U.S. and ROK Navies, including Carl Vinson Carrier Strike Group, participate in Exercise Foal Eagle 2017.

U.S.-ROK Alliance Decision to Deploy THAAD

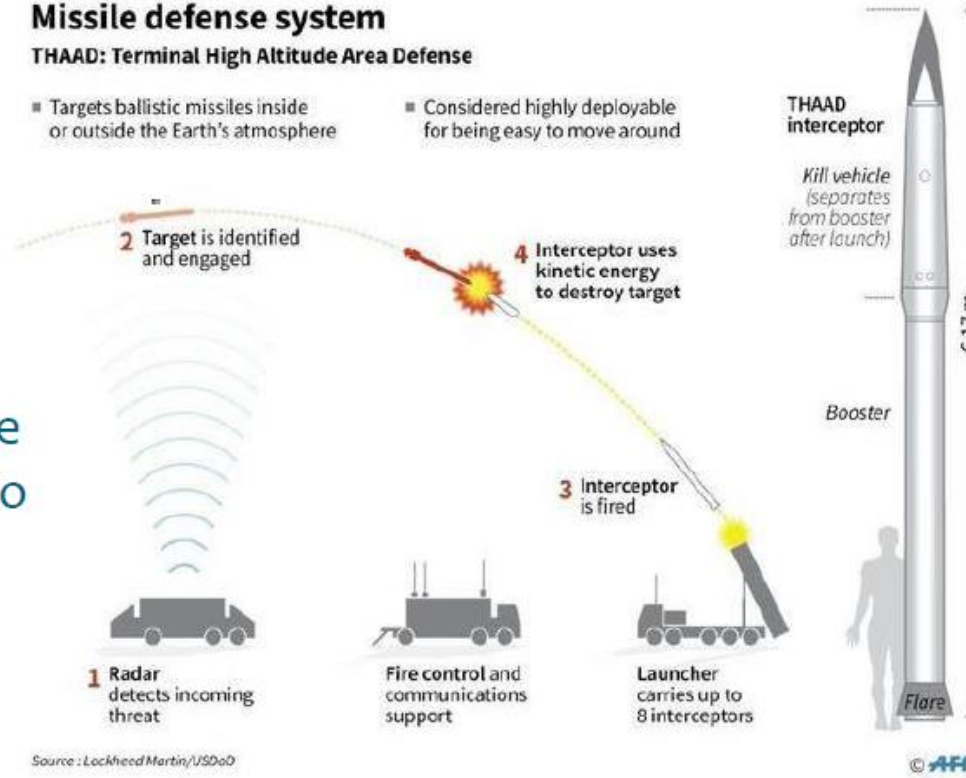

- * THAAD is purely defensive in nature.
- * North Korea's continued pursuit of WMD strike capabilities require defensive measures to be put in place.
- * U.S. ballistic missile defense systems are not designed to negate China or Russia's strategic deterrent.

Missile defense system

THAAD: Terminal High Altitude Area Defense

- Targets ballistic missiles inside or outside the Earth's atmosphere
- Considered highly deployable for being easy to move around

A Terminal High Altitude Area Defense (THAAD) interceptor is launched from the Pacific Spaceport Complex Alaska in Kodiak, Alaska, during Flight Experiment THAAD-01, July 30, 2017. During the test, the THAAD weapon system successfully intercepted an air-launched, medium-range ballistic missile target.

North Korea's missile and nuclear programs pose a global threat.
Necessity of coordinated regional and international diplomatic, economic and (defensive) military responses is clear.

- * In Northeast Asia, U.S.-ROK-Japan military cooperation is crucial to deterring aggression and maintaining peace and stability.
