the care of his or her parents or primary caregivers, for receiving a child into alternative care or for preventing his or her reintegration, but should be seen as a signal for the need to provide appropriate support to the child's family, benefiting the child directly;

27. Urges States to strengthen child welfare and child protection systems and improve care reform efforts, which should include increased multisectoral collaboration between child welfare and health, education, justice and other sectors, active coordination among all relevant authorities, improved cross-border systems and improved capacity-building and training programmes for relevant stakeholders;

28. Expresses deep concern regarding the large and growing number of migrant children, particularly those who are unaccompanied or separated from their parents or primary caregivers, who may be particularly vulnerable along their journey, and expresses the commitment to protect the human rights of migrant children, given their vulnerability, in particular unaccompanied migrant children and migrant children with disabilities, to ensure that they receive appropriate protection and assistance and to provide for their health, education and psychosocial development, ensuring that the best interests of the child are a primary consideration in policies on integration, return and family reunification;

29. Urges States to take effective action to provide support to families and to prevent the unnecessary separation of children from their parents, including by:

(a) Working towards ending the unnecessary use of institutionalization of children and prioritizing investments in child protection services and social services to support quality alternative care, including families and communities, in order to prevent the separation of children from their families, with the best interests of the child as the primary consideration;

(b) Adopting and enforcing laws and improving the implementation of policies and programmes, budget allocation and human resources to support children, in particular children with disabilities and children living in disadvantaged, stigmatized and marginalized families, to address the root causes of unnecessary family separation and ensure that they are cared for effectively by their own families and communities;

(c) Taking all appropriate legislative, administrative, social and educational measures to protect the child, including children witnessing domestic violence and orphans by domestic crimes, from all forms of physical or mental violence, injury or abuse, neglect or negligent treatment, maltreatment or exploitation, including sexual abuse, while in the care of parents, legal guardians or any other person who has the care of the child;

(d) Ensuring that a child shall not be separated from his or her parents against their will, except when such separation is necessary for the best interests of the child, and recognizing the right of a child who has been placed by competent authorities for the purpose of care, protection or treatment of his or her physical or mental health to a periodic review of the treatment provided to the child and all other circumstances relevant to his or her placement;

(e) Developing and strengthening inclusive and responsive family-oriented policies for poverty reduction that are also designed to promote and strengthen parents' ability to care for their children and to confront family poverty and social exclusion, recognizing the multidimensional aspects of poverty, focusing on inclusive and quality education and lifelong learning for all, including initiatives to promote involved and positive parenting, health and well-being for all at all ages, full and productive employment, decent work, social security, livelihoods and social cohesion, and promoting and protecting the human rights of all family members;

(f) Providing gender-sensitive social protection systems, which are key to ensuring poverty reduction, including, as appropriate, targeted cash transfers for families in vulnerable situations, as can be the case in families headed by a single parent, in particular those headed by women or by children, and which are most effective in reducing poverty when accompanied by other measures, such as providing access to basic services, high-quality education, affordable quality childcare services and health-care services;

(g) Supporting and assisting the capacities of families and caregivers in regard to child development, including through comprehensive education and training and the promotion of involved and positive parenting to enable them to provide children with care in a safe environment;

(h) Providing early and comprehensive information, services and support to children with disabilities and their families with a view to preventing concealment, abandonment, neglect, discrimination and segregation and to ensuring that they have equal rights with respect to family life;

(i) Designing and implementing programmes to provide pregnant adolescents and adolescent mothers with education, including access to quality education, social services and support, to enable them to continue and complete their education, care for their children and protect them from discrimination, as well as to ensure healthy and safe pregnancy;

(j) Enacting and enforcing legislation to prevent trafficking in and exploitation of children in all alternative care settings;

(k) Ensuring that all decisions, initiatives and approaches related to children without parental care are made on a case-by-case basis, by suitably qualified professionals in a multidisciplinary team, through a judicial, administrative or other adequate and recognized procedure, with legal safeguards, taking into account the best interests of the child, and regularly reviewed, with a view to ensuring the child's safety, security and participation, and grounded in the best interests of the child concerned, including through incorporating a gender perspective and in conformity with the principle of non-discrimination;

(l) Putting in place rigorous and systematic judicial and administrative "gatekeeping" procedures that are designed to ensure that quality alternative care for children is only used when necessary for the best interest of the child and that children receive the most appropriate care for their needs, in line with the Guidelines for the Alternative Care of Children,<sup>33</sup> the Convention on the Rights of the Child and the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities;

(m) Taking all measures necessary to prevent and combat illegal adoptions and all adoptions that are not in the best interests of the child;

30. Also urges States to take action to ensure the enjoyment of human rights for all children without parental care, in accordance with the international human rights framework, including the Convention on the Rights of the Child, not least the rights to the enjoyment of the highest attainable standards of health, education, play and recreational activities appropriate to the age and maturity of the child, and also to take action to provide a range of alternative care options and to protect all children without parental care, including by:

(a) Promoting the full implementation of international standards, notably the Guidelines for the Alternative Care of Children, including through training on the Guidelines for care staff and others working with children, and strengthening national legislation, regulations and policies to protect the rights of children without parental care;

