Strengthening the crime programme of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime and the role of the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice as its governing body, including administrative, strategic management and budgetary questionsStrategy for the period 2008-2011 for the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime*Note by the SecretariatSummary*

This strategy for the period 2008-2011 was prepared in response to Commission on Narcotic Drugs resolution 48/14, in which the Commission urged the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime to continue to develop an overarching strategy, in consultation with Member States. During the intersessional period leading to the fiftieth session of the Commission on Narcotic Drugs and the sixteenth session of the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice, the Office engaged in a process of consultation with Member States, intergovernmental organizations, non-governmental organizations and other stakeholders and made presentations and engaged in discussions at the intersessional meetings of the Commission on Narcotic Drugs and the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice. On that basis, the Chairman of the Commission on Narcotic Drugs discussed the matter at the first and second intersessional meetings of the Commission on Narcotic Drugs, while parallel discussions were held at the intersessional meetings of the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice. Following those discussions, at the intersessional meetings of each Commission held on 4 October 2006, the Commissions decided to establish an open-ended informal Group of Friends of the Chairpersons of the Commission on Crime Prevention and Criminal Justice and the Commission on Narcotic Drugs to further consult on this matter. At the first meeting, the Group invited the two chairpersons to prepare a revised version of the strategy of the Office for further consideration by the Group of Friends at its second meeting, scheduled for 10 January 2007. On 14 December 2006, the two chairpersons circulated a revised draft strategy to permanent missions accredited to the United Nations (Vienna) as the basis for discussions for the January meeting, which was to consider the strategy and the action to be taken by the Commissions at their forthcoming sessions. The Group of Friends of the Chairpersons had sixteen meetings and agreed on the content of the strategy at its last meeting, on 8 February 2007.

I. Strategy for the period 2008-2011

The mission of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC) is to contribute to the achievement of security and justice for all by making the world safer from crime, drugs and terrorism.

The present strategy translates this vision into a platform for action. It is based on the existing mandates of UNODC and links them to results and does not represent a modification of these mandates. The strategy grew out of extensive consultations with all the stakeholders of the Office.

It is built on five premises:

(a) Crime, drugs and terrorism are universal challenges. Effective responses to these threats include national, regional and international responses, based on the principle of shared responsibility;

(b) The United Nations helps define these international responses; becomes custodian of the relevant international legal instruments when adopted; facilitates international cooperation; keeps the world informed about how the problem in question is evolving; and assists Member States, when requested, in building domestic capacity and in translating the multilateral standards into national practice;

(c) An important part of the established mandates of UNODC is to facilitate the ratification and implementation of the relevant international conventions on crime, drugs and terrorism;

(d) UNODC has a comparative advantage to contribute, in compliance with its mandates, to this multilateral response, in particular, in offering:

- Normative services: facilitating the effective implementation of existing international legal instruments and their transformation into global norms and, where appropriate, facilitating negotiation of international legal instruments
- Research and analysis
- Technical assistance: assisting Member States, upon request, in signing and ratifying relevant international legal instruments and facilitating implementation of these instruments; and providing member States, upon request, with legislative assistance and facilitating national capacity-building, inter alia, in the area of multilateral standards and norms

(e) These services must be consistent with, and indeed contribute to, the wider efforts of the United Nations towards peace, security and development.

The strategy responds to the following needs, expressed by the many different stakeholders of UNODC:

➤ The need for more stable, predictable and sufficient funding. Currently 12 per cent (US$ 16.1 million) of UNODC's annual budget of US$ 135.9 million comes from the regular budget of the United Nations. The remaining 88 per cent comes from voluntary contributions of Member States to two separate trust funds. Most of these contributions are earmarked. Although the increase in earmarked contributions represents a vote of confidence in UNODC by Member States, it creates an unstable and unpredictable funding situation, making it difficult to plan even one year ahead. UNODC must grow to respond to the greater demand for its services. The resources provided to UNODC should be commensurate with the mandates and the tasks entrusted to it.