(b) Ensuring the availability of a comprehensive range of quality accessible and disability-inclusive alternative care options, in the best interests of the child and on a case-by-case basis, consistent with the Guidelines for the Alternative Care of Children and in line with the Convention on the Rights of the Child and the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities, for emergency, short-term and long-term care;

(c) Strengthening regulation, including registration, licensing, oversight and accountability mechanisms, promoting development and dissemination of evidence-based methods and monitoring and assessing the quality of care, the status of children and all other circumstances relevant to the placement in all alternative care settings, including kinship care settings, through a periodic review, to ensure that the rights and the best interest of the child are upheld;

(d) Improving data collection, information management and reporting systems related to children without parental care in all settings and situations in order to close existing data gaps and develop global and national baselines, including by investing in quality, accessible, timely and reliable disaggregated data through capacity-building, financial support and technical assistance and ensuring that quality data guide policymaking;

(e) Ensuring adequate and systematic training on the rights of the child, including on the Guidelines for the Alternative Care of Children, for professional groups working with and for children, including children without parental care, including specialized judges, law enforcement officials, lawyers, social workers, medical doctors, care professionals, health professionals and teachers, and coordination among various governmental bodies involved in children's rights;

(f) Phasing out unnecessary institutionalization through its progressive replacement with quality alternative care options in the best interests of the child and on a case-by-case basis and, where relevant, adopting strategies and comprehensive plans of action in that respect, including by implementing relevant reforms, developing or reforming legislation, budget allocation, awareness-raising campaigns and training, and increasing the capacity of all relevant actors;

(g) Progressively replacing institutionalization with quality alternative care, including, inter alia, family and community-based care and, where relevant, redirecting resources to family and community-based care services, with adequate training and support for caregivers and robust screening and oversight mechanisms;

(h) Undertaking every effort, where the immediate family is unable to care for a child with disabilities, to provide quality alternative care within the wider family, and, failing that, within the community in a family setting, bearing in mind the best interests of the child and taking into account the child's views and preferences;

(i) Protecting the human rights of children in alternative care and ensuring swift accountability for human rights violations or abuses, including by protecting children from all forms of violence and abuse, including bullying, in all care settings;

(j) Recognizing the multiple and intersecting forms of discrimination faced by children in vulnerable situations, such as those living in child-headed households, unaccompanied and separated children, girls, children with HIV/AIDS, children with disabilities, children in detention, children who exceed the age limit for care systems as established by national legislation, children belonging to minorities in vulnerable situations, indigenous children and children of African descent, and the necessity of increasing support for children in this regard;

(k) Establishing and developing safe, well-publicized, child-friendly, confidential, accessible and effective mechanisms to enable children in alternative care settings or their representatives to seek counselling, report violence against children or other safeguarding concerns and file complaints about incidents of violence and to ensure that all children have access to such mechanisms;

(l) Ensuring that adolescents and young people leaving alternative care receive appropriate support in preparing for the transition to independent living, including support in gaining access to employment, education, training, housing and psychological support, participating in rehabilitation with their families where that is in their best interest and gaining access to after-care services consistent with the Guidelines for the Alternative Care of Children;

(m) Mainstreaming a gender perspective in all alternative care policies and implementing gender-responsive measures that address the specific needs of girls in alternative care settings;

(n) Ensuring appropriate care for and protection of children who work and/or live on the street without any parental contact or supervision, including through measures to support their sustainable reintegration into their families and, when family reintegration is not possible or appropriate, through a case-by-case approach to provide quality alternative care that is appropriate and in the best interests of the child;

(o) Protect unaccompanied and separated children at all stages of migration through the establishment of specialized procedures for their identification, referral, care and family reunification, and provide access to health-care services, including mental health, education, legal assistance and the right to be heard in administrative and judicial proceedings, including by swiftly appointing a competent and impartial legal guardian, as essential means to address their particular vulnerabilities and discrimination, protect them from all forms of violence and provide access to sustainable solutions that are in their best interests;

(p) Ensure that child protection authorities are promptly informed and assigned to participate in procedures for the determination of the best interests of the child once an unaccompanied or separated child crosses an international border, in accordance with international law, including by training border officials in the rights of the child and child-sensitive procedures, such as those that prevent family separation and reunite families when family separation occurs;

(q) Taking measures to ensure that all children who are separated from their parents in accordance with applicable law and procedures, and where such separation is necessary for the best interests of the child, are promptly referred to child protection authorities and provided with appropriate and quality alternative care, inter alia, family and community-based care;

(r) Promoting alternatives to detention for children and taking steps to minimize the risk of violence against children in detention, as well as to encourage and facilitate, wherever possible and in the best interests of the child, frequent family visits and regular contact and communication between children and their family members and with the outside world, and to ensure that no child should be subject to torture or other cruel, inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment or that disciplinary sanctions for detained children do not include a prohibition of contact with family members;

(s) Taking appropriate measures to prevent and respond to the separation of children from their families in humanitarian contexts, inter alia, through the promotion of family reunification;

(t) Taking appropriate measures to protect children who are victims of trafficking and are deprived of parental care, as well as enacting and enforcing legislation to prevent trafficking in and exploitation of children in care facilities, and supporting children who have been trafficked in returning to their families and receiving appropriate mental health and psychological assistance, and taking appropriate measures to prevent and address the harms related to volunteering programmes in orphanages, including in the context of tourism, which can lead to trafficking and exploitation;