➤ Given the wide array of mandates, the need to operationalize results within UNODC's established mandates and in conformity with the Financial Rules and Regulations of the United Nations and the Regulations and Rules Governing Programme Planning.

➤ The need to find the right mix of normative, analytical and operational functions within the mandates of the UNODC programmes. While it is clear that the Office must do all three, the specific mix will vary according to time and place, and to the particular issue being addressed. As custodian of the relevant international treaties and with its accumulated in-house expertise, UNODC has a comparative advantage in helping Member States translate international legal commitments into operational standards and norms.

➤ The need to improve horizontal integration. The interrelationship between drugs, crime and terrorism should be reflected, where appropriate and in accordance with established mandates of UNODC, in UNODC's work in the provision of technical assistance.

➤ The need to balance expertise between headquarters and the field. Increase expertise and presence in the field, with due regard to project activity, through, among others, different arrangements in partnership with other United Nations entities, while maintaining optimal staffing levels at headquarters.

➤ The need to specify results to be achieved, resources required for this, to carry out effective programme delivery and to produce these concrete results. The consolidated biennial budget should become a real tool for the planning and use of human and financial resources required for the effective implementation of the programmes. UNODC should be accountable for delivering results and all member States should be able to see how funds are being spent.

The UNODC strategy for the period 2008-2011 responds to the needs outlined above and is a joint undertaking of all the stakeholders of UNODC. This joint undertaking applies both to the formulation of this strategy, which has been done, and to its implementation. The means to secure the involvement of all stakeholders in the implementation is the consolidated biennial budget in full compliance with relevant General Assembly resolutions and financial rules and regulations.

In support of the strategy, which will be reflected in the strategic framework and the consolidated biennial budget, UNODC will develop an implementation plan as an internal managerial tool, which will show:

- How each concrete result specified in the strategy will be achieved
- How much it will cost
- Where each activity will be carried out (country, region, world)
- Who (in terms of work units) will be responsible for it
- Which projects will contribute to achieving it

- What performance indicators will be used to measure its achievement

Actions under this strategy contribute towards the protection and empowerment of those most vulnerable, in particular women and children, and to secure their lives, livelihoods and dignity.¹

II. Objectives and results

UNODC will concentrate on three themes: rule of law; policy and trend analysis; and prevention, treatment and reintegration, and alternative development.

1. Rule of law

The rule of law is the basis for providing security and justice for all. It is therefore the cornerstone of UNODC's work. UNODC has assisted in the development of the international instruments on drugs and crime. It is the secretariat and custodian of the drug and crime conventions and protocols. The United Nations Global Counter-Terrorism Strategy, in which Member States expressed their resolve to condemn terrorism in all its forms and manifestations committed by whomever, wherever and for whatever purposes and recognized UNODC as the lead office for the delivery of legal assistance in preventing terrorism.

Main objectives

- To promote, at the request of Member States, effective responses to crime, drugs and terrorism by facilitating the implementation of relevant international legal instruments

2. Policy and trend analysis

Effective policy must be based on accurate information. Policy and trend analysis is essential to measuring trends, highlighting problems, learning lessons and evaluating effectiveness. Scientific and forensic findings enrich policy and trend analysis by providing the basis for accurate information in specific areas.

Better data and improved national capacity to collect data are needed to support and enhance the international community's responses to crime and illicit drugs. There is also a greater need for counter-terrorism legal analysis in order to carry out technical assistance.

3. Prevention, treatment and reintegration, and alternative development

Drugs, crime, corruption and terrorism affect the lives of individuals and are major obstacles to sustainable development.

Addressing drug abuse and illicit drug production requires a shared responsibility. Prevention, reduction and the elimination of the cultivation of illicit drug crops are integral to achieving sustainable development and require special policies and greater efforts on the part of all member States. In this regard, alternative development, an important component of a balanced and comprehensive drug control strategy, is intended to create a supportive environment for the implementation of that strategy, in contributing in an integrated way to the eradication of poverty, thus contributing to the attainment of Millennium Development Goals.

Main objectives:
